The Secrecy of Silence

Wisdom has her permanent dwelling place with the woman who knows when to be silent. There are times when a simple closing of the lips is worth more than choicest speech. It is not because you were silent you are sorry, but because you were not.

There are times when the minds about us are warring one another. There is a misunderstanding in the neighborhood, trouble in the church discord in the family. Unless one is sure of bringing forth the word in season, there is nothing like the calm security of silence. It is a refuge in a time of trouble. Just being quiet. But this is not the timid silence of cowardice, nor the stubborn silence of anger. It is the golden silence of right thing. The calm-center of the storm.

We all think vastly well of our spoken word. We set a high value upon what we have said. A thought embodied in a sound we regard as a thing of importance. Just a simple unspoken thought we may be willing to give up, since nobody will know that we found ourselves mistaken. But our word! That is another matter. If we don't stick to it and stand up for it we are indeed poor creatures, and who will? We must live up to our spoken word.

We may be sorry; forgiveness, repentance, a full knowledge of the truth may enlighten us, but we said it and we cannot take it back. We gave our version of the story, we spoke our mind in the quarrel. We remember how clear we made it all when we chanced, as, alas we often did, upon a willing listener. We recollect how we reasoned it out so that the veriest fool might see our wisdom and our friend's folly. We became interested, intensely interested, and made a point of going carefully into it all.

And now that it is all past, now when the storm has blown and we see objects, that were distorted, in the direct, simple light of truth, now that the beam of unrighteous judgment has fallen from our eyes so that we see naturally, now we want to forgive and forget, but we have provided against the comfort of forgetting. We must live up to our indignation.

If only we had taken refuge in the security of silence. The tongue of the tale-bearer does indeed separate the "chiefest friends." And the tale-bearer suffers along with the rest.

Silence! Wise is the woman who takes it for her shield. It is better than the sharp tongue that is indeed a sword. Instead of word-thrust for word-thrust, the wise woman slips very quietly behind the shield of silence and the battle is a thing of the past.

Hard? But why? Would not there have been much more if she had drawn her ready sword? Is it nobler to say a hard word back than it is simply to be still?

There is a time to speak, and duty calls for words that are not always pleasant to hear. But the wise woman knows that this time has not come to her if anger is alive in the heart of her hearer. Argument is of no avail unless it grows out of honest truth-seeking. A silver-tongued orator could never convince an angry man of the simplest truth. The best thing to do is to leave the man alone. He who is angry is possessed of a devil. Unfed, the devil will depart. Then will come healing, for your charity will fill the troubled heart. This is one of the miracles of love.

Whatever may be the nature of the trouble that has come, silence in regard to it is safest and best. How can the story go is nobody tells! And if it is not a good story, thought indeed it may be a true one, it is better that it should not go abroad. Is the world better for all the pouring out upon it the vile details of crime? Is your daughter safer, your son nobler, because of the annual crop of neighborhood sins and national crime that have been carefully gathered and garnered in your inglenook?

Let the story stop right where you are. Let the quarrel die when it is your turn to speak. Let the gossip of the neighborhood skip your door.

There is dignity in simple silence that is wonderfully impressive. It means strength and self-control. It is finer and safer than the keenest sarcasm. It is by the lips that the enemy finds way to the heart's citadel. Secure is she who knows when to set upon her lips the golden seal of silence.—Ellen Wyckoff, in Ladies' World.

To Dairymen of Coquille Valley

As the stubbling season is here, I request you to thoroughly clean out all stalls and barns in which milk cows are kept, and whitewash your stables on the inside, keeping a quantity of lime on hand with which to sprinkle your stable floors after cleaning.

This should be done at least twice each week. Below you will find a copy of the law regulating dairy barns.

Yours very truly,

J. W. BAILEY
State Dairy and Food Com.
By P. McINTOSH,
Dairy Inspector.

When cows are kept by any person or persons for dairy purposes, either for butter or for cheese or for the production of milk or cream for sale, and are confined in stables, such cows so confined shall each be allowed at least eight hundred cubic feet of airspace, and such cows so stabled shall not be confined facing each other closer than ten feet, and all stables where such cows are kept shall be well ventilated and kept in a good healthful condition, and if there be any suspected diseased cows or other animals belonging to or about any dairy, said Dairy and Food Commissioner shall notify the State Veterinarian. And if any dairy (as above stated) is found to be in a filthy or unhealthy condition, the Dairy and Food commissioner shall notify the proprietor that said dairy must be put in a healthful condition; and in the event of the failure of said proprietor to put said dairy in a healthful condition within a reasonable time from the receipt of said notice, he or they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished as herein provided. (L. 1905, P. 354, §21.)

New York, Oct. 18.—A simple and brief funeral service was held today for the late Mrs. Jefferson Davis, at the Hotel Majestic, Rev. N. A. Seagle, of St. Stephens Episcopal church, officiating, assisted by Rev. George S. Baker and Rev. Henry Lubeck. The service was private.

Sample piano, standard make parlor grand, quarter oak; none better; retails at $425.00. Must be sold, will take $195.00 spot cash. Second hand pianos cheaper and on easy terms. Pohl, Myrtle Point, Oregon.

Cures Winter Cough.

J. E. Gover, 101 N. Main St., Ottawa, Kan., writes: "Every fall it has been my wife's trouble to catch a severe cold, and therefore to cough all winter long. Last fall I got her a bottle of Horehound Syrup. She used it and has been able to sleep soundly all night long. Whenever the cough troubles her, two or three doses stops the cough, and she is able to be up and well." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by R. S. Knowlton.

The owner of 80 acres of timber land on the Coquille river near Fairview, wants a bid for the stumpage or the land as a whole. It is N. E. 1/4 of S. W. 1/4 and S. W. 1/4 of the S. W. 1/4 of 36 in 27, S. R. 12, W. Address, F. F. Weston, 1302, Webster street, Oakland, California.

The Best Doctor.

Rev B. C. Horton, Sulphur Springs, Tex., writes, July 19th, 1902: I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horehound Syrup, and they have proved certainly satisfactory. The liniment is the best we have ever used for headaches and pains. The cough syrup has been our doctor for the past eight years." Sold by R. S. Knowlton.
