THE SNAIL AND THE BEAVER

Essay by Irvin Custer, Tenth Grade Pupil in Coquille High School.

The following sketch is taken from the Indiane' legend of the creation of man.

At one time there were no men or women upon the earth although there were many animals and fishes hand and told him to shoot a deer. Then He showed him how to strike fire from a rock and cook the deer.

After the Spirit left the man he was very lonesome and wandered around by himself.

One day the beaver asked the man to come home with him. The beaver spread a great feast for the man who was reminded of his loneliness when he saw how happy the $450. beaver was with his family, so he asked the beaver if his daughter could go with him. The beaver's daughter was kind hearted so she went with the man.
