DAIRY ASSOCIATION UP TO NOW

President Eddy Writes Concerning Present Conditions and The Future.

A considerable proportion of the dairymen of the Coquille Valley have recently held two meetings at Coquille which have resulted in a permanent organization called the Coquille Valley Dairy Association. It seems desirable at this time to make a public statement through the press of the county as to what we hope to accomplish by means of this new organization of producers.

The object is two-fold. First, we would educate ourselves. Few dairymen are satisfied with the results achieved by themselves. No calling, at least in the field of agricultural pursuits, is so filled with perplexing problems or is so full of concealed pitfalls as is that of dairying. Despite the fact that prices for dairy products have ruled high for the past few years, the margin of net profit in dairying is still extremely narrow. After the cow has been fed for a year, after the hired man or the owner has been paid to care for her and milk her, after she has been charged with her proper share for the maintenance of the plant, the amount left from her earnings to pay taxes, insurance and the interest on investment, is liable to look pretty small. We need education. We dairymen know it. That is one reason why we have organized a dairy association. But we need to make this education practical, not merely theoretical, but applicable. A beginning in this direction we intend to make by introducing the best system of cow testing. We intend to make it a bad year for the "bearders" and low producers among the dairy herds of the Coquille valley. The constitution adopted provides for a committee on stock improvement whose first duty will be to organize a cow-testing scheme that may be put into practical working in time for the next milking season.

But there is another big practical why, besides that of education, for the organization of a dairymen's association. We need to organize for the purpose of obtaining better prices for our product. These prices can be increased chiefly in two ways. By economy in manufacture and by improvement in the quality of manufactured goods put upon the market. We feel that with our natural advantages of climate and soil we can produce butter and cheese which will command fancy prices. In order to accomplish this our constitution as adopted provides for a committee on co-operation which will take charge of the business of pooling the products of all such members as wish to enter into such an arrangement. They will arrange for the manufacture and sale of such products in some manner that will give all the profits the markets justify, over the cost of manufacture and expenses of selling to the man who milks the cows. Several plans are under consideration. The one decided upon will be put through with vigor.

Much depends upon the important of those two extremely important committees. The selection of these committees will be a part of the business of the next meeting which will be held at Coquille on Wednesday, December 8th. The other standing committees will be the executive committee and the press and progress committee.

The attendance at the two meetings held has been excellent, and the enrollment of members practically includes all those who have been present at the meetings. We hope to have every dairymen and every dairy ranch owner in this association. There is no conceivable valid reason why any dairymen should stay out.

This is a call to every dairymen who has not already joined the association. The opportunity of gaining that strength which lies in union is presented to you. Surely there is no one among us who has not had enough of going it alone.

To our fellow dairymen on Coos Bay and down the coast we extend a most cordial invitation to come in with us, or if this seems impractical, to form similar associations in their districts, that we may all co-operate and work together in harmony.

FRANK F. EDDY, President.

Traffic in Citizenship.

In recent news items from Colorado there appears the story of a Civil War veteran, a native and former citizen of Canada, who came to this country in 1862 and was naturalized in Denver, 1876, who went to Alberta, Canada, seven years ago, and took up a tract of land under the Canadian homestead laws, which required him to renounce American citizenship and reavow allegiance to the British government, and who now has returned to this country after proving up his Canadian claim, proffering the request that he once more be made an American citizen. There appears to be grave doubt as to whether the last application will be granted or denied. It ought to be denied, and promptly.

We do not profess to know what the law provides in so complicated a case, but the ethical equation in all this swapping of citizenships is not at all difficult to determine. As the story of this Colorado man is told, it is a case of trading for advantage upon one's patriotic fealty, and of trading with apparent dishonest intent at that. From what is known of the newly-developed immigration movement into the Canadian Northwest, it seems that there are plenty of Americans who are willing to renounce their American patriotism and assume the Canadian or English brand for the acquirement of 160 acres of land. While no one has a right to censure these men for their choice and election, the dyed-in-the-wool American very properly entertains his own mental reservations. Such an American would openly protest that the country is really better off with these citizenship traders out of it. This is the ultra-American point of view, and there is reason for it.

But more tolerant men will heartily condemn the conduct of the man who merely pawns his citizenship for the possession of Canadian land. Such a man does not "tote fair" with the Canadian government, nor upon any occasion of pressure is he likely to "tote fair" with his own government. He holds the honor of citizenship altogether too lightly. In spirit he is a National nondescript, a man without a country, a being to be pitied, but not to be favored with the higher privileges of American residence—Portland Evening Telegram.

For a Lame Back.

When you have pains or lameness in the back bathe the parts with Chamberlain's Liniment twice a day, massaging with the palm of the hand for five minutes at each application. Then dampen a piece of flannel slightly with this liniment and bind it on over the seat of pain, and you may be surprised to see how quickly the lameness disappears. For sale by R. S. Knowlton.

Football Casualties.

The newspaper that has been keeping a record of football casualties gives the record for the season just past at twenty-nine dead, twenty-two fatally hurt and several hundred injured. It is evidently up to the American public to stop such a game or take away its dangerous features. No true sportsmanship can condone or excuse such a loss. If it is to continue, the laws against prize fighting and bull rings should assuredly be repealed. The newspapers that have been shouting for a sane Fourth, where hardly more than this number of casualties are reported from millions of celebrators, while but a few hundred engage in the game of football can well afford to unite their energies toward the suppression of so dangerous a game. It is inexcusable from any standpoint. The government has set the proper example by ruling it out at Annapolis and West Point. If the game must be played let the teams put it through in Oregon mud—at least no fatalities have been reported from this state.—Myrtle Point Enterprise.

MRS. BIGNE SUICIDES AT BANDON

Well Known Lady of Bandon Tires of Life and Jumps Into the Sea.

Mrs. Bigne, for a number of years a resident of Bandon, committed suicide at that place last Friday by going to the government jetty and deliberately throwing herself into the ocean.

It has been noticed by some of her friends that she was acting queerly for some weeks past, but such a rash act as that of Friday was wholly unexpected. She was making her home at the time with her niece, Mrs. Forsyth, and on the morning of her disappearance she was called for breakfast, when she spoke as if she would be ready in a short time. An hour later when she did not appear her niece went to her room and found it vacated. She had left the house unnoticed and was nowhere to be found. On a table in the room was left a note of instructions concerning property affairs, and an intimation of her intentions. Further search traced her to the jetty where her heavy cape was left lying on a rock, which is taken as an evidence of her self destruction.

It Health is more Expensive Than any Cure.

This country is now filled with people who migrate across the continent in all directions seeking that which gold cannot buy. Nineteenths of them are suffering from throat and lung trouble or chronic catarrh resulting from neglected colds, and spending fortunes vainly trying to regain lost health. Could every sufferer but undo the past and cure that first neglected cold, all this sorrow, pain, anxiety and expense could have been avoided. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. Use it and the more serious diseases may be avoided. For sale by R. S. Knowlton.

H. H. McPherson Called by Death.

The sad news of the death of Howard H. McPherson at San Francisco, was received by wire from that city Tuesday. His death was sudden and unexpected and is a severe shock to his numerous friends in this city.

Deceased was a man greatly admired for his intelligence. He established the Family Liquor Store in this city, of which he was proprietor at the time of his death. Besides personal property, deceased was possessed of large holdings in city real estate.

A wife and son, who were at the bedside when the end came, are left to mourn his loss. Marshfield Sun.

Notice to Mariners.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.
