F. A. Holman made a blast of the remaining rock that was on the inside of the Coquille river bar Wednesday noon, but owing to the ruffled condition of the water, he has been unable to go down since to see what the result of the blast may have been. Indications are, however, that the blast was successful and the rock removed. The blast was a good one and the sight beautiful to behold. The water was sent up into the air like a great geyser and spread out over the river to a considerable distance.—Recorder.
