Muslin and knit underwear, ladies' hosiery, gents' half hose and neckties in the late styles. Call and examine goods.

Another strike occurred at the Prosper mill Monday morning, 16 of the boys walking out. It seems that while the company granted a raise in wages, it also put on about the same amount onto the board of the men affected. There was a clash between Manager Hicking and one of the men resulting in the loss of a little claret and the blacking of an eye or so, but we hope to see all running serenely in a day or so.

San Francisco, April 30.—When the directors and nominal stockholders of the Northwestern Pacific met yesterday in Secretary Willcutt's office in the Flood building and voted to mortgage the property for $35,000,000 and sell in New York, it was merely a formality in obedience to the orders of President E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific and President Ripley of the Santa Fe, who are really controlling owners of the property and its proposed extensions.

The important fact to the people to be served by this road its owners intend to make a comprehensive extension into new territory and that the suspiciously large valuation on which the bonds are to be issued is based on the joint reports of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe engineers as to the value of the completed system which is to be constructed with the proceeds of the bond issue.

It is not often that Chief Engineer Hood of the Southern Pacific admits any plans that are not already public information, but today he declared that the company's engineers had run surveys from Eureka up along the coast to Marshfield on Coos bay and that men were out collecting the data of those surveys, as the records were destroyed in the big fire.

Hood also announced that a line was being built westward from Drain on the Shasta route, to Winchester bay about 30 miles north of Marshfield, to which a Southern Pacific extension is also being built.

These proposed roads and surveys, indicated the connection between Eureka and Marshfield are admitted to be a part of the plan of extension in addition to the building of the 105-mile gap between Willits and Pepperwood on the run from Tiburan to Eureka. These new lines will add 400 miles to the Northwestern's trackage.
