A Big Musical Company.

At last we are to be favored by the appearance of a big musical comedy organization, the class of entertainment that is so popular in all the large cities. The Young Musical Comedy Company which is now in the flood tide of its success will be seen at the Opera House on Thursday Jan. 9th. Their presentation will be the great musical satire "The Pride of New York." This is among the big successes of the season and never fails to win unstinted applause from the auditors and hearty encomiums from the press. The presenting organization is unquestionably the strongest that has ever visited this city, embracing as it does such well known players as Maud Williams, soprano; J. Francis Abbott, tenor; Frank Harcourt, comedian; Chas. Dudley, bass; Olyvian Clayne, soubrette; Al. Dickson, characters and a particularly attractive chorus. During the action of the play no less than 14 musical numbers and specialties are introduced. The prices will be 25, 50, and 75 cents and the reservations should be made early as the house will undoubtedly be crowded.
