SOMNAMBULIST WALKS DANGEROUS PATHS

Miss Nettie Porter of Lakeview, Oregon, 20 years old, arose from her bed and walked 10 miles while out of her senses, and was found at three o'clock in the morning, when she fell exhausted upon the porch of the Glidden residence in New Pine Creek, 15 miles south of Lakeview.

She was quickly restored to consciousness, and has now nearly recovered. She did not know how she had reached the Glidden home. The last she remembered was going to bed at the home of the family for whom she worked, three miles away. Her tracks were followed through the fields, woods, over rocks and through creeks which she had forded.

A wound on her breast is believed to have been caused by a barbed wire fence through which she crawled in the darkness.

An unusual phenomena occurred near Moscow, Idaho, when, during a snow storm, the ground seemed covered with a peculiar yellow substance mingled with snow. Different persons tasted it, found it was decidedly like sulphur and that it contained grit, like dust or sand. It was evidently a shower of volcanic or meteoric dust. The fall of snow and dust amounted to about a quarter of an inch.

The Seattle county commissioners have decided to build a crematory and incinerate the bodies now interred in the Potter's field in order to make room for factory sites. There are approximately 3,000 buried there. Fifty acres have been platted to be leased for industrial sites, and hereafter paupers who come under county jurisdiction will be cremated unless their relatives object.

Five hundred is the booster mark set for the hoped-for attendance at the 1912 summer school session at the University of Oregon, Eugene.

A vigorous campaign is being planned to keep in the state those who hitherto have been going east and south for their summer school work and particular pressure will be brought to bear to attract those of the teaching profession who usually "hibernate" during the vacation months.

FORMULA TO COMBAT THE WOOLLY APHIS

Prof. A. L. Melander, entomologist at the Washington State Agricultural Experiment Station at Pullman, has prepared the following statement and recommendations for combating this insect in orchards.

The woolly aphis is one of the most serious of orchard pests. It occurs both on the roots and on the branches of apple trees. The form above ground can be easily killed by spraying. A spray of tobacco, such as the black leaf dip, one part to sixty-five parts of water, or a kerosene emulsion, or even a combination spray containing these two mixed, will easily kill the aphid on the branches. To make sure of thorough work, the spray should be applied with Bordeaux nozzles and driven with considerable pressure. It is necessary to wet through the wool of the insects. If the spraying can be thorough, the ordinary sulphur lime spray will destroy the aphid above ground.

For the roots there is no satisfactory treatment. Placing ground tobacco around the uncovered roots, or wetting the ground with the tobacco spray, sulphur lime, or kerosene emulsion will kill off a small proportion of the root aphid, but is never likely to give complete satisfaction. The root aphid does not penetrate deeper than eighteen inches below ground. In giving a root treatment it is best to uncover as much of the roots as possible before applying the insecticide. Banding the trees with tree tangle-foot applied over a band of cotton will keep the root form from migrating up the trunk to locate on the branches. In that way the branches can be kept free from the woolly aphid.

When the woolly aphid attacks a tree the tree is poisoned, swellings occur during the first year of the attack and the growth of the tree, as well as of the fruit, is materially stunted. The root form causes gall like swellings, preventing the root action, and in the course of a few years causing decay of the roots. After a few years the tree is so undermined and weakened that it is practically killed.

Mr. Fields has conducted the office of county clerk of Multnomah county at a profit of $30,000 annually; under former administration loss was $6,000 annually. He will give the secretary of state's office the commendable record he has made as a public servant in the past ten years.

MARRIAGE KINSHIP CAUSES QUEER MIXUP

Miss Belle Holmes of Belle Centre, Ohio, was recently married to Perry Lowe, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. A. Wharton.

A relationship tangle is made by this marriage that is difficult to unravel.

The bride is the stepdaughter of John Lowe, who is a brother of her husband. She married her uncle and became the sister of her father, while her husband is a son of his brother. She is her own aunt and her husband is his own uncle.

KICKED TO DEATH BY A DEAD MULE

James Brown was kicked to death at Trade, Tenn., just across the North Carolina line, by a dead mule. Brown was taking the corpse of the animal from a narrow wagon to bury it when the stiffened hind legs recoiled with great force, striking him over the heart and causing almost instant death. He leaves a widow and five children.

THE CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT

A Little Advance Political Information for the Benefit of Voters at the Coming Primary Nominating Election

The direct primary corrupt practices pamphlets are now being printed at the state printing office, Salem. April 10, is the latest date given the secretary of state to mail the same to every registered voter in the state. In this pamphlet the arguments of the various political aspirants are set forth at an expense of $100 per page to those who would partake of the political pie.

Ben W. Olcott announces on page 32 of the pamphlet, "I have been a Republican all my life. * * * In April, 1911, I was appointed secretary of state by Gov. West."

Wow! A lifetime Republican, securing an appointment from a Democratic governor—and how? Because Olcott was the avowed manager of West's campaign and the governor thus rewarded him for services rendered in that capacity. Democrats as well as Republicans have in this duo political lovers who are engaged by a tie of "tickle me, I'll tickle you" that will not bind the independent, conscientious voter to cast his ballot for its continuance.

In Frank S. Fields, for ten years clerk of Multnomah county, Republicans have a candidate for secretary of state that is in every way worthy of support. In the pamphlet, he says: "I want to tell you right here that a candidate who sends a letter to every voter violates the corrupt practices act. It costs about $3,000 for one letter. The law allows me to spend $675, and I am going to stay within that limit. I also want to tell you that the candidate who says the money is being spent by a friend in his behalf is juggling with the truth."

Mr. Fields has conducted the office of county clerk of Multnomah county at a profit of $30,000 annually; under former administration loss was $6,000 annually. He will give the secretary of state's office the commendable record he has made as a public servant in the past ten years.

Mr. Fields asks the support of all Republicans who favor progression and the Oregon system.

SEVENTEEN MINUTES PAST EIGHT O'CLOCK

The dials of the silent representative of a clock upon the Coos county court house as well as all imitation clocks used by jewelers throughout the United States to designate their business, have hands pointing to the time stated in the above caption. It is said this was the hour president Lincoln was assassinated. Since the day of our martyred president all clocks made for the purposes specified have dials pointing to 8:17, serving as a reminder of the untimely death of one of our most illustrious presidents. Doubtless many of our readers are unacquainted with this fact, particularly the younger generation, and we impart the knowledge for their benefit.

MYRTLE POINT MUSINGS WORTHILY MENTIONED

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Giles have returned from California, near Portersville, where they spent the winter.

Mr. D. Griffin arrived on the last steamer from Visalia, California, having spent the winter with his daughter. He said the last rain was a Godsend to that section everything being very dry.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Endicott moved last week into their new home which they purchased from Frank Schroeder.

The new library is doing well. The circulating State Library sent 60 books which are being used with a great deal, and the library seems to be very popular.

Mr. Thomas Root and Miss Florence McCracken were married at the home of the bride's mother on March 20, by the Rev. Thomas Barklow. They will make their home in Pleasant Valley where the bride is teaching school. Both the young people are very popular.

Dr. Straw of Marshfield was a visitor here over Sunday. He came up on business.

BREEZY BUDGET OF BRIEFS FROM BANCROFT

Miss Goldie Carey of Bandon is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Crunk, and other relatives in this vicinity.

Rock creek is to have a bridge across the ford between the Evereden and Crunk properties.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Morris welcomed a baby girl to their home March 21.

Georgie Rice, the ten-year-old son of A. L. Rice, had the misfortune to cut his foot with an ax a few days ago, but is getting along nicely.

A. C. Kurtz has torn down his old barn and is putting one up in a more suitable location.

BREWSTER VALLEY SHOWERS GOOD NEWS

S. H. Charlton and F. A. Baker are falling timber for E. P. S. Abernethy's saw mill.

John Porter has returned from Eastern Oregon where he went to take up a homestead, and is now drawing the reins over the broncos for J. D. Laird's stage line. Mr. Porter will move his family to his homestead about June 1.

Miss Effie Porter of McKinley is visiting at the home of J. D. Laird.

Mrs. E. N. Harry entertained at her home St. Patrick's Day. Those present were: Mildred Laird, Mildred East, Zilphie Benham, Linnie Benham, Joe Crawford, Joe Neilson and the members of her own family.

Mrs. Nellie Harry who has been quite sick at her home for about six weeks is slowly recovering.

The Coos Bay road in the canyon is much improved as the mail is getting over on schedule time.

Colfax Harry started for Roseburg March 22, on a business trip. Ethel Laird is staying at the home of O. C. Harry for the present.

MISCELLANEOUS TID BITS FROM M'KINLEY

Mr. Aasen has moved his logging machinery to Lee Mast's upper place and will log there this spring.

G. G. Swan, justice of the peace, was here March 20, and made it possible for a number of voters to register.

Road Supervisor Stout is arranging to put in a new bridge between Charles Heller's and Mr. Bunch's lower place, the old one being dangerous.

One of James Laird's mail horses was slightly injured by some barbed wire which had been dragged into the road from a nearby fence.

Mr. N. Nece, who has rented the Joe Laird place, has a fine team and is making ready for farming. He expects to raise at least 100 sacks of potatoes for sale. He has some thoroughbred chickens and is starting in a scientific manner.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Young of Dora gave a party at their home Saturday. An enjoyable time was reported.

Mr. Frank Snow has cleared a fine piece of land of stumps by removing them with giant powder.

The Heller Brothers have their crop all in now and expect late garden and late potatoes.

The McKinley school will begin April 8.

Mrs. W. H. Bunch and children will move to their home on Cherry creek the first of next week, school having closed at the Graved Ford Academy March 27.

Because his wife "talked back" to him while he was hearing a case in court, Judge Irving Beeman fined her $25 for contempt and compelled her to pay the fine under threat of committing her to jail. The Judge said his action was necessary to maintain the dignity of the court. Mrs. Beeman was waiting in the courtroom for her husband to complete a case before going on a shopping tour. The plea of a prisoner aroused her sympathy and she attempted to intercede in his behalf. Judge Beeman remonstrated and a family row was brewing when the bailiff came to the rescue. The shopping trip was postponed.

The parcels post as operated in Switzerland is a great convenience to all classes of citizens, and especially to shop people and small dealers in various commodities, by transporting all classes of merchandise, in limited quantities, promptly and safely at a nominal cost.
