To Protect Water Supply

The Myrtle Point American says that at last week's meeting of the city council there the matter of purchasing from the government 120 acres of land surrounding the springs from which Myrtle Point draws its water supply was taken up. This was arranged for through a bill passed by congress that had been introduced by Representative Hawley, the purchase being made with a view to protect the water supply of the city, by preserving the trees and brush that shade the watershed. The price to be paid is $2.50 per acre and 50 cents per thousand for 50,000 feet of timber on one forty. While the council did not consider that the purchase would increase the supply of water it was considered necessary to protect what was available, and if the city is ever compelled to seek a large source of supply and move to another location it is considered that the tract can be sold for at least as much as it cost, and perhaps at a profit.

What Mothers Ought to Do Wrong

(By the Juvenile Officer)

"Frequently I am questioned by the mothers of juvenile delinquents throughout the county. 'What is the cause of juvenile delinquency throughout the state?' I have officiated for nine years as juvenile officer and during that time great changes have taken place throughout the county.

"The advent of the automobile and the moving picture shows has strewn the pathway of the younger generation with alluring pitfalls and without the proper parental care the boys and girls fall by the wayside.

"The automobile is a useful, and essential luxury. I will admit, but it at the same time has been harmful to young people. When a 'two-bit' young man, with a cigarette as his earthly possession uses an automobile to decoy young girls to their downfall, it is time for the mothers to wake up and take notice and save their daughters from a ruined life, for the good name of a young girl once thrown in the limelight can seldom be regained.

"From experience I am firmly convinced that good advice and kind words will accomplish more than the drastic arm of the law. Experience has taught me that in a case of a young girl in the springtime of life and just blooming into womanhood, who has faltered and is about to wander from the right road, she will listen to advice. Tell her that her name has not yet been publicly shamed, advise her to correct her ways, and four times out of five she will retrace her course and thank you for the aid.

"Mothers must let their aid be more than simply advice. To mothers I would say, invite the young people to your home for pleasant pastime. Anyone not fit to admit to your family circle is certainly not a suitable associate for your daughter. Let the fire-sides of the parents be a pleasant place for proper recreation, and delinquency will to a great extent adjust itself.

"The courts are lenient. The officials do not want to send boys to the reform school and girls to the state homes if it can possibly be avoided.

"The modern boy is somewhat different from the boy of some years ago. He has what he believes are modern ways. A certain class of movie pictures which are shown, are an important factor in luring boys from the soil and the more sober works of life and giving them a desire for something sensational beyond realization in everyday life. Augmented by the dime novel, the mind of the boy is cultivated to think that some day he will become a hero or successful bandit.

"There is still another evil which confronts the young people of today. That is the so-called dance of the present day. In the past that by many is forgotten, the dances were conducted respectably and enjoyed morally, and decency prevailed. But the modern dance of today, not always, of course, but at least in some cases, would bring the blush of shame to the faces of respectable people. Young men will enter a ballroom with a package of cigarettes in one pocket and a bottle of moonshine in another as his assets and call it a society fad. I have seen such things occur in a good many instances.

"A good dance, conducted properly, is a good acquisition to the entertainment of the young people and a pleasant and harmless recreation. So let the mothers see that when their daughters attend dances they are of the proper sort which will give them clean entertainment and not endanger their morals.

"Recently my attention was called to the case of a young girl and boy who entered a store about 11 o'clock at night and appropriated a small amount of candy. Upon investigation I did not consider the children responsible for their acts. The mother had gone to a show and finished up the evening with an automobile ride, while her children, not being watched, had gotten into mischief. I did not reprimand the children, but simply told the mother that if she would not look after her children I would recommend to the court to take them away from her. I did not have any more trouble from that source. This was one of the many cases where the parent is to blame. The mothers must give attention to their children or they are quite likely to go wrong.

"Recently the Rev. Mr. Jeter, who has been conducting a series of revival meetings at Coquille, was eloquently illustrative. He demonstrated the pitfalls which confront the younger generation and throw them into evil habits. I regret that every mother in Coos county did not hear him, for I believe that the advice he gave if followed would eliminate much of the trouble.

"It must be remembered that children are not to blame if allowed to be surrounded with evil environment. It is the duty of parents to keep children away from bad associates as much as possible. I regret to say that lack of parental care in a great many cases is the cause of the down-

Can Hunt Duck Now

Speaking of the duck hunting season which opens tomorrow the Marshfield News says:

To all appearances game was never so plentiful as it is now and will be open the open season opens Saturday, October 16, for ducks, geese, rails, coots, Wilson of Jack snipe and greater and lesser yellowlegs. Indictments at Eugene

Among those indicted by the Lane county grand jury this week were L. E. Dole and Edwin Sink, who are known in Coos county. Dole was arrested in this county and returned to Eugene and several Coos county men were called as witnesses against him. Sheriff Gage holds a warrant for Sink when his case is disposed of here. Sheriff Stickels, of Eugene, says that Sink, or Potter, as he is sometimes known, is a champion prevaricator, judging from letters he writes from the jail.

Concerning the indictments, the Eugene Register says: "The Lane county grand jury yesterday returned indictments against our persons who had been arrested on a charge of passing bad checks and spent some time examining witnesses in the case of W. R. Elliott, charged with the murder of Vivian Junten. Those indicted are: Edwin Sink, alias Potter, uttering a forged instrument, and L. E. Dole, Sherman Douglas and Gilbert Jones, obtaining money under false pretenses.

Sink, or Potter, who was arrested in San Francisco, is accused of issuing a forged check for $15 on a Myrtle Point bank; Douglas, who was first arrested on the charge of adultery, is accused of issuing a bad check to Swatz Bros. of Lost Creek ranch; L. E. Dole is accused of issuing a bad check for $150 to Henry Bastion and Gilbert Jones is charged with issuing bad checks to F. E. Henderson.

Coyotes Drive Out Sheep

George Kolhagen, the Roseburg stockman, was in town over Sunday night on his way north with a band of 400 head of sheep that he had bought from Robt. Fromm, of Brush creek. These are the sheep Mr. Fromm has sold because he is going out of business on account of the coyotes. Mr. Kolhagen also bought a few sheep in this vicinity, and his drove numbered about 500 when it left the county.—Port Orford Tribune.

If you were scorned would you forgive?—would you take the blame for another's crime?—would you bow to insults? And if you did, would you think it only your duty?
