PESTS

The day is coming when the killing of pests will be a duty of the Government and what is now in some cases a simple matter of state law will be enforced by the iron hand of the Federal official who knows no one and favors nobody. It is well we spray the apple and kill the worm, before he can crawl. We spray for the scale and mostly succeed in killing the industrious female who knows no limit of reproduction. We thereby eliminate the undesirable red speck on the fruit, or, if not, we throw the apple or pear to the hog—except when the small boy gets it first and gets away with it without harm. Nothing can affect a boy to his hurt, that is internally. Now we are spraying the sheep for scab, ticks and other maladies; we run the ovine through a chute whereby he is immersed in a villainous compound that covers all but his head and as he passes a Federal insector bobs that under and collects five dollars per day and expenses. This is good for the sheep and fine for the inspector. Presumably it is great for the owner, but he has not yet said so. The Dairy Commissioner looks after the cows and the barn at two dollars per look, with an occasional poke into the milk to measure the butter-fat content. Sometimes this benefit gets into the police court fund. In that case it is fine (with costs added).

To carry the matter to a logical sequence it is to be hoped Professor Dryden, the new man at Corvallis who is to show us all about the chicken business in a professional and scientific way, will when the time is ripe get busy and do a little spraying, too. Think of the million hens in Oregon that are inhabited by myriads of parasites to their serious discomfort and that suffer under a handicap that keeps them scratching when they should be laying. The Oregon hen is worth thousands to the sheep's hundreds. Why discriminate? Here is a possible avenue of industry that would make the scramble for forest ranger jobs too insignificant to be compared to say nothing of the benefit that would accrue from the spraying. That benefit, by the way, would be a blessing also. Lots of old hens and countless old roosters need to be ducked periodically. This is a hint to the new department of O. A. C. for which there is no charge.

Carrying the idea further, let it be remembered that school will soon begin. Then the boy who is "too restless" to figure out how long it will take James and John to do a certain amount of work if James and Thomas can do it in half the time it takes Thomas and John to do it, will take a note home from the teacher that will make his mother cry before she disarranges the whole internal economy of the household while ranging and raking with the family search-warrant. Here is where the school machine can save trouble for teacher, boy and mother and use more of the school money by creating the official position of sprayer. The boy will like it much better if his head be put into some kind of apparatus from which he will emerge a hero in the eyes of his companions. The teacher will feel relieved, while the mother—if she ever recovers from the "disgrace" and quits "licking" her offspring—but that is too painful to dilate upon.

As has been said, spraying is all right. Let it become general.—Oregonian.

The Monmouth Normal

The loyal friends of the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth have come to the rescue of the institution and have met the conditions imposed by the new board of regents. Messrs. Ressler and Perkins appeared before the executive committee in Salem last week and tendered a check for $3000 as a donation to conduct the school during the ensuing year. This is one-half of the required amount and the board has allowed until the first of February for the deposit of the balance. Other revenues from tuition and local taxation, including 7 mills special tax, will add between $8000 and $9000. The budget for the year has been reduced from $19,000 to $14,000 by cutting down the salaries of the instructors, with their full consent, an act of devotion which shows their loyalty and devotion to the old school.

It will be remembered that the old board of regents, at its annual meeting in June, re-elected the faculty, let contracts for fuel etc. and otherwise provided for the continuance of the Monmouth Normal. The new board, at its meeting July 18, accepted the action of the old board and assumed full control. At a later meeting, August 20, it rescinded its former action on the ground that the law prohibited the assumption of any obligations in excess of the probable revenues. Since the appropriation, vetoed by the governor, could not become available until passed upon by the next legislature, the board decided that no account could be taken of it.

This caused the board to vote not to continue the school until a sufficient sum was deposited as an absolute donation which, together with the other fixed revenues, would place enough funds at its disposal to guarantee the expenses of the institution for the entire year. Now that this has been done and the donation accepted by the executive committee, Monmouth is officially authorized to continue and will therefore open its doors on September 24th for its 26th year.

The business-like methods of the new board, the personnel of its membership and the increased demand in the state for Normal trained teachers, all combine to make the prospects bright for the best year in its history. Its friends are rallying about it as never before.

Monmouth has sent out over 850 graduates during the past 25 years and thousands of others have received a partial preparation for the work of teaching. Ten of the 33 county superintendents are graduates and scores of principals in the towns and villages claim her as their alma mater, while hundreds of others are grade teachers in the town and country schools. With these loyal children and the thousands of friends over the state, the Monmouth Normal looks forward with confidence to the verdict of the people at the polls next June when the question of its continuance is to be submitted through the initiative.

Gasoline Blows Up.

F. W. Wood, the North Bend real estate broker, and son, William, were badly injured in a gasoline explosion which occurred last Saturday morning at North Bend. It appears that the unfortunate men were preparing to start the engine in their launch and gas had accumulated over night in the cabin. A spark from the machinery is supposed to have ignited the gas. The boat took fire and the hull was nearly consumed before the flames were quenched.

Notwithstanding the numerous gasoline launches in service on the bay this is the first accident to be chronicled that was of any serious consequence.—Marshfield Sun.

Yellow Jackets Bad Pests.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 26.—(Special).—Yellow jackets are proving a great pest to fruitgrowers this year in the territory tributary to Tacoma. They first attacked red raspberries in a ravenous way and then as the numbers increased, they began devouring blackberries. Now they are working on apples and plums. One man said he counted nine yellow jackets on a single plum. Old settlers say their appearance is not new here, but they seem more numerous in some seasons than in others. Then they disappear just as the warm pests do and reappear after a few seasons. It has been suggested by some that the absence of flowers during dry season compels the yellow jackets to seek their materials for food supply in fruit.

W. C. Herring, chief engineer of forest service, has just completed an inspection of the Southern Oregon forest reserves and has approved the several improvements proposed for this district. He has instructed Superintendent M. J. Anderson of the Siskiyou reserve, who has headquarters in Grants Pass, to proceed at once to build telephone lines, roads and trails. Several telephone lines will be strong this fall, wire being now on the way here. One line will extend to the Oregon caves, another to the Blue Ledge mining district of Siskiyou county, California, and another to Kerby and extended to the remote Chetco mining region of Curry county. The proposed wagon road down Rogue river to the Bear Camp region received the hearty approval of Mr. Herring. It is now being surveyed and will be built as soon as the route is selected. A good trail will be extended from the end of this road to Gold Beach. This will give the isolated region of the lower Rogue river country a more direct route to the interior. The mail will no doubt be carried over this shorter route in preference to the long mountain trail from West Fork, and in this one respect will be great convenience to the people of that region, as more than a week is now required to make the round trip from Grants Pass to Gold Beach.—Port Orford Tribune.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Burial of a Favorite Pet.

In a beautiful white casket, at the Western Addition Undertaking Parlors, lies the spanish lap dog, for many years the pet and companion of Captain D. F. Tozier of the revenue cutter service. A silver plate on the casket bears this inscription: "Lima" August 11, 1907, 13 years 6 months. And the beautiful little dog is to have a $1,000 funeral.

All day friends of Captain Tozier and his well known pet visited the undertaking parlors to look on the little dog for the last time. Lima is to have one of the most reasonable burials ever given a dog in this country. Expense has not been spared. The little casket is of the finest workmanship and a tombstone has been ordered which will rival any in the famous dog cemetery of Paris. In a few days Captain Tozier will take the remains of the dog to his home in Oregon, where they will be interred. When all is complete, $1,000 will have been spent in giving the aristocratic dog a fitting burial.

Lima is a perfect specimen of her type and the only one in the country. The dog was bred in the royal kennels of Madrid, sent to Peru, where the dog was presented to Captain Tozier by the American minister. The dog had long snow-white hair. Yesterday Captain Tozier visited the undertaking parlors. At the sight of his beloved pet he burst into tears.

When seen yesterday at his office at the custom house, Captain Tozier was unable to speak of Lima without tears coming to his eyes.

"Lima and I were never separated for a day since I got her thirteen years ago," he said. "Her parents came from the royal kennels in Spain. They were sent to Lima to the Spanish minister there. He gave two puppies to the American minister and the latter gave one of them to me. Before her eyes were open Lima started on a long cruise with me and she traveled thousands of miles before she ever touched land again. She has been all over the world, in the arctic seas and in the tropics. On shipboard she always shared my berth, and her diet was the same as mine. She was never ill, never cross, and made friends that remembered her through life.—Ex.
