 J. S. Lyons received a nice run-about automobile by the last Elizabeth. It is of the Maxwell make and a good and strong machine. Several other parties in town have ordered machines through Mr. Lyons' agency which will be here by the time the roads are in shape to drive them on. We have been told by parties who have had a chance to know, that Coos county roads are not as bad for autos as one would at first think. There being no rock, the small but deep dust-chuck holes do not form in our roads that do in the valley roads, and with a little rounding up and care, we will have roads over which autos may make good time either for profit or pleasure.
 LOST.—A gold bracelet. Finder will leave same at the city recorder's office and receive reward.
 It seems that a few have taken a stand against the Dime Theatre. In talking with Mr. Mills and others, we find that a great many take exceptions to some of the charges made, the charges being made by a few that never attend and therefore know nothing about what they say. Mr. Mills tells us that he has joined the film trust, which entitles him to high grade material and protection, as they furnish high grade films to only one house in every 2500 inhabitants. His contract calls for first grade, almost entirely without crime of any kind. He has been making an effort to stop this kind of stuff for sometime and he is pulling for a grade of films that you will seldom see in Portland. He is arranging for a new machine, one of Edison's very latest, absolutely flickerless, and within six weeks we will have one of the most educational motion picture shows on the coast.
