Mr. Phelps offers to place machines in different places and operate them on the royalty plan.

Get your shoes at Lyons & Jones there stock is new and up-to-date.

The concert given by the Coquille brass band on Thursday evening at the Headzel Theatre was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The musical program was carried out in a manner highly satisfactory to all present, and the dance following was well attended, and it is needless to say greatly enjoyed, as all dancers know that a good crowd on that excellent floor, dancing to the music of Gage's orchestra, means a delightful evening for all.

Hand Painted chamber sets. Best to be had at the Racket.

Capt. W. H. Dunham went south by the M. F. Plant last week. He goes to Eureka to take charge of the steamer Newport which is to go onto the Coquille-Portland run as soon as she can be put in shape, and will continue on this route until the new boat now in course of construction at Portland for the North Pacific Steamship Co., is ready to take her place. This is the first effort to establish a direct line between this river and Portland since the wreck of the Bandon, which boat was working up a very good business. This should meet the approval and hearty support of our people, particularly those of the lower river.

When you want the latest styles in men's clothing you can find them at Robinson's store.

The Body of Benjamin E. Cope, mentioned last week as having been killed by a running train at Drescol, North Dakota, reached this place and was buried at the Masonic cemetery on Saturday. Mr. Cope came to his death by jumping from a running train during a fit of temporary insanity superinduced by an attack of scarlet fever from which he suffered some time since. He had suffered such spells before, and was examined by the Coos county court, but was not deemed insane. At the time of his death he was in charge of two attendants, but got an opportunity to step away from them while the rear door of the car was open, and deliberately leaped to his death.

Fred Sax was given the decision over Jack Dougherty in the boxing contest Saturday night at Marshfield. It seems that while the scrapping was about even, the decision was given upon a technicality and carries with it the usual amount of dissatisfaction.

Owing to the late rise in the river coming a little earlier in the season and very much more sudden than it is the habit of the Coquille, a little loss was felt by some of our upriver farmers. We have heard of very few head of stock being drowned, and there were quite a lot of apples, pumpkins, etc., floated from some of the ranches along the river, but presume that the best of the crops had been gathered, and those carried away were windfalls, etc., which had been passed over.

Fine papeteries, portfolios, jewel cases, etc., at Knowlton's Drug Store.

Slides on the Drain road entirely stopped travel over that route for a few days lately, which is something very uncommon for that road. The Coos Bay wagon road is in about the same condition, and the Middle Fork route is not far different. The stages are kept on the road, but their progress is very slow. The Bay papers seem to think that it was a mistake to take the mail off the Coos Bay road and put it all on the Middle Fork line, but it is clear to be seen that there is not very much difference, and will not be until extensive work is done on one road or the other. And, as the government officials look at it, the Middle Fork road has offered the best route for a permanent road, and since this is a fact, some good work should be done at once to put it in a condition that the mails could be brought in within a reasonable time.

Don't worry about what to get for some particular friend. Come and tell us your troubles and we will show you something appropriate at suitable prices. Billy Schroeder.

Robert Dean Passes Away.

One by one the pioneers of Coos County are passing away. Those who braved the hardship and terror of the early day here will soon be seen no more. Their stories and tales, to which we all listen with interest and delight will soon be told by their children only. The pioneer's lease on life is, indeed, very short.

The pioneer had experiences that we, who are younger cannot have. He has gone before and paved the way for us. He has made possible the present existing conditions of comfort and civilization.

The pioneer has always been the advance agent of American civilization, and through his labor and sacrifice we are able to boast of a country extending from ocean to ocean. The active day of the American pioneer is past. He is simply awaiting his call hence.

Thus, we owe these men much. They braved dangers for us. They sowed, but we reap; they planted, but we gather into the storehouse; they labored, but we received the credit of their labor.

"Grandpa" Dean, for twenty-nine years a familiar figure on the streets of Coquille, has passed away. The years of man are three score years and ten, but he has trod the walks of men on nineteen years borrowed time, being 89 years and 11 days of age at the time of his death.

Mr. Dean was born in Tennessee, Nov. 13, 1820. At the age of 20 he went to St. Louis, Mo. Later he located on a homestead near Rolla, Mo., where he was married to Melinda Fulsome in 1846. To this union were born one daughter, and seven sons; five sons surviving him—P. E. Dean of Missouri, W. H. Dean of Oklahoma, A. J. Dean of Colorado, and R. J. and D. F. Dean of Coquille.

He remained on his homestead till 1880, when he started for Oregon, coming by way of Texas, where he spent the winter. In the spring of 1881, with his wife and son, D. F. Dean, he came to Coquille, joining another son, the late J. A. Dean, founder of the HERALD.

In 1883, his life-partner laid down the mantle of life, and since then he has resided with his sons here.

Thus he has gone to his rest. All who knew him honored and respected him. He was a firm believer in the Bible, spending much of his time perusing its sacred contents. He would study it by the hour.

Might we not as we are passing through the world, think noble thoughts, do splendid deeds, love and keep our fellow men? This much, we owe the world. It is just as easy to love and be loved, as it is to hate and be hated. We only live once so let us live well, and travel the road that leads to the beautiful city of God.

A FRIEND.
