Capt. Dunham Dead.

Captain "Bob" Dunham, master of the Roanoke, and a former well known Coos County man, died at San Francisco Wednesday after a lingering attack of rheumatism. The news of his death which came in a telegram to his sister, Mrs. Jud Mills, was a shock to his friends here as the last word from him was that he was getting along nicely.

Capt. Dunham was for a long time master of the steamship Roanoke but was compelled to give up his position several months ago on account of his health. He visited here a year ago.

Capt. Dunham was born in Illinois but came to Coos County with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dunham, when a boy. His father ran the Utter City Railroad and a small mill there for a long time. His father and mother are buried in the I. O. O. F. cemetery in Marshfield. For several years he served on various boats on the Coquille and Coos Bay, and finally rose to be master of the Roanoke. He was about fifty years old. He is survived by a wife and married daughter. Other surviving relatives are Is Dunham of Coquille, a brother, and several sisters, including Mrs. Jud Mills and Mrs. Ed Raymond of Coos County, Mrs. Lockwood of California, Mrs. Fox of Alaska and Mrs. Bush of San Diego. Hark Dunham of Coquille is an uncle of the deceased. - Coos Bay Times.

Coos Bay News.

Thos. Lawhorn, engineer on the Flyer, has secured Johnnie Snyder to take his place when the Flyer goes to the Coquille with the dredge Oregon, and he and Mrs. Lawhorn intend to spend the summer camping in the mountains.

It is said that the N. P. S. S. Co's steamer Kilburn, which is expected on the Coos Bay-San Francisco route, will not be ready for sea before some time in July. It was supposed that she would be ready in May, but delays that were not anticipated were encountered.

Hank Diers presented us with a couple of briquets made of coal slack last week. He says that briquet manufacturers in the east pronounce the Coos county coal as being a superior article for the purpose, and that undoubtedly a large plant will soon be established on the bay for briqueting purposes.

A long slim fish, with a head somewhat resembling that of a cat and having two formidable rows of teeth, was on exhibition at Ellerby's market Saturday. The fish which is known as a sea wolf, was caught on the banks off Cape Arago. A few of the same species have been caught heretofore by off-shore fishermen.

C. W. Sanford, formerly of Haynes slough, returned Sunday from California, coming in over the Coos Bay wagon road. He has been living at Los Angeles lately, and intends going back there to spend next winter. He says that the weather this spring at Los Angeles was cold and wet, and that the season was backward for fruit and vegetables.

The Oregon has 800 feet yet to dredge on the Pony Slough shoal, but will complete the work by Saturday, June 3d. The channel was being cut 200 feet wide, but when it became apparent that the work could not be finished by June 1st, permission was received from Major Morrow to reduce the width of the channel to 150 feet, the channel to be widened to 200 feet when the dredge returns from Coquille.

Theodore Bergman, the Portland manufacturer of a very high grade and substantial loggers' shoes, arrived in town Monday on a business tour of this part of the coast. His shoes are becoming very popular among the loggers of Coos county, in fact all along the coast as well as on Puget Sound. So much so that his business increased sixty per cent during 1910, and bids fair to make a good showing during the present year. The factory now employs forty experts and is well equipped with modern machinery, and all work turned out is done in the most substantial manner and of the finest and best material obtainable, a great deal of this being imported. There are several of the leading business men of this county who are handling his shoes, and many of our lumbermen will not wear any other make.

The 39th annual reunion of the Oregon Pioneer Association is to take place at Portland on June 21st. Elaborate preparations are being made and this has every promise of being up to the standard for general interest and a grand good time for all who attend. All persons who came to, or were born in the original territory of Oregon up to and including 1859 are eligible to membership, and no one so privileged should fail to take advantage of the opportunity. There is no new Oregon to which we may migrate, and the reminiscences of the days when people crossed the plains with teams should not be allowed to pass from the minds of those who made their way across the continent in that manner, and all who can possibly do so should have these rehearsed first handed from those who were really there. There should be a large attendance.

Glac Bay, C. B., May 26. - One hour by wireless from Glac Bay, C. B., to Dakar, on the coast of French Western Africa, is the astonishing feat that has just been accomplished at the Glac Bay wireless station. The message was flashed from this place to Eiffel Tower at Paris and from Paris relayed to the Dakar station, the whole operation taking but 60 minutes. So successful was the experiment that it is now announced that the British dependencies will be linked together by wireless, and plans to this end are now being made. Between 70 and 80 new stations will be required to put this globe around the world.

Civic Love.

Luther Burbank and a thousand other scientists and experimenters the world over are carefully watching millions of plants in the hope of something new. If any new, strange or peculiar trait appear, the little seedling is watched as priceless; all of the millions of the old and uniform are thrown away. But we of the human garden reserve this. We cherish the million which are all alike, and if, by the infinite miracle of the Infinite, one new and different appear, we beat him, uproot him, derive him of rain, light, air, all that makes for growth; and if he finally triumphs and in a later day, a monument is erected to him as a rare human flower, he has triumphed not in the sunshine of society, but in spite of its pitiless persecution. Can we not for our Festival time create a religion of joy, hope and tolerance by which it shall be our creed to listen well to him who preaches new doctrines? To crown him with flowers now and make glad the living heart—not with bronze when that heart has perished.

The citizens of Florence loved her as if she were a veritable mistress of their affections. It is so we ought to love our city. She sits in the Seat of the Mighty, prepared for her from the beginning. She is crowned with beauty. Her breath is fragrant. All things of joy and greatness lie at her feet. But all will be as iron, hard and black, if she be not spiritually beautiful. Her citizens who love her as their mistress must bring to her as jewels for her wearing: Freedom, Charity, Broad Tolerance, Beauty, Hope. These be above gold. - Charles Erskine Scott Wood, in the June Pacific Monthly.

IS TRAINED FOR POLITICAL LIFE

Woodrow Wilson Tells How He Fitted Himself.

WAS HIS FIRST PREFERENCE.

Studied Law Because It Was the Shortest Path to Public Career, but Quit It, He Says, as He Found He Didn't Know How Then to Be an Honest Lawyer and a Politician.

In an interesting interview with Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in the May issue of the World's Work Mr. William Bayard Hale quotes the governor as follows:

"How did I happen to enter political life? Why, I suppose I was born a political animal. Always, from the first recollections of my youth up, I have aimed at political life. The reason I studied law was, I suppose, because in the south when I was a boy the law furnished the shortest path to public life. I gave it up because I found I couldn't be an honest lawyer and a politician; at least I didn't know how then to do it. So as the next best thing to living in public life I tried to satisfy my mind by studying it. I took a new start and went back to school, Johns Hopkins, where I tried to learn something about the facts—the facts, mind you, of government. From the start my interest has been in things as they are rather than in a theoretical analysis of them. In my thesis I studied the American congress as it is in fact, an organization of committees, somewhat as Bagehot had studied the English constitution as it was and as it actually worked rather than as its theory fictionally made it. So, you see, I was always a practical politician."

"So that your occupancy of this comfortable swivel chair is really a fulfillment of your original youthful ambition?"

"Not of that so much as the fulfillment of my whole life, I suppose. When they came to me and said, 'You have been talking public questions and urging your young men to go out and take their part in politics; now it's time for you to take your own turn,' what could I say except: 'I'm glad of the chance. If the people want me to I will.'"

"Besides, to speak the truth, I was only asked to do in a bigger field what I had been doing at Princeton for ten years. I have been fighting privilege at Princeton, just as I am fighting it here now, only there I had to fight in the dark. My most trusted friends told me I mustn't drag the fight out into the light before the big jury, and so I didn't. Here I can fight the same fight before the eyes of all men. It's fun to be out in the air and the sunlight."

Corporations as Joy Riders.
Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey is not only a forceful and convincing public speaker, but he frequently uses comparisons and anecdotes of a decidedly original and often distinctly humorous nature. In a recent address the governor aptly illustrated the difference between "good" corporations and "bad" corporations, as follows:

"I have no objection to the ordinary automobile properly handled by a man of conscience who is also a gentleman. Many of the people I see handling automobiles handle them as if they had neither conscience nor manners. I have no objections to the size and beauty and power of the automobile. I am interested, however, in the size and conscience of the men who handle them and what I object to is that some of these corporation men are taking joy rides in their corporations."
