Oregon's forests distribute more wealth than her apples, fish, wool and wheat combined.

March 1912 has been recorded in Chicago's history as the coldest March ever known there in 40 years.

The total waterpower in Oregon amounts to 3,317,000 theoretical horsepower. Less than one per cent of this is actually developed.

The new Carnegie Library at Newberg has just been completed and opened. It is a fine brick structure and stands in one of the most central locations in the city.

Twenty quail, 105 cottontails, 118 hares and 1,120 ducks, confiscated by the state commission, were cooked into an immense pie for the inmates of the relief home at San Francisco.

A flock of nearly 300 turkeys was driven from Berlin, Somerset county, to Johnstown, Pa., along the highway without difficulty like sheep. They were driven by easy stages and attracted much attention.

A Paris merchant has recently launched the business of renting wedding presents. The articles desired are selected and rental paid in proportion to their value. An employe attends the wedding in disguise to look after the merchant's property.

Mrs. Ruhama Vickers is dead at Los Angeles, aged 96. She was never ill, never tasted medicine, always did her own laundry and housework, and attended church three times a week. She died of paralysis.

Fanny Crosby, writer of gospel hymns which are known the world over, is now 92 years old. She has been totally blind since she was six months old and has written 3,000 hymns in all. Mrs. Crosby lives with a niece at Bridgeport.

Among the strange gifts received by Mrs. Taft are several sacred tea plants from the garden of the Buddhist priests in Ceylon. The plants were sent to the Secretary of Agriculture, who will have them cared for in the tea farms of the Carolinas, which are under the supervision of the department.

A hen's egg 8 1/16 inches in circumference is on exhibition at the Utah produce exposition. In attempting to make a world's record the hen gave up her life. Notwithstanding the grief in the family and the peril of the undertaking, a sister of the "deceased" laid an egg that measured 7 3/4 inches.

CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS FOR THE FARMERS

In the meeting of the Pomona Grange at Springfield, a movement was started by J. A. Johnson of Junction City, toward the establishment of farmers' credit associations in Oregon, similar to those that have been in operation in Denmark, Germany, and other parts of Europe, for more than a quarter of a century. In the working of his plan, which is to be presented at the State Grange at Roseburg next month, Mr. Johnson has solicited the aid of Professor Joseph Schafer, head of the history department at the University of Oregon, and a writer on economic subjects, and Professor Frederick G. Young, the department of economics at the same institution.

Through farmers' credit associations, as conducted in Europe, a property owner is enabled to obtain long time loans, in amounts as great as half the value of his property at six per cent and have two per cent or one-third of the interest money laid away as an insurance to be paid to him in time of emergency or at the end of a stated period. By selling bonds, an organization of this sort can obtain money at four per cent, which upon being loaned to its members at six per cent, leaves two per cent in the treasury, which at compound interest soon amounts to a substantial portion of the principal.

At present the farmer is the prey of the loan shark, who frequently forces him to pay as high as ten per cent on one year and two year loans.

the steamer Sonoma. Besides a luxurious vacation, a sea voyage with the beautiful west coast always in sight, members of the Sonoma party will have an educational experience of the highest value. They will see the canal, the most stupendous engineering work of modern times.

Aviator Gustav Hamel and a woman passenger, Miss Mary Davis, successfully passed over the English channel and effected a safe landing in the suburbs of Paris. Miss Davis is the first woman to fly across the channel in either direction.

Mrs. David Beach left New York April 10, to walk to Chicago which city she expects to reach June 1. During this 1,000-mile trip she will eat only raw foods such as wheat, raisins and nuts. She will drink no water, depending upon milk and fruit juices. Mrs. Beach is making this long trip with the one object of convincing the public that her system of diet is correct and she promises to prove that her theories having worked successfully in her own case, are just as practical for the workingman under hard labor conditions.

EASTER SERVICES AT M. E. CHURCH SOUTH

The observance of Easter by the churches of the city last Sunday was quite universal, but the order of worship at the M. E. Church South is worthy of special mention. Here the congregation was favored with a neatly printed program appropriately arranged by the pastor which added much interest to the occasion. Incorporated in the program was the pastor's greeting to the church and deeming it of unusual merit we reproduce it for the benefit of our readers. It is as follows:

DEARLY BELOVED:—

Once again has the glorious Easter Day come. We pass from the recollection, for the time being, of the sufferings and death of the Messiah, to a contemplation of His triumph. The darkness of the tomb has faded away. I think it is very significant that Easter comes in the Spring, for Easter dispelled the gloom of the grave, and Spring drives before it the gloom of Winter.

Possibly the happiest time of the year is Easter. I hardly think that statement too broad. Christmas is a happy time, for then we celebrate the birth of our Redeemer. But at Easter we commemorate His resurrection from the dead; we celebrate His triumph over His last enemy. As we commemorate this Easter occasion, let us remember that Christ has shown to the world that all power is given unto Him, both in heaven and in earth.

It was not possible that Christ should be held of death. He was above its power; he was superior to it. True, His body must succumb, but in three days he arose triumphant. This shows greater power than had He never died. It is an historical fact that Christ arose from the tomb. It is beyond the power of successful contradiction. It may transcend human reason, but it does not contradict it. To deny the Resurrection is to show the narrowness and the ignorance of the mind. Might as well deny the battle of Gettysburg. It would be just as reasonable. Christ had told the Jews that if they should destroy His body, He would build it again in three days. He did so. Men could crucify Him and place Him in the tomb, but they could not keep him there. Christ arose, and because He will, shall arise also. The question has been asked—If a man die, shall he live again? It has been answered by all nations. All peoples of history have believed in immortality. They may have had crude ways of expressing the belief, but they held to the belief. And today the belief is stronger than ever. In fact, the more enlightened the nation, the greater is its belief in immortality. Job said that in his flesh he would see God. Christ said: "In My Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you." He said that if we would be faithful unto death, He would give us a crown of life. Should not these promises keep us faithful? I shall be gathered to Him on the Resurrection Morn, no matter whether this old body lies in some grave in a beautiful hillside cemetery, or at the bottom of the sea. He will find it—He said He would, and that is sufficient. But it will then be made like unto His own glorious body. I believe this flesh is precious to Him, and that He will bring it to Himself for complete purification.

Let us this Easter morn arise from our selfishness, from our doubt, from our indifference, and from our sin, into newness of heart, and of life. May this day be a blessing and an inspiration to you. May it increase your faith. May you behold your Risen Saviour.

"For though from out this bourne of time and place,
The flood may bear me far;
I hope to see my Pilot face to face,
When I have crossed the bar."

Your Pastor,
C. H. CLEAVES.

The M. E. Church South was organized in Coquille in 1875, and has at this time one hundred and forty-five members comprising many of our most enterprising business and professional men. It has been a potent factor in moulding the spiritual welfare of the community, and no more zealous or better worker in the cause of Christianity is to be found in any sanctuary in our land—or one in which the people generally have a higher regard—than Rev. Cleaves, the present pastor. May the good work so well inaugurated ever continue.

Very few leaders are as wise as those following them imagine.

JOHN RHOADES GOES INSANE

Imagines He Holds Direct Communication With Deity—Hallucinations Superinduced by Strong Drink—A Pitiable Case

John Rhoades was arraigned before Hon. John F. Hall, County Judge of Coos County at 10 o'clock on Monday last charged with insanity. No evidence was needed other than that given by the unfortunate man. Mr. Rhoades is thirty-eight years of age, a Missourian by birth and has been a resident of Coquille for about three years. Prior to his coming to this city he was a saloon keeper in Baltimore, a calling which necessitated his imbibing too freely of the cup that inebriates, terminating in religious hallucinations that he manifested in no uncertain manner on frequent occasions. While in the court room, with fingers in his ears to cut off earthly intercourse, he entered into an imaginary—though to him real—wireless communication with the Almighty. He was accordingly adjudged insane and Superintendent Dr. Lee Steiner of the Insane Asylum was telegraphed to send attendants to take him to the asylum at Salem.

Mr. Rhoades is a bachelor and had no known relatives in this community except John and Jacob Fouts who, we are informed, are cousins.

The unfortunate man had conducted himself in an exemplary manner while in Coquille, was a good, conscientious worker and honest in all his dealings. His condition is most pitiable and it is sincerely hoped the care he will receive at the state institution will bring back to him the power of viewing and enjoying life as it truly exists.

Advice to a Fool

(Communicated)

- If the world don't do exactly as you think it ought to do, Get mad;
- If you meet with opposition, get a toothsome rag to chew—Get mad;
- Get as mad as hops, and show it; Feed your anger, fan it, blow it; Pout and let the whole world know it—Get mad!
- If the joke you tried to spring upon the other fellow turns, Get mad;
- If you get the poker's portion that invariably burns, Get mad;
- Play the baby, whine and blubber Like the rankest sort of lubber, While the gamins guy and rubber—Get mad!
- If you step into a place and they shun you to your face, Get mad;
- Never smile and make a joke of it, or folks will think you dull—Get mad;
- Turn and frown upon the lot Who have called you drunken sot, Up and give them each a swat, Get mad!
- If you are looking for a scrap in the town you're living in, Get mad;
- For you will find the people ready with their faces all agrin, Get mad;
- Just hand it to them left and right, Sail into them with all your might, Go to it, Pal, and end your spite, Get mad!

THREE THOUSAND MEN BUILDING REO THE FIFTH

The following letter received by J. C. Walling from Northwest Auto company gives interesting particulars relative to automobile construction:

Portland, Ore., Mar. 29, 1912.

Dear Sir:—The writer has just returned from the factories in the East and takes pleasure in reporting the following:

He found the Reo factory running full capacity from seven in the morning until nine at night. They are employing at this time over three thousand men and he is safe in saying that a more enthusiastic lot of employes were never gathered together in any factory than he found here. Each employe seemed to work and feel that the success of Reo the Fifth depended on him this season.

You know what this means when you place a car built by a factory backed by the enthusiasm of its employes.

We found Mr. R. E. Olds in his office, his face showing the supreme confidence and satisfaction that he was giving his agents the very best there is in a car this year and this was backed up by the flood of orders being received every day at the factory. On Saturday the 10th of this month, the factory received 386 Reos—the largest order ever received by any factory in the world for one day's business.

The writer wants to thank the agents of the Northwest for their response to his request for the number of cars they would require for the next sixty days. In footing up the estimates, it was shown that at least 370 cars were wanted and this did not include the 100 more that we had orders for already. On this showing, we were able to get 150 cars started out. They are now arriving, but the demand is still keeping up.

Now it is only necessary for me to add that it is up to you to get your orders in as every day that passes impresses the buying public that they are going to have a Reo this year, if possible.

The factory expresses their satisfaction in knowing they have such loyal representatives in the Northwest.

Send in your immediate requirements at this time so that you may be supplied with what you require out of the one hundred fifty cars now on the road and we will do our best to supply you. You may rest assured that you are placing a car before the public this year that is without an equal in the automobile world today. Yours very truly,
NORTHWEST AUTO CO.

MANY-FINGERED PEOPLE IN A RUSSIAN COLONY

The village of Koshilovo, Russia, has a colony of more than fifty peasants who possess from one to five fingers more than the ordinary human being. They are all descendants of a peasant who married in the early part of the last century and who had two extra fingers on one hand. Inter-marriage is spreading the deformity to neighboring villages, according to a government report. Some of the peasants have as many as eight fingers on one hand, and others have one or two extra on each hand.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON ON EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Gov. Johnson of California spoke before the Ohio Constitutional Convention the other day, and his address is said to have made an extraordinary impression. Miss Elizabeth J. Hauser writes from Columbus to the Chicago Public:

"A wonderful thing happened here today. A MAN spoke to the Constitutional Convention. The press dispatches will tell what Gov. Johnson of California said, but no report of his speech can possibly carry with it the spirit of the speech itself."

Gov. Johnson spoke especially on the initiative, referendum and recall, and the direct presidential preference primary, but he also put in a good word for woman suffrage. He said:

"In the beginning I was not an ardent advocate of equal suffrage, but I thought it should be left with the people. I insisted, without taking any side, that if a large proportion of the people wanted the question submitted to them, it was their right to have it.

"We have had three municipal elections in California since the woman suffrage amendment was adopted. In the bitter contest in Los Angeles the women registered in many districts in a greater proportion than the men, and they voted quite as intelligently and discriminatingly as the men. One judge, who presided at an election, told me that there were four men who asked instructions as to how to vote in the Los Angeles election, and he said that in each case these instructions were given by women who happened to be present."

Another significant remark made by Gov. Johnson was: "In the west the people have found the power of expression, while in the East the politicians and interests have the power of repression."

"THAT STRAW VOTE"

The Teachers' Choice for County School Superintendent

On February 7, 1912, a letter was sent to each teacher in the county asking the recipient to indicate his or her first and second choice for the position of County School Superintendent for the ensuing term of four years. These votes, signed by each teacher voting, are filed with the President of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce, who will verify the result as it relates to the two candidates now before the Republican Primaries as follows: W. H. Bunch 67, Raymond E. Baker 1.
