to make fine and dandy bread, biscuit and pastry all the time unless you use a flour that is the same in every sack. If you use Olympic Flour week in and week out, you know that all your bakings will prove satisfactory. Often the stove is blamed when the flour is at fault. If the flour is the same in every sack your baking will always be the same.

That's the beauty of using Olympic Flour. You know it will always make the same good, tasty bread, biscuit and pastry, because Olympic Flour never varies. It is made of selected, Northwestern grown, Blue Stem wheat.
