First in the hearts of our countrymen.—George Washington.

And many a man leads the simple life—because he has to.

Charity covers a multitude of sins—when it begins at home.

What about that ship of yours that is to come in—has it come yet?

An Illinois man wants a divorce as his wife keeps thirty-seven dogs and cats about the house. In such a home a husband would be quite superfluous. In fact he might be in the way.

While engaged in a prize fight at Waukegan, Illinois, February 19, Joe Ketchell, one of the participants, collapsed and was taken to the Naval hospital where death ensued. Still prize fighting is defined by some people as a manly sport.

The change that is coming over the country is illustrated in a rather marked degree when the suggestion can be made seriously that a woman be named for the Supreme Bench, without causing anyone to smile. The successful candidate for the Presidency next year will without doubt be one who makes an appeal to the woman voter.

COQUILLE CITY COUNCIL CONVENES COLLOQUIALLY

A meeting of the city council took place Monday evening, February 19.

All councilmen present together with the mayor, recorder and city attorney.

Petition to amend an ordinance to permit trap shooting within the city limits on property known as the William Lyons ground consisting of fifteen acres, signed by thirty-one members of the gun club, was read and referred to committee on ordinance.

Moved that the city council rent Nosler's hall for a period of one year for the fire department.

Upon petition Frank Burkholder was granted permission to build an approach from the Moulton street bridge extending to his garage on lot 9, block 4.

The city attorney was instructed to draw proper papers granting right-of-way over land owned by J. A. Collier for water pipe line to Coquille Valley Creamery.

Marshal Hickam tendered his resignation which, on motion, was accepted.

Charles A. Evenden was appointed marshal by Mayor Quick, but was not confirmed by council as required by resolution.

Ordinance No. 121, providing for the license, regulation, control and restraint of the sale of spirituous liquors and fermented cider, commonly called "hard cider," was passed under emergency clause.

Ordinance No. 122 relative to the licensing of dogs was passed and will take effect in thirty days. The only material change in former ordinance being that owners are required to have tags fastened to suitable collars and be continually worn by their dogs.

Council adjourned.

CAPTAIN OF TILLAMOOK ON THINGS IMPORTANT

Captain Antonsen of the steamer Tillamook is highly pleased with the patronage accorded his popular boat since making the through run to Portland. He says the traffic is much larger and consequently more profitable than when he called at the several ports en route. The only thing he deprecates is the unsatisfactory wharfage facilities Coquille affords, saying, "it costs me more to unload my vessel here than it does to transport the cargo." This is not a pleasing condition for any enterprising citizens to entertain and it is hoped the construction of a suitable wharf will not long be deferred. It seems to be the opinion of some that Nosler & Norton will receive the greater benefit from the new wharf but, as proposed, it will offer no added conveniences to them. They desire it for the benefit that would accrue to the people generally rather than from mercenary motives and in this they show a spirit of citizenship worthy of emulation. The Tillamook arrived in port Tuesday evening with a large cargo of flour, seed grain and feed consigned to local dealers and also a goodly quantity for Myrtle Point merchants. Nosler & Norton's warehouse was filled with the commodity an amount which causes us to wonder at the capacity of the ship. The Tillamook left for Portland yesterday afternoon.

Obituary

Tex Robison died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Hickam, this city, Saturday, February 17, 1912.

Mr. Robison's demise was occasioned by a complication of diseases covering a period of several months, four of which he was at the home of his daughter, in this city, where every possible attention was rendered to regain his health, but the will of the All-wise Creator decreed otherwise.

The deceased was born in Cole county, Missouri, January 2, 1847, and had attained the age of sixty-five years, one month and fifteen days. A wife and three children George, James and Eva; also four brothers, Frank, Ten and Price of Coquille, and Rock Robison a dealer in groceries at Portland, Oregon, and one sister, Mrs. W. H. Averill of Albany, Oregon, survive him.

Mr. Robison was favored with considerable of the world's goods and domain being the owner of a farm at Fishtrap consisting of 480 acres. But his earthly possessions were surmounted with that unseen, unpurchasable property with which he was endowed—a good name. He was a kind and indulgent husband, a devoted parent, a loving brother, a true and upright citizen and an honor to the many friends his integrity of character and honesty of purpose had won for him.

Mr. Robison had lived in Coos county for twenty-three years, and was well known throughout this section of the state. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and also allied with the Farmers' Union.

The funeral was held at Fishtrap Monday, February 19, at 2:30 p. m. Rev. W. M. Lyons of Marshfield delivering the funeral oration. A large delegation of friends and acquaintances from Coquille attended the services, leaving here by steamer Myrtle at one o'clock, leaving Fishtrap on the Wolverine at 4:30 p. m.

Mr. Robison's funeral called forth a larger congregation than had ever assembled at Fishtrap on a like occasion, thus paying due honor to the dead and a high tribute of respect to the living.

Died:—Sunday, February 18, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fuhrman.

THE PASSING OF OREGON'S PIONEERS

Joseph Kirkwood, a pioneer of 1846 and one of the famous characters among the early-day Oregonians, died at the age of 91 at his home near Hopewell. He came to the United States with his parents from Scotland in 1825. In 1846 he settled on a donation claim in Yamhill county where he resided to the present time.

Everington DeArmond Kelly, one of the most prominent pioneers of Clackamas county, died at Oregon City, Oregon, at the age of 79. Mr. Kelly was postmaster of Oregon City during President Cleveland's first term and afterwards was a member of the city council and county treasurer. He crossed the plains in 1853 settling in Oregon City.

Frank J. Bolter, of Brooks, for 25 years one of Marion County's most prominent hopgrowers and farmers, died recently of hemorrhage of the brain. When three years old he crossed the plains with his parents locating in Salem. In the early 80's he secured one of the best hop ranches in Marion county and handled his crop successfully, not as a speculator, but as a grower selling when it was ready for the market. Mr. Bolter was a loyal member of Salem Camp, No. 118 Woodmen of the World.

Stewart B. Eakin, vice president of the First National Bank and active in business circles for many years, died in Eugene at the age of 65 years. In 1882 he was elected to the legislature, the only Republican member from Lane county. In 1888 he was elected state senator, the first Republican to be returned from Lane county to that office in 18 years. Mr. Eakin was born in Elgin, Illinois, in 1846 and crossed the plains into Oregon at the age of 20.

Paul Harpole, a pioneer of 1851, died at his home on the old donation claim near Gervais at the age of 71. He settled on his claim in 1852.

Mrs. Mary J. Carl, daughter of Jonathan Stout, a pioneer of 1852, died at her home at Carlton. She was the widow of Wilson Carl after whom the city was named.

ITEMS FROM NEIGHBORS

McKINLEY ITEMS

Owing to great slides in the roads caused by heavy rains, the Roseburg mail failed to get through on February 17. There was one slide on Cherry Creek mountain, one on Brewster grade and one in Brewster valley near Walter Laird's place.

An oyster supper was given on the East Fork by the logger boys of Fred Minard's camp, at the residence of Jeff Crosby last Friday night. About 40 persons were present, in spite of the heavy rain, and a good time was reported.

L. F. R. Heller has finished his spring plowing and is now ready for planting as soon as the weather and ground will permit.

A. L. Brown has been working on his gasoline wood saw and hopes to get it in running order soon.

Charlie Heller is almost through with his spring plowing.

A family from Marshfield have rented the Joe Laird place near McKinley and will move this week. Mr. John Porter having moved in another house near by.

Lee Mast made a trip with wagon and team to Coquille last week. He reports the road near the county poor farm as almost impassible.

Eldrage Ingram of Lee took dinner at Charles Heller's Sunday giving him a surprise visit.

MYRTLE POINT NEWS

Ray Dement came home last Friday after a six weeks' stay at Portland, and with sister, Mrs. L. Braden, near there.

Mr. Joe Laird, mail carrier between here and Roseburg, had a fine horse go off the grade at Todd's hill on Saturday morning and killed.

Mr. S. S. Endicott and family have moved into the Len Branden cottage on Fifth and Harris streets.

Mrs. E. Broadbent went to Marshfield Friday for a visit, but came back Saturday being afraid of the high water.

THEY DO SAY

That loyalty is contagious.

That sometimes you hate a thing because it is true.

That work cures more maladies than thought.

That suspicion gives free play to the imagination.

That the coat may not make the man but a lawsuit may unmake him.

That both sides can't always get the best of a bargain.

That the earth was a revolver before firearms were invented.

That the man who makes the least noise is often the most dangerous.

That a little outside assistance might have improved some self-made men.

That a woman's looks affect a man more than her talk.

That a conceited man is often conceited enough to think that he isn't.

That any woman a spinster can pretend that she would rather be her own boss.

That after you form the purpose you find the path.

That you don't have to be dogmatic to be determined.

That in the game of flirtation benedicts rush in where bachelors fear to tread.

That there are fifty-seven varieties of love and every one is a different kind of pickle.

That probably a rose by any other name would have just as many slugs.

That an engaged couple prefer lip to lip silence than heart to heart talks.

That polite conversation is the art of exchanging opinions of no value on subjects of no interest.

That creditors are like gray hairs, a man worries over a few but with a large crop he becomes resigned.

"WHERE WE VISITED."

The time when all our family good An' vis-ited a man pa knowed 'When he was little most like me 'At lives at Jenkinstown, why, we Got on the cars an' rode an' rode— A hundred miles it seemed to be!

'At man where our folks vis-ited 'Was rich an' all git out, pa said, 'An' got a house 'at's bigger, law, Than any house you ever saw— 'An' lives there all alone! Ma said 'She pitied him, an' so did pa.

He held me, too, an' kissed me, an' He told me I was quite a man 'An' said he'd 'dopt, if it could be, Some boy about the size of me. 'An' first pa told him that he can, 'An' then he told him, "No, sir—e-e!"

An' next day when our family good 'Back home again we rode an' rode, 'An' pa let pat me on the head, 'An' ma did, too, an' then they said 'At they was richer, lots, they knowed, 'Than 'at pore man we vis-ited! —Buffalo News.

Taking the Cure.

"Remarkable! I've been here drinking the waters only half a day, and I've gained twenty pounds already!"—Heitere Welt.

A Darky's Partnership. Senator John Sharp Williams tells the following as illustrating the simplicity of the old time darky in the south:

Mr. Williams was once proceeding along a road near a Mississippi town when he met an aged negro hauling driftwood into a pile of wood already stacked to such an extent that he was moved to say:

"Uncle you've gathered a big lot of firewood, haven't you?" "I shore has," chuckled the old man, "an' what you sees ain't half what I've picked up dis season."

"What did you do with the rest of it—sell it?" "No, sah, I totes it up to Mr. Perkins' place, 'bout a mile from here. Me an' him is partners, an' he lets me have half of all de wood I picks up."—St. Louis Republic.
