B. E. Sheldon and mother are late arrivals in Coquille from Redlands, California. Mr. Sheldon has been a successful orange grower of the Redlands vicinity, and recently sold out with the intention of moving to the northward. He came to Coos county and to Coquille, and is desirous of finding a place on which to engage in the raising of apples. The gentleman and his mother would be valued additions to our community, and no doubt they would find apple growing a very profitable pursuit. They inform us of their acquaintanceship with Lincoln Sherrard and wife, former Coquillians but now residents of Redlands, and aver that Mr. Sherrard would much like to return to his former scenes though doing well in that southern clime. Mr. Sheldon will read the HERALD during the next year at least.

The report is published that an air of mystery surrounds the identity of the bottom-up hulk which has been floating for some weeks off the north Curry coast, and which was supposed to be the gasoliner Bessie K., towed out from Bandon on Feb. 23d last. We are at a loss to understand why there should be any mystery about the matter. The first to discover the wreck was the steamship Yosemite, traveling from San Francisco to Portland, and her captain claimed to have investigated and found the hulk to be that of the Bessie K. Since then to date the identity of the vessel has never been questioned to our knowledge, and there was a propeller to the upturned bottom such as was used by the long missing Bessie K. R. D. Hume, who formerly owned the Bessie, is trying to capture and right her with the aid of his gas schooner Berwick.
