Lower Fares Pay.

When the New Haven Railroad Company reduced its passenger rate to 2 cents a mile the officials estimated that there would be a loss of about $700,000 a year in gross receipts. The reduced rate, which affects nine-tenths of the system, has been in operation several months, and instead of the predicted reduction there is an increase in gross earnings. Lower fares have given the company enough new business to more than make good the lessened profit on each fare. When the Michigan Central charter was repealed and a 2-cent rate was fixed by the Legislature the company brought suit against the state of Michigan for $5,000,000. By the time the case got before the courts the receipts already showed a large increase in passenger earnings. Instead of losing by the repeal of a charter which gave it the right to charge 3 cents a mile the Michigan Central had actually benefited.

The recent reductions in fare on the Pennsylvania were made in a confident business belief that there would be more profit for the company in carrying people for less money. Other companies are planning similar reductions. The next five years will witness unprecedented reductions in passenger fares. Railroad managers are coming to understand the simple scientific principles that there is more money in doing a large business with a small margin of profit on each transaction than in doing a small business with a large margin of profit on each transaction.—New York World.

It has always been a problem for the Postoffice Department to easily and safely remove sacks of mail from fast moving trains. The plan long in use by the railway postal employees is to toss the bag out of the car door. Sometimes it lands near the railroad station and at other times it is a hundred yards or more away. Frequently people have been injured by being struck by the flying bags and often the bags are lost altogether.

More than 100 inventions in the shape of arms to remove the bags as the train runs at high speed, have been placed before the department during the past five years but none have ever received a thorough test. It is for this reason that a special commission to examine and test the apparatus has been appointed by Postmaster General Cortelyou. The commission is composed of three Washington postal officials and postmasters from four large cities who will inspect inventions all over the country. It is thought possible that some of the contrivances may prove efficient in handling the bags and if some lucky inventor hits it right, a fortune awaits him at the hands of Uncle Sam.

Get Roosevelt Hound for Bears

One of President Roosevelt's famous bear hounds is to be used in an effort to clear out the bears that infest the section around Jamison city. The dog was one of those used in the West two years ago by the President, and was presented by him to the late Dr. Bonham, of Fairmount Springs, who died a short time ago.

Salt Lake, Nov. 3.—A dispatch to the Desert News from Pinedale, Wyo., says: Word has been received here of a battle between a game warden and hunters in the mountains west of this place. A warden whose name is not known came upon a party of hunters who were slaughtering elk for their teeth. The warden commanded the hunters to surrender, but they replied with a volley and the warden was left dead in the snow.

Taken as directed, it becomes the greatest curative agent for the relief of suffering humanity ever devised. Such is Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. R. S. Knowlton.

Another Coos Bay Pioneer Dead

W. D. L. F. Smith, one of the pioneers of Coos county, and aptly called an "old landmark," died at his home in Marshfield Sunday evening, after an illness of something over a year. It was during the fair at Portland that he was first attacked by a partial stroke of paralysis. From that date to the time of his death he had been more or less on the indisposed list. The ultimate cause of his death was an attack which assailed him about a week since.

Mr. Smith was born in New Milford, Litchfield county, Connecticut, in 1828. In September, 1853, he came to the coast, settling in Curry county. He was a resident of Curry county for five years, coming to Coos county in 1858. During the civil war he enlisted in the army, serving in Company K of the Oregon volunteers. He also served during the Indian wars that were so numerous in this section in the early times.

In the early days of his life in Curry and Coos counties he was employed in the Tichenor mill, where he worked for several years. After severing his connection with this mill he became connected with the Randolph mines. From mining he drifted to farming, and in 1864 he purchased at arm the forks of Coos river, which he owned at the time of his demise. He lived on his ranch until some ten years ago, when he returned, moving at that time to this city, where he has since resided.

On March 30, 1859, he married Mary R. Luce, of Ohio, to which union five children were born, two boys, William and George, and three girls, Mrs. C. H. Dungan, of Berkeley, California, Mrs. J. D. Hawes, of Coulterville, California, and Miss Gussie Smith, whose death occurred some six years ago.

Mr. Smith was a man of excellent character, enjoying the full esteem and confidence of a large number of friends in Coos county. He was an honorable member of the Blue Lodge of Masons, and was in his 79th year at the time of his death.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Masonic hall Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. under the auspices of the Masonic order.

Among those expected to be present during the last sad rites of this old Coos county pioneer is his brother, Dr. O. E. Smith, of Eugene, who is expected to arrive via the Drain stage.—Times.

Speaking of the life of ships the other day, George F. Sproule, secretary of the board of port wardens, said about the oldest vessel he knows of is the True Love, which if she is afloat today is 149 years old, says the Philadelphia Record.

The True Love was built in this city in 1764, and though she was only 96 feet and eight inches long and of 26 feet beam, she was the largest ship that had been in these waters up to that time. She sailed from this port in 1765, and did not return until 1873 when she was 109 years old. She came in with a load of cryolite from Ivgit, Greenland. Then she sailed again and was no longer heard of until discovered in 1899 in the Thames river, England where shorn of her glory, she was and possibly still is doing service as a coal barge.

There was a proposal among shipping men here to purchase her and bring her over as a relic of by-gone days and honest workmanship, but it never came to anything.—Ex.

A joint meeting of the Athena and Congressional societies is planned for Friday evening, Nov. 9th. An interesting program is to be rendered by members from both societies.

An invitation has been extended by the members of the Epworth League of the M. E. Church to all students and teachers of the Normal to attend a social next Friday evening.

Song books have been ordered and choruses will be organized as soon as they arrive.

The election class has taken up the work of extemporaneous speaking.

On Thursday, the General History class debated the question "Resolved, that the Greeks were justified in undertaking the Sicilian War."

The result of the football game played Saturday between the Grants Pass High School and the normal teams scored another great success for the Normal. It was a very good game and both teams played their best. However, the Normal boys proved a little too much for the visiting team and won by a score of eleven to nothing. The strong feature of the Grants Pass eleven was their half-backs who made several goods runs, but to their disadvantage they failed to make yardage as the Normal line was too strong.

Another good game is anticipated a week from Wednesday when these two teams meet each other in Grants Pass.

It was an odd looking delegation of Apache Indians that crowded the waiting room of Secretary of War Taft's office a few days ago. They were there in the hope of seeing that official to plead with him for the return of their tribe to the happy hunting grounds from which they were removed twenty years ago.

The secretary was busy at the White House when they called so the visitors squatted in real Indian fashion and kept watch, as it were, for the return of the head big chief but as the time passed and he failed to appear, they grew restless, walking around the room, yawning and making queer noises in their native tongue. They represented a body of Apaches captured by General Miles in New Mexico and by him removed to Indian Territory, where they have been ever since as prisoners of war. In reality, they have had all the freedom they desire, except they are not allowed to return to the scene of their former misdeeds. Secretary Taft finally arrived and after listening to their tale of woe, promised to place the case before the great father in the White House. This seemed to satisfy them and they trudged out in single file, wrapped to the neck in gandy blankets.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier, New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by R. S. Knowlton.

Smoking Barred at "U"

Collegians who are addicted to the use of tobacco in any form, whether they smoke well rounded bit cigars, a little curved stem pipe, or the aromatic cigarette, will have to indulge in their pleasure in the woods or off the campus entirely, as a faculty ruling has been passed prohibiting smoking near the buildings of the University of Washington.—Ex.

The fellows that have been riding on free railroad passes will have to make arrangements to walk after January 1. The new rate law makes it an offense punishable by a fine of $2,000 and optional imprisonment for a railroad to grant any one a free pass. The railroads have been in the habit of issuing every year more than one hundred thousand annual passes, mostly to the wealthy and influential persons who needed them the least, to say nothing of countless thousands of trip passes. All this was merely a form of bribery and was a corrupting agency of the first power. It has not been abolished any too soon and the railroads themselves should be the most thankful, as they are the chief beneficiaries and should be thankful that the law relieves them of this expensive inebrius. Now let them all put passenger fares down to two cents a mile, sell unlimited mileage books for $20 a thousand miles and they will make more money than ever before.—Ex.

Constipation.

Health is absolutely impossible, if constipation is present. Many serious cases of liver and kidney complaint have sprung from neglected constipation. Such a deplorable condition is unnecessary. There is a cure for it. Herbine will speedily remedy matters. C. A. Lindsay, P. M., Bronson, Fla., writes, Feb. 12, 1902: "Having used Herbine, I find it a fine medicine for constipation." 50c a bottle. Sold by R. S. Knowlton.

Secretary Wilson is usually level-headed but he is "off" when he says the corn cob is of no use to mankind. Think of the fine fires it makes, to smoke the meat, and the peerless pipes that are constructed out of it. Any country boy can tell him of other uses to which the corn cob is put, but we stop here—ex
