The Argument for Uniform Divorce Laws

The need of a more uniform law regulating divorce in this country is plainly shown by professor Felix Adler in the Woman's Home Companion for March. Professor Adler shows how the notable conference assembled at Washington last February marks the turning of the tide in this country away from the exaggerated freedom, or license, of divorce which has so widely prevailed and a return to stricter views and to insistence on more conservative practice.

"The Congress on Uniform Divorce Laws is socially significant, because it marks the turning of the tide in favor of stricter legislation on the subject of divorce. Uniformity is aimed at, not for the sake of uniformity itself, but for the sake of the greater protection of the family, which such uniformity will furnish. It has been one of the favorite arguments of the adversaries of popular government that democracy in the end must lead to social as well as political anarchy. The friends of popular government, on the other hand, have put their trust in what may be called the collective instinct of self-preservation of the masses.

"The Congress is important and interesting for another reason: It is an attempt to secure by moral suasion, by voluntary action on the part of the lawmaking bodies of the different states, a certain minimum of uniformity in legislation, of which may have believed that it can only be obtained by a national law. The tendency to employ the short-cut method of national legislation in matters hitherto left to the several states is visibly gaining headway among our people. Undoubtedly, if the difficulty of amending the Constitution had not stood in the way as an almost insurmountable obstacle, a national divorce law would long since have been enacted. And this difficulty, in one way or another, will surely be overcome, if the method of voluntary agreement which this Congress has undertaken to apply shall prove illusory. There are advantages on the side both of national and of state authority in matters of social legislation. Many of us are strongly inclined to prefer the slower method of working toward a gradual approximation of the standards among the laws of the several states. Nevertheless, certain social needs are imperative; and if the states fail to agree, the scruples dictated by regard for the independent spheres of the different commonwealths will have to give way, and a way found to cut the hopeless tangle by means of the sword of congressional action."

Coos Bay News.

Z. T. Siglin was in town this week. He is vigorously prosecuting the work of building sheds and making ready for installing new machinery at his brick plant on the isthmus.

Dr. J. T. McCormac and wife are home after an extended visit with relatives in New Orleans. En route they spent some time in Southern California, and on their return visited at St. Louis, Chicago and many other important cities of the middle west.

L. R. Robertson, of the telephone company, received the sad intelligence this week of the death of his father, which occurred at Kirksville, Mo., on the 5th inst. Deceased had reached the ripe old age of 72 years. This illness, which took him away, lasted but two days.

A Salem woman complained because a law requires her husband to pay more for a dog license than he did for a marriage license. She might get some consolation out of the fact that it will cost less to kill the dog than to get a divorce.—Oregonian.

Best "Hello Girl" is Blind.

Miss Susie Davis, a young girl of 10, is the most accurate and rapid telephone operator in the Virginia City, Nev., telephone exchange, and she has been perfectly blind since infancy. When she first applied for the position she was told it would be quite impossible for her to manage the immense keyboard without seeing it, as no other blind person had ever been employed in the telephone service. She persisted and was finally given a chance. She learned every number on her keyboard so well that in a recent competition held in Virginia City, to determine the most efficient operator, she beat all competitors, despite the fact that she could not see. She is a graduate of the School for the Blind at Berkeley, Cal.

MOST WONDERFUL MEMORY.

There have been all sorts of applicants for the most wonderful memory, but the honor has at last been accorded to Richard C. Gill, the superintendent of the model department of the patent office in Washington. Until quite recently every inventor who wishes a patent had to send a small model of his invention, showing exactly how it worked. These were turned over to Mr. Gill, until now he has a collection of more than 800,000 models. They are not arranged alphabetically, or chronologically, but Mr. Gill can tell the day when each was sent in, what its salient feature, who was the inventor, and, in most cases, what has been its success. All this without ever looking at any of them, except as they are submitted to him. Mr. Gill is past 70 years old.—F. J. Haskin in Oregonian.

Death of Rev. McCormac.

Dr. J. T. McCormac received the sad intelligence by wire yesterday of the death of his father, the Rev. Johnston McCormac, which occurred at Portland on the 12th inst. Deceased's health had been poorly of late, mainly on account of declining years, as he had reached the age of 82. Rev. McCormac was a resident of Coos Bay in the early '80s and his kind disposition and well wishes for all endeared him to a large circle of acquaintances who deplore his loss.

He made his home at Astoria after leaving the bay for many years. To mourn his loss he leaves three children. They are: Dr. J. T. McCormac, of Marshfield; Mrs. W. S. Denney, of Salem; and J. W. McCormac, of Astoria.—Marshfield Star, Bandon Recorder.

Last Saturday Oliver Woldvogel was seriously bruised in attempting to stop a run-away team. The team started near Lorenz & Hoyt's store and he stopped them in front of the Bandon Drug Store.

Francis Simon, employed at the shipyard accidentally cut his index finger in such a manner as to nearly sever that member, yesterday morning. The head of the axe he was using flew off and cut through the first joint. Dr. Houston sewed up the finger and although it will be some time before he will be able to use it, he is fortunate to have saved it.

New Forest Reserve.

Washington, March 6.—The President, on the day that Congress adjourned, created permanent forest reserves, which embrace all public timber land in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Colorado and Wyoming, known or believed to be chiefly valuable for forestry purposes. There may be other land of this type not included, but if so, the probabilities are that it will never be included within a forest reserve, because the agricultural appropriation bill, signed March 4, prohibits the creation of further reserves in the six states named, except by act of Congress.

Adding the area of reserves just created to the area of those created to the area of those created in the past, it is found that the total reserve area of Oregon is now 16,552,728 acres, in Washington 12,076,600 and in Idaho 20,015,766 acres.

The Forest Service has issued a statement giving a general description of those recently created, and that of the Tillamook, Umpqua and Coquille Reserves follows:

These three National forests are situated in the Coast Range of Oregon and extend in the form of a narrow, broken belt from Tillamook County to Curry County. Their areas are: Tillamook, 165,000 acres, and Coquille, 140,000 acres. The lands embraced within them are either heavily timbered or lie within extensive old burns. The slopes are very steep, the soil rock, the country is cut up by numberless canyons, and is thus unsuitable for agriculture. As factors in the future lumber industry of Oregon, these National forests are going to be very important. Practically all of the land included within them is covered with the heaviest kind of a stand of young timber and most of it bids fair to be of excellent quality. The Coquille in particular contains a great deal of young Port Orford cedar, which is probably the best timber on the coast.

Hundred Thousand Looted.

Peoria, Ill., March 9.—Indictments were returned this morning against the following: Robert Jones, City clerk on 13 counts for embezzlement; Daniel Potter, former sheriff, embezzlement; William Peteres, former deputy sheriff, confidence game and falsifying public records; E. M. Conkey, former deputy, embezzlement; Sherman Hunt, former deputy, extortion; Dan Raum, attorney, forgery. A total of 30 indictments were returned, specifying that over $100,000 was taken from the city and county in the office of city clerk and former sheriff. The grand jury scathingly denounced the carelessness of all county and city officials.

Battleship is Blown Up.

Toulton, March 12.—Powder magazines on board the French Battleship Lena blew up at 1:35 this afternoon and as a result Captain Adigard, commander of the battleship, Captain Vertier, chief of staff of the Mediterranean squadron, and about 160 blue jackets are dead, while Rear Admiral and hundreds of men are suffering from injuries. Naval circles are aghast and the public is stunned by the appalling catastrophe.

Irish Plan to Taboo Postcard Caricatures

Chicago, March 11.—Postal cards caricaturing the Irish are to be tabooed by members of the Celtic race, and Postmaster-General Meyer is to be requested to bar from the mails objectionable pictures. Resolutions to that effect were adopted at a meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians here last night.
