Notice.

We wish to say that the notice of a Mr. Ridgway in this paper an-nouncing that he would appear in Coquille as a piano repairer and salesman and tuner, etc., using our name as reference is entirely mis-leading, as we have never had any affiliation with this gentleman in any way. We are not interested in any piano tuners' fight, and this gen-tleman's notice merely goes to show that even the most common courtesy to some people costs you a world of trouble, and the sooner the public learns to overlook the few faults of their old love and not pay so dear-ly for new acquaintances who have everything to gain and nothing to lose, the better the piano standard will be. Respectfully

W. R. Haines
