D. F. DEAN, PROPRIETOR.

County Official Paper.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 10 1910.

The most extensive experiment in the way of grazing the logged-off land has been conducted by Colonel Coach, one of the owners of the Cody Lumber Company, and who has extensive timber holdings in Coos county. At Lampa creek, on the Coquille river, Colonel Coach owns about 5000 acres of timber land from which the company is removing the timber. As the timber is taken off he has burned over the logged-off land and planted it to grass.

Colonel Coach has studied the matter carefully. His plan is to burn the underbrush after the land is logged off and to plant the grass seed the same fall. He has investigated the different grasses and says that he finds a mixture of orchard grass and clover is best adapted to this kind of land. This year he bought about 200 head of cattle which were brought up from Curry county and turned on the the range where they grazed in grass up to their knees. He also raises a large amount of swine on the range.

Colonel Coach says that the big mistake that some have made in experiments with this kind of land is that it is overstocked. He thinks great care must be taken to give the grass a chance to get a good stand and then not overstock before the pasture is well established.

For fruit raising the land of course must be cleared and the expense to do this is considerable, but for grazing it only needs to be burned and seeded and left in its rough condition.—Oregonian.

Port Orford Tribune.

George Wilson, with his gasoline boat the Wanderer, arrived here from Coos Bay Friday on his way to Rogue River for his annual hunt having with him the following people from Empire City, to wit: Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wickman, Mr. Andrew Wickman and sister. On account of wind the boat lay in here until Saturday morning when she ran down to the river—the ladies going overland by stage. The parties are our old Empire friends whom we are glad to meet.

We had one of the surprises of our life last Friday, when Wm. Hurst Jr. gave us a box of berries called "Phenomenal" which they certainly were in size, beauty and flavor. The box was 10 inches long, 3 inches wide and 1 inch deep and it had just 14 berries, each 2 inches long and 1 inch in diameter. They were the first of the kind we had ever seen, and with cream and sugar they were just, Yum! Yum! They are seedless, big enough to sell by the dozen and are the King, Queen and Empress Dowager of all berries. Thank you "Billy", come again.

Last Saturday was a busy day in Port Orford harbor. The U. S. Light house tender, Manzanita Capt. Ellilcott, the steamer Bandon, and the gasoline boats Ranger, Coast and Wanderer, were all at the wharf during the day. The day is not distant when Port Orford will be the terminus of more than one transcontinental railroad, and our great harbor, the deepest on the coast and most easily protected, will be visited by the biggest ships of the world; our battle ships will coal here were the days and risks of crossing the bars, where expensive pilotcharges, and tortuous channels are, will ever be unknown.

That was four years ago and there has been no return of the symptoms since that time." This for sale by R. S. Knowlton.

Thirty people from Portland and Washington points arrived here by Monday afternoon's train on their way to Lakeport.
