OREGON STATE GRANGE

The Following is a Reproduction of a Circular Sent Out by the State Grange at Salem.

There are some questions that every farmer and his wife owe it to themselves and to their children to sit down and think over seriously. Among them are: How can we manage the farm to increase its net income? How can we increase its fertility? How can we educate our children so that they will be better able to meet the various duties and responsibilities of life? With what influence can we surround them that will tend to give them habits of industry, frugality and thrift, and develop them into honorable manhood and pure, refined womanhood? How can we add to the attractions, conveniences and refining influences of our homes and increase the pleasures of all members of the family? How can we manage to reduce the hours of physical labor, leaving more time for the social pleasures that other classes of people enjoy, and for the development of active, vigorous minds, without too seriously curtailing the income or profits of the farm?

Undertaking the solution of these questions the farmer is confronted with the fact that he is frequently not receiving ample reward for his labor. He finds that it is not so much the amount of work he does, not so much his industry, not so much the amount of material that is produced by his industry that governs his reward, but it is the amount that is left to him after others have taken their share for the handling of his product. He comes to realize that the reason he can not provide better education for his children, more attractions and conveniences for his home and more pleasures for all his family, is because, in the disposal of his products, he is unable to return for wife and home, a fair share of what the harvest yields. He finds many times, of course, that his labor is not producing what it should; he is following wrong methods, or the fertility of his farm is running down. So the great question of how to correct all these matters is always before him.

To the growing boy and girl, to the honorable young man and refined young lady come questions of how they can best develop all the latent powers of body and mind into vigorous health and well stored intellect. How can they add to the happiness of father, mother, friends and neighbors, and best do their duty to society and country?

The aid that has most fully met the needs of the farming population in solving the problem of life and adding to the success and happiness of life on the farm, is the helpful influence of a good Grange, for the following reasons.

1. Because, in the discussion of questions relating to the management of the farm it serves as a practical experience school wherein farmers learn from one another and profit by one another's mistakes, failures and successes. It becomes a virtual clearing house of farm experience and practice and a well conducted Grange is always the center toward which all the best farmers of the country look for practical help and guidance.

2. Because the same thing may be said in regard to affairs of the household and home. Questions relating to domestic economy as well as to home and character receive a due share of attention. Better conducted households, brighter happier homes, and higher ideals of manhood and womanhood are direct results of Grange work.

3. Because its social features, in a large measure, tend to break up the monotony of farm life, especially for the wife and mother, and greatly add to the happiness of all the other members of the family.

Because it has exerted the greatest influence known in breaking up the isolation of farm life, and making farm life attractive to the boys and girls, bringing sunshine and happiness into the farm home to such an extent as has never before existed.

5. Because it is a school of thought and mental development for the boys and girls as well as for the older members, giving to all culture and refinement for the home, and the experiences that are essential to success in public life.

6. Because its educational features tend to broaden the mind of the farmer and lead him to study and investigate questions which relate not only to the farm and farm life but to affairs of state and nation as well.

7. Because it is the duty of farmers to co-operate with one another if they would successfully meet the influence of organization in every direction and secure for a wife and home a fair share of what the harvest yields. The influence of the Grange develops a feeling of fraternity and good will among farmers and gives them greater confidence in one another. Out of this has grown its co-operative features in fire and life insurance and in many other lines of business by which it has saved millions of dollars to its members.

8. Because it teaches farmers to study their relations to other classes of society and to appreciate the importance, the dignity and the honor that attaches to their calling.

9. Because it has compelled respect for the farmer and his calling from other classes of society, and gone far to remove the stigma of "haysced" from those who till the soil, and has secured substantial recognition for agriculture from National and State governments by provisions that are made for the study of the subject for the dissemination of knowledge concerning it, by the countless other ways in which help is given to it.

10. Because it has made farmers students of political economy, freed them from partisan and sectional prejudice and taught them to use their power of organized effort in securing the enactment of such non-partisan legislation as will protect the varied interests of agriculture and give greater property to the farming population of the whole country.

11. Because the careful, conservative, fair and honorable course it has always pursued in this line, as well as the long list of notable and worthy victories which it has to its credit, it is coming to be looked upon by the best elements of society everywhere as one of the very best and safest guardians of the public interest. Some such influence is absolutely essential to counteract the corrupting influences of massive corporate and private wealth, both in matters of legislation and public morals as well. Its power for good increase in direct ratio with its strength in numbers. What it needs today is the active support of every farmer in the land. This much it is entitled to and it should receive nothing less.

For that Dull Feeling After Eating
I have used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for some time, and can testify that they have done me more good than any tablets I have ever used. My trouble was a heavy dull feeling after eating—David Freeman, Kempt, Nova Scotia. These tablets strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. They also regulate the liver and bowels. They are far superior to pills but cost no more. Get a free sample at R. S. Knowlton's drug store and see what a splendid medicine it is.

FREY LOVING CUP CONTEST

Miss Gretchen Sherwood of Coquille Awarded Trophy—Contest a Close One.

A very large and enthusiastic audience was assembled in the Heazlet Theatre last Friday evening, the occasion being the second contest for the beautiful Frey loving cup.

The program presented was a very attractive one, the orations being interspersed with well-rendered musical numbers. The selections rendered by the High School choruses were highly appreciated, and the beautiful violin solo of Dvorak's was most ably rendered by Prof. Lyons, he graciously responding with an encore.

The participants in the contest and their subjects were as follows: Miss Ethel M. Metzler, North Bend, "The Industrial Minotaur;" Miss May D. Hall, Myrtle Point, "What Will You do With Your Birthright?" Miss Gretchen Sherwood, Coquille, "An Erroneous Verdict;" Miss Iva Howey, Coquille, "Progress of Christianity;" Miss Pearl Watkins, North Bend, "A Child of Destiny." All showing deep thought and careful training.

The judges on thought and composition were disinterested parties selected from adjoining counties, Supt. R. R. Turner, Grants Pass, Ore.; Supt. L. L. Baker, Roseburg, Ore.; Supt. A. M. Sanders, Albany, Ore. Those on delivery were: Rev. Lininger, North Bend; Rev. Taylor, Myrtle Point; T. B. Wheeler, Bandon; W. C. Chase, Coquille.

At the conclusion of the program the audience was left for some time in suspense, while the judges came to their decision, it being evident that the contest was a close one. The announcement of the decision was received with wild demonstrations of joy upon the part of the classmates and friends of Miss Gretchen Sherwood, the winning contestant, who by her fine efforts made it possible for Coquille to retain the beautiful loving cup, now won for the second time.

Ill Health is more Expensive Than any Cure.

This country is now filled with people who migrate across the continent in all directions seeking that which gold cannot buy. Nineteen-tenths of them are suffering from throat and lung trouble or chronic catarrh resulting from neglected colds, and spending fortunes vainly trying to regain lost health. Could every sufferer but undo the past and cure that first neglected cold, all this sorrow, pain, anxiety and expense could have been avoided. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. Use it and the more serious diseases may be avoided. For sale by R. S. Knowlton.

NOTICE.

All Coos County warrants drawn on the general fund and endorsed prior to July 1st, 1908, will be paid on presentation at my office in Coquille, Ore. No interest will be allowed on any of these warrants after December 10th, 1909. Dated this 7th day of Dec, 1909. T. M. DIMMICK, County Treasurer.

New Coal Mine at Riverton.

A great deal of enthusiasm will be felt by all of his friends and the energetic business men all over Coos county incident to the opening of the new coal mine at Riverton by Mr. J. R. McGee.

The mine, which is one of the best equipped in this county, was started about five months ago and is intended to take the place of the old Rouse mine, which is worked out. The Rouse coal became famous in this locality and is known to have been the best that has been produced on this coast. The coal from the new mine is of a superior quality and will give great satisfaction, both as a domestic coal and for commercial use.

Mr. McGee struck the coal he was driving for a few days since and began taking it out on the 14th inst. The capacity of the new mine is at least 100 tons per day, and the success of the venture is assured, as Mr. McGee is a thoroughly practical mining man. He was engaged in coal mining in Missouri before he came to Coos county about fifteen years ago, and has been employed in several mines here.

Mr. McGee is an enterprising business man, one endowed with the persistence and courage which allow only of success. His host of friends will wish him well and extend to him their appreciation of the benefit his industry will be along the Coquille river.

Our Brass Band.

Our local brass band is attracting much attention of late. The boys have been practicing regularly and all are taking great interest in their work.

On Saturday evening a concert was given in the Heazlet Theatre, which was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience.

The performance was followed by an hour's dance which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

This is the second concert given lately by this organization and the interest seems to be growing rapidly.

On Sunday afternoon the boys serenaded Ratliff Lawhorn, who it will be remembered suffered a paralytic stroke some time ago, and by whom their kindness was greatly appreciated. They also played several pieces near the Baxter Hotel which attracted many listeners.

Three new horns, a cornet, an alto and tuba, all made by the Keefer Mfg. Co. are here on trial and in a few days three Coon instruments will arrive and they will choose between the two makes. The Keefer instruments, however, seem to be giving great satisfaction. The boys should be given all the encouragement possible, as there is nothing that helps a town more than a good brass band.
