Woman Driving Man to the Soil.

Detroit, Aug. 15.—The annual convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors opened here today. About 150 delegates were present. The speech of Mr. Bodine, Superintendent of Compulsory Education at Chicago, was the feature of the day, and created a mild sensation among the delegates. The speaker produced Federal statutes covering the past 20 years, showing that the industrial competition of women, children and machine labor was driving the men out of the large cities to fields of heavy manual labor in mining and agriculture. He declared that women were destined to be the ruling sex in industrialism, and continued:

"Man, like the Indian, is dying out and being driven out. In 1890 there were 3,914,571 women who were employed in gainful occupations in America. In 1900 the number had increased to 5,329,807. The birth rate among the female occupations is increasing, and the death rate decreasing. It is just the reverse among the males. We are rapidly drifting to the age of the 'eternal feminine,' when man will be a back number and forced to return to the soil and to those fields of labor where only his physical endurance will save him in the struggle for survival."

In discussing the competitive life for the leadership in society, the speaker said:

"Society is dying out at the top. It is a crystal maze of glass houses, where no occupant dares cast the first stone; the dangerous example, the academy of divorce. Society has mothers who are slaves to the siren calls of fashion and frivolity, who look more often into their mirrors than into the faces of their children. With a fashionable mother gadding about at social functions and a fashionable father at his club, the result will be that within a decade the question of the neglected children of the men will become as great a social problem as that of the neglected children of the poor."

What is believed to be the death knell of racing at least for the present season in Portland was sounded when Presiding Judge Frazer this morning decreed that the injunction recently issued against selling pools at Irvington racetrack would stand until September 7, when final hearing of the case would be had. Though it is believed an effort at compromise will be made, it is not expected to prove successful, and even though it did and the civil suit were withdrawn, the court has plainly ruled pool-selling to be against the law and criminal action could be started. Racehorse men and the Multnomah Fair Association have lost much money through the litigation and delay it has necessitated, and it is expected the horses will leave the track within the next few days and seek a more congenial locality.—Portland Telegram.

Detective Stories That are the Real Thing.

The Cosmopolitan has been fortunate enough to secure the "Confessions of a New York Detective," made by an ex-Captain of Police. This remarkable narrative will be run serially, beginning in the September issue. It bids fair to prove far more interesting and exciting than any imagined detective story, for it deals directly with those phases of life and their supervision by the police upon which all the ingenious yarns of clever writers are formed. Henry Raleigh is illustrating the Confessions, and is making some very realistic drawings.

Portland, Aug. 16.—Articles of incorporation of the Wallula Pacific Railway were filed today at Vancouver. The capital stock is $1,000,000, backed up by Eastern capitalists. The project is to build down the north bank of the Columbia river to the mouth bank near Wallula.

Duprey's Celery Headache Powders, give instant relief. Price 25 cents. R. S. Knowlton, Coquille City; C. Y. Lowe, Bandon.

The "Trans-Mississippi" Region

Every year the "trans-Mississippi" portion of the country—a term coined east of that river—becomes relatively more important. It is the more interesting half of the country in that it is yet more susceptible of more development than the eastern half. It is the country west of the Mississippi that chiefly invites settlement and the new or increased utilization of hitherto uncultivated and as to a large aggregate area barren soil. It is on this side the Mississippi that irrigation will reclaim tens of millions of acres of land. It is in this half of the country that nearly all the great forests lie, and that all its gold, silver and copper are produced. It contains the greatest wheat and corn states, raises most of the livestock, has the highest mountains, the broadest prairies, the freshest air, the freest men and women.

Not so many years ago the trans-Mississippi region was considered a howling wilderness, except for a few large spots. Now multitudes of eastern people have learned that from many points of view it is the healthier, richer and better portion of the country, and the one offering more opportunities to the average young man or woman of health, strength and spirit.

The Pacific Coast region is the finest, fairest, most comfortable and delightful portion of the great trans-Mississippi region. Girt by sea and mountains, it is free from interior drawbacks. Soil rich; climate mild; resources great; opportunities numberless—it is fitting that the trans-Mississippi congress should meet here in Portland, the chief city of a large segment of the vast Pacific Coast region.

This organization has done much good, and will do much. Its purposes are helpful, beneficial, praiseworthy. The spirit which animates its leading workers is noble. Its members deserve a warm welcome and cordial support.—Portland Journal.

Powder Works Co. up Again

Oakland, Aug. 16.—The Judson powder works at Fleming point, between West Berkeley and Point Richmond, were blown up at 12:52.

There were two distinct explosions and immediately after the explosions the debris took fire and the flames spread to all the buildings on the point.

No one was killed, but five were injured and two may die. The explosion occurred in the mixing plant.

The flames are now spreading over Fleming point and there is considerable danger of further explosions. The men are afraid to fight the fire for fear of further disaster. The explosion occurred while the men were returning from lunch and had not reached the building that blew up. No explanation is given for the explosion.

Chase Bad Men Out.

Basin, Mont., Aug. 15.—Vigilantes of the Big Horn basin, who formed several weeks ago for the purpose of ridding that section of a number of outlaws and bad men in general, are fast accomplishing their purpose. Two deaths have been laid at the door of the organization, in addition to the departure of more than a dozen bad characters. Others who received orders to leave are preparing to do so.

The first death was that of Rob McCoy, a rustler and notorious character, whose body was found by the roadside minus its left ear, the sign of the vigilantes. A week later Wm. Madison was found swinging on a limb, his left ear cut off. Last week Jack Hamilton, one of the leading rustlers of the basin, was attacked by masked vigilantes and chased several miles, but he escaped with two bullet wounds and left the country.

The vigilantes are composed of the best men in the Big Horn basin, and are unofficially known as every-body. Law officials wink at their actions and make no effort to interfere.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The laws adopted in some cities against spitting on the sidewalks appears to have added zest to the dirty performance.

Whether or not the country needs public ownership of public utilities, it certainly does need public ownership of public officials.

The price of beef has increased since the federal prosecution of the Beef Trust began. That's easy, the Trust needs the money to pay legal expenses.

John Paul Jones, the first American Admiral, was allowed to die in penury and neglect in a Paris tenement house. Now that he has been dead over one hundred years half the leading cities in the Union are seeking to do him honor.

Great Britain is preparing to construct an 18,000 ton battleship. She is to be driven by turbines and to have a maximum speed of 20 knots or 23 miles an hour. She is to carry ten 12 inch guns which she will be able to fire at a rate of three discharges in two minutes, each discharge carrying a projectile weighing 850 pounds. The new ship, which is to be called the Dreadnaught, will, if it fulfills expectations, revolutionize naval architecture, as will be appreciated when it is reflected that the largest vessels now afloat are but 16,000 tons and the largest now building of but 16,500 tons. Moreover, the vessels now in commission and building carry only a few 12 inch guns which are supplemented with secondary batteries of smaller guns, 8 inch, 6 inch and a few one pounders, but chiefly 6 inch rifles. The Dreadnaught will cost Great Britain $10,000,000. If the Dreadnaught proves a success then every navy in the world will be regarded as more or less obsolete. The naval officers of the American navy will immediately beseege Congress to appropriate untold millions with which to construct 18,000 ton battleships and the 16,000 ton vessels which we now regard with such pride will be referred to as "mere cockle shells. This is the unfortunate part of a big navy. The expense at any time is frightful and the millions which have been and are being invested in the best class of vessels which naval architects can design are liable to be rendered useless at any time by the invention of a new explosive, the designing of a new and more powerful fighting machine, etc. We are a long way from universal disarmament, but certainly the growing expense of maintaining naval and military establishments would seem likely to contribute to that end.

Japan's Terms of Peace.

Portsmouth, August 10.—Reimbursement of cost of war: Cession of Sakhalin. Cession of Russian leases of Liaotum Peninsula, comprising Port Arthur and Dalny. Evacuation of Manchuria, retrocession to China of privileges there and recognition of open door. Cession of Chinese Eastern Railway below Harbin. Recognition of Japanese protectorate over Korea. Fishing rights in Siberia north of Vladivostok.

Relinquishment of interned Russian ships.

Limitation of Russian naval strength in Far East.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by R. S. Knowlton.

Mr. Roosevelt Wears Suit That Costs Only $4.

New York, Aug. 13.—The World prints the following copyright cable: The London World, in its "Celebrities at Home," publishes an interview with Robert J. Wynne, the American Consul General, in which he says: "In America we dress according to the weather. The last time I saw President Roosevelt I wore a suit of Hollands. It was at the White House in Washington, and, of course, the suit was little free and easy for an official visit, so I apologized. "Mr. President," said I, "I make my excuse for appearing before such a great person as yourself, and on such an important occasion, in an outfit that cost $6." "The President stared at me, and then seized my arm. "How much did you say? he asked. "Six dollars, Mr. President." "He burst out laughing. "Well, I have beaten you," he cried. "I am nearer to the people than you are. This suit of mine cost me only four dollars."

Nothing on the Market Equal to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This fact is well known to druggists everywhere, and nine out of ten will give their customers this preparation when the best is asked for. Mr. Ob. Witmer, a prominent druggist of Joplin, Mo., in a circular to his customers, says: "There is nothing on the market in the way of patent medicine which equals Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. We sell and recommend this preparation." For sale by R. S. Knowlton.
