To the Dairymen of Coos County

Since our COMPANY located in your County the promoters of the "Dairymen's League" of Portland have been conducting a campaign for memberships here, during which it has pleased them to make certain attacks on and threats against us.

This COMPANY is desirous of buying milk from any and ALL DAIRYMEN who desire to become its patrons. We located in Coos County because of its many natural advantages as a growing Dairy section and look forward to doing our part in the County's up-building. The record of the COMPANY has consistently been one of constructive effort, never that of tearing down.

We believe in the fullest possible co-operation between all necessary elements of the dairy industry. "Co-operation" is a magic word. But misguided co-operation has only brought disaster.

Because of its arbitrary tactics, its poorly worked out theories and its unsound financial plans, we believe the so-called Dairymen's League is MIS-GUIDED CO-OPERATION. It is what you might term "Co-operation Among Promoters."

For these reasons the COMPANY has refused to recognize this League or to have any dealings with its officials. This policy we will continue to follow, preferring to deal directly with our patrons.

We will gladly continue to buy from and deal directly with all Dairymen who desire to ship to us. We will continue at all times to pay the full market price for all milk received.

Such market price is not fixed by us, for our friends and patrons must realize that we cannot pay a higher price for our raw material, than will enable us to compete in the markets of the World with our finished product.

Any attempt to control and force unnatural high milk prices in Coos County, so her products cannot successfully so compete, can only end in disaster to the Dairying Industry of the County.

Farm and Home a Unit.

Port Orford Tribune
An editorial in a local exchange last week compares the violators of our game law with the petty thief who is a menace to society, and urges its readers to help the officers apprehend and convict game law violators ("thieves," as it calls them) whenever they can. The article in question was under the heading, "Help the Game Protector."

The Tribune does not advocate the violation of any law, but instead of "help the game protector," we say "help protect the game." And this should be done in a sane and sensible way, following the spirit of the law rather than the letter of it.

It is true there are those who hunt during closed season who deserve conviction, and in many such instances the game warden is helped by local residents in his attempt to secure evidence that will convict, but, on the other hand, there are more who hunt during open season that are real law violators. As a rule the closed season hunter is a resident of the county who is interested in the protection of its game, while many of the open season hunters are would-be sports, out for a good time, and don't care how much game they destroy and waste.

We believe that the settlers who are undergoing the inconveniences, and oftentimes hardship, of developing a new country are entitled to the benefits of its natural resources. Such resources should, of course, be conserved, but, for instance, there are better ways of conserving our deer than by convicting every settler who provides meat for his family by killing a buck out of season, and to call all such settlers thieves is an unwarranted accusation that slurs many men whose honesty and integrity are above question.
