Mr. Hacker's Talk to the Eighth Grade Graduates.

This is the occasion for bouquets. I fear you will think that I have gathered a stinky bunch to throw to you. Instead of bouquets, "We greet you, grasp your hands in ours, And crown you with good wishes as with flowers."

The first year that Eighth Grade diplomas were granted, I heard several ambitious mothers tell how hard their children were studying to pass, and how worried those children were for fear they would not pass their examinations. It meant for those who passed, that their school days were ended, unless they were fortunate enough to be able to attend school away from home. I did not then know the requirements for an eighth grade diploma. I only knew that most of those pupils were too young to quit school, and that it was a shame and a crime to deprive them of further schooling.

I remember long ago of reading an incident where a graduate from some institute, I do not remember whether a young man or young woman—will presume it was a young man, for no Sweet Girl Graduate would likely say such a foolish thing—well, he said he had received his hard earned diploma, and had finished his education. A learned professor hearing the remark, grasped him by the hand, and congratulated him that he had finished his education so young, and said of himself, "I have always been a diligent scholar, and now I fear that life will be too short for me to finish my education."

It is the policy and the duty of the State, and the purpose of the public school, to fit the children for citizenship. It is as necessary for the safety of the Republic as a standing army.

Parents are not always able to give their children schooling; besides, they are not the ones who receive the benefits. It is the community in which the child when grown, may reside, and the country at large who are benefited, aside from the benefits, enjoyment and blessings the child directly receives. It takes a lot of strong adjectives to describe the high type of the American citizen.

"Beyond the Alps lies Italy." The State Superintendent and Department of Public Instruction can adopt a course of study, fix grades, provide for graduating eighth grade pupils, substitute crude text books on Civil Government for choicest selections of classics for reading lessons.

Commercialism can tunnel the Alps, but the school board can make no short cut for producing our ideal type of American Citizen. Hannibal crossed the Alps into Italy. He studied, planned, directed, toiled upward and onward, and when he met obstacles he overcame them, and with fire and vinegar when necessary.

No better place can be found than the well governed and conducted public school for fitting the young for citizenship. It requires punctuality, promptness, neatness, order, attention, politeness, purpose, concentration, honor and much more, besides hard work, to educate, develop and discipline the pupil to citizenship. It is then that our country is safe in his hands. When her institutions are assailed, he is not found in the mob.

Pig iron is worth about $12 per ton. It can be worked into thousands of useful things of value. Into simple nails or refined into steel its value is increased four fold. And think of the innumerable things of value made of steel. Monster battle ships and cruisers, with all their machinery and armament, all kinds of machinery and instruments, massive to the most delicate, some of them worth millions a ton, are made of steel. Did you ever examine a window weight? It is made of the crudest and poorest pot metal.

I know an object that was once a boy, who might have made something valuable and useful. All he ever made of himself was a weight. Not a useful kind, like a window weight; but the kind that holds down sidewalks. The only use you could make of him would be to lift something, and then you would have to make a weight of him, and like a window weight, hang him to the long end of a lever. Let me tell you, that it pays to refine pig iron into steel and then make something of it.

Carnegie made two hundred millions out of steel, and now he is occupied building libraries.

Your motto—"Not Drifting but Rowing"—is a good one. Success depends on your determination; yet much can be gained by taking advantage of opportunities, keeping in the current, pulling with the tide.

I know an honest, hard-working man, who for years peddled garden truck and fruit to the logging camps and coal mines on the Bay and its sloughs. He was fearfully handicapped all his life. He was born a few hours too late and never caught up. He did not drift. He always pulled, but always against the tide. No doubt had he received good wholesome school discipline he would have caught up and pulled with the tide.

I read your letters to the Superintendent, and am pleased with your determination to continue your studies. I hope by the time you have finished the tenth, that higher grades will be established. This will depend altogether on you. If you come solid the board of directors will be too glad to make a place for you.

Several of you intend to visit the Lewis & Clark Fair. All who can should do so. You will learn a wonderful lot that will be always of benefit and enjoyment to you. And such an opportunity may never occur again.

I once advised a young lady teacher to take advantage of an opportunity to improve herself in a particular study, one that would help her in her work, and be a source of enjoyment to her all her life. She said she was afraid it would not pay. She estimated the accomplishment, as her thrifty father reckoned the profits on a carcass of beef, by the value of the pumpkins consumed in fattening the critter.

I wish you would form a class in reading and reciting. Now you have an opportunity which you should take advantage of. I drop the word Elocution. It sounds too ponderous. It suggests Yell-ocution, and I am pleased to say that Yell-ocution has been getting delightfully out of fashion these many years—since Vivian, Eli Perkins and others of the same school commenced giving recitations and readings. Instead of yelling they tell interesting and amusing stories and anecdotes, and impersonate every nationality, dialect and character.

We like to attend home-made entertainments, and it is a fine accomplishment to be able to do your part. Perhaps everyone of you may not be able to become an accomplished reciter, yet you can all be improved in reading, and the benefit cannot be estimated by the cost and effort. Select parts suited to your voice and manner and if you can act it will not be necessary to select pieces to yell. People go to entertainments to be amused. Cut out the heavy parts. The public does not care to hear an amateur murder "The Manacled Maniac."

In advising you to take advantage of Mrs. Wooten's instructions while you have the opportunity, which is seldom offered in a little village like this, I do so not directly to turn water onto her wheel, but to keep your machinery running. Now I want to tell you something about some brothers of the one I left hanging at the long end of the lever. One of them is always telling of the opportunities he has had. Millions in some of them.

The reason he failed was that he could find no one who would grubstake him. Say, if he were never so hungry, and it rained soup, it would do him no good. He has no spoon.

Another of the brothers is always boasting of the hard work he did when a young man. If he ever loved hard work, they must have had a falling out and parted company. The only work he was ever known to do was pulling hen's teeth.

In the little village where they grew up there was a little peanut joint. On each side of the entrance was a yellow sign, with a column of things for sale within. Fresh roasted peanuts, pop corn balls, pop beer, ginger cakes, candy, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and fire crackers. By the side of the chebang was a place where boys and idle men pitched horse shoes to see which should pay for the treats. It was here where these boys formed their habits of industry and thrift.

Now these diplomas which I have the pleasure to present to you, I hope that each of you will receive as a token of your achievement at your early age, or perhaps against adverse opportunity, and that it will be to you a memento that will encourage you, and spur you to greater and higher things, and that in after years, with your increased learning and wisdom, you can look back on this as the day of small things, with pride and satisfaction, and with no cause to despise it.

Peace Probable.

New York, June 10.—The Associated Press has definite knowledge that both the Russian and the Japanese governments have accepted President Roosevelt's suggestion, and that a meeting of representatives of the two contending powers is assured.

Tokio, June 10 (6 p m).—Japan has agreed to President Roosevelt's suggestion to appoint plenipotentiaries to meet Russian plenipotentiaries.

St. Petersburg, June 10.—It was stated at the Foreign Office this afternoon that Russia is ready to appoint representatives to hear the Japanese proposals, on being informed that Japan is nominating representatives for this purpose.

Try it for whooping cough, for asthma, for consumption, for bronchitis. Mrs. Joe McGrath, 327 E. 1st Street Hutchinson, writes: "I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup in my family for 5 years, and find it the most palatable medicine I ever used.—sold by R. S. Knowlton.

Death of Hiram F. Tenneson.

Again we are reminded of the frequency of the occasions upon which we are called upon to note the departure to the great beyond of our old pioneer citizens and friends. At this time it is Hiram F. Tenneson to whom we bid goodbye.

The deceased was born in Lawrence county, Tennessee, Jan. 29, 1830, and died in Coquille City, Oregon, June 10th, 1905, aged 75 years, four months, 11 days. He was married to Martha Edwards on August 15, 1849. To this union were born four children, one son and three daughters. Mrs. Tenneson died June 25, 1859. On September 27, 1865, he was married to Susan Clark, and to them were born two sons and two daughters. Two sons and daughters have preceded him into the life beyond. He leaves a companion, one son and three daughters, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his departure. Mr. Tenneson was a kind father and honorable citizen. He served as captain in the confederate army four years. He was also a member of the Masonic lodge. In his travels he came from Tennessee to Arkansas in 1847, and then to Washington, crossing the plains in 1873. They moved to Oregon in 1875, and have lived in the vicinity of Coquille over 30 years. He was a constant sufferer for over two years but never murmured, but bore it all patiently till the Angel of Death came. He made a profession of religion a number of years ago, and was a firm believer.

Funeral services were conducted by H. M. Branham, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, and the members of the Masonic lodge of Coquille, laid the remains to rest according to their burial ceremonies.

"CHAPPIES" DEFEAT BANDON

Cartwright a Tower of Strength to the Locals.

A congenial looking chap by the name of "Wally" Cartwright, hailing from the raisin growing district of the San Joaquin valley, in California, landed in town last Saturday evening and helped the "Chappies" win from the Bandon team last Sunday by his great stick work. A three bagger, a two bagger and a single were the "fruits" of his efforts with the willow.

About 300 fans crowded on the ferry boat with the confidence that their "idols" would bring victory and joy home with them.

The "rooters" to show their appreciation of the good work done by the team decorated their manager with the colors, red and white, and when the steamer hooved in sight of the wharf the anxious ones who were unable to go knew that victory had been brought home.

The features of the game was the heavy hitting of Cartwright, Streib, Robinson and Peralta, and the fielding of both sides.

Cooper for the "Chappies" was in fine form and kept the hits well scattered until the ninth inning when Peralta met with a painful injury, which almost became disastrous for the home team, as Cooper ceased up and the Bandonites scored five runs.

Hughes started to pitch for the Bandonites but retired in favor of McKune in the 4th inning, who fared no better as the locals had their batting eyes with them.

The Chappies started their ranning in the second and third inning when they made three runs and in the seventh they added six more. In this inning with the bases full Cooper knocked a three bagger and finally scoring himself on an error of the third baseman in endeavoring to catch the preceding runner.

In the eighth they added another and before you will find the table of how the victory was won.

A Card.

We have just received a shipment of standard make pianos from the eastern factories, a portion of which we have forwarded from San Francisco to different points on the Coquille river. These instruments were shipped in harness, car load lots, and the actual cost of transportation from New York averaged $24.65 on each piano to Coquille City. It is needless to say that rates so advantageous to the buyer never before have been given to the people of Coos county. This shipment consists of the well-known makes of Sterling, Marshall & Wendall and Erhardt pianos, all of which carries with them a guarantee for a period of ten years. These goods were bought for cash at the lowest possible figure, and it is not idle talk to say that for the foregoing reasons we are prepared to sell a better piano for less money than ever before offered to the people of southwestern Oregon.

It is our motto to handle goods only of first class manufacture, and nearly a half hundred Coos county buyers for nineteen hundred and four are on the list to back us up in this statement, all of whom we are glad to give as reference for square dealing. With thanks for past patronage, anticipating good will from all, we subscribe ourselves,
Yours truly,
E. M. FURMAN CO.

Cuban Diarrhoea.

U. S. soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is, and ordinary remedies have little more effect than so much water. Cuban diarrhoea is almost as severe and dangerous as a mild attack of cholera. There is one remedy, however, that can always be depended upon as will be seen by the following certificate from Mrs. Minnie Jacobs of Houston, Texas: "I hereby certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhoea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors out they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale by R. S. Knowlton.
