W. S. Noel and J. C. Noel, brothers, who had not seen each other in twenty-five years, and knew nothing of each others whereabouts, met in Coquille last Thursday. W. S. Noel, who has lived at Johnson's mill since June, was down to town that day and saw a stranger on the streets whom it appeared to him he had seen before, but he was a little reticent in accosting the gentleman, but finally spoke to Mr. Burkholder about him, who informed him that it was a Mr. J. C. Noel, late of Gardiner, who had recently purchased the Dulley property in the north part of town. They were soon brought together, and at the Baxter Hotel spent a good share of the afternoon chatting over old times. Last time they met was at Gardiner, 25 years ago, and J. C. has made his home at that place ever since, but W. S. has lived at several different points in the state, having resided in Benton, Lane and Josephine counties. They are 61 and 62 years of age and the only remaining members of the family.
