CURRY COUNTY ITEMS

A cheese factory is among the business enterprises proposed in Gold Beach.

Hon. J. H. Upton has sold his farm near Port Orford and moved to Langlois.

Roads are being greatly improved in Curry county, particularly the main one traversing southward.

One Woodman Angus goats, many of them registered, have been secured by the Weddeburn Trading company.

A million and a half of chinook salmon eggs has been furnished by the government for the Indian Creek Hatchery on upper Rogue river.

In an attempt to cross the Illinois river on a raft U. M. Parker and his son Eric lost control of the primitive conveyance and were drowned.

Leroy Curry of Coquille is visiting his brother George and James at this place. Leroy is a leading Socialist in Coos County and is an interesting and original conversationalist and well read in the texts of his party. He says the campaign in Coos will be active and there will be a surprise when the votes are counted in November. He is now quite gray but enjoys good health.—Port Orford Tribune.

Some miners' cabins on Sixes river have been raided by thieves and contents stolen. The guilty parties are suspected but lack of definite evidence has delayed their arrest. In early days the miners would have organized, searched the cabin or tent of the suspected persons and if they were guilty, they would have been punished and run out of the country. It was good medicine then! Why not try it now?

THE BYPLAY MINSTRELS

"Mr. Interlocutor, if my sister fell into the river, why would I be unable to rescue her?"

"I cannot say, Mr. Tambo, unless you are unable to swim."

"Oh, I can swim like a fish, Mr. Interlocutor."

"Then why would you be unable to rescue your sister if she fell into the river, Mr. Tambo?"

"Because I could not be a brother and assist her, too."

"Mr. Dodge Garbage will now render that beautiful ballad: 'I'll wed you in the spring time if you won't drink no more booze.'"

With too many of us thankful-ness is a theory, and not a condition.

THE PASSING OF OREGON'S PIONEERS

After a short illness Edward S. Lamport, one of the best known pioneers of Salem, died at his home in that city of tumor on the brain. Mr. Lamport was the pioneer saddle and harness maker of the Pacific Coast. For 43 years he conducted a shop at Salem at the identical location and acquired quite a fortune which is largely represented in extensive property holdings in the business district of that city. He took an active part in the battles of the Civil War. Mr. Lamport was a prominent citizen of Salem being connected with the Foresters and the G. A. R. and at one time a member of the city council. Besides a widow and three children he is survived by two sisters and a brother, Henry, of Marshfield. At the time of his death Mr. Lamport was 67 years of age.

Death removed another old pioneer at the age of 80 years who has resided in Portland since that city was a mere hamlet—Mrs. Elizabeth Dart Johnson. She was the daughter of Anson Dart, commissioner of Indian affairs of Oregon territory before the great northwest was divided. Her mother was Eliza Catlin, a sister of the noted traveler and portrait painter, George Catlin. She was an aunt of the cartoonist, Harry Grant Dart. Mrs. Johnson was the last of a large family, all of whom lived to ripe old age.

Peter August Peterson, a pioneer of Coos County, died May 19 at his home in Eastside after a two years' illness of a complication of diseases incident to his advanced years. Mr. Peterson came to Coos County in 1862 and for a time lived in Marshfield. Later he moved to Haynes Inlet where he lived for many years. Some years ago he went to Eastside where the family now reside. Mr. Peterson was 78 years of age and is survived by a wife and several children.

William W. Moore, an old time printer and a native of Oregon, died at his home in Eugene at the age of 56 years. He worked at his trade for 30 years or more. He was a member of Woodmen of the World and was affiliated with the Knights of the Maccabees.

D. B. Rees, who recently died in Portland crossed the plains with an ox team and settled in Oregon in 1866. He was at one time register of the land office in Union county. Masonic brethren conducted the funeral services.

Mrs. Louise Hoecker, a resident of Portland for twenty-five years, died at Garden Home, on the Oregon Electric railway, recently at the age of 67 years, after an illness of several months.

A REMINDER FOR GIRLS AND BOYS OF OREGON

State Superintendent L. R. Alderman has addressed a letter to the boys and girls of Oregon who have decided to grow some garden produce, raise some chickens, or pigs, or sew, cook or carpenter for their local fairs, in connection with the great state-wide series of agricultural and industrial contests this year. The young people are reminded that their schools are closing, a hot and tempting summer is approaching, and that the rewards, both in prizes and in good habit cultivation, will continue as big as they are now although the number of contestants to claim them may grow smaller. In his letter the state superintendent says:

"Your schools are now closing and many of you will hear the call of the swimming pool and the shady woods. I hope you respond to these calls of nature with a right good will, but do not forget your gardens, and your pigs and poultry. If you forget your gardens, the calves, the chickens, your little brothers and sisters are likely to disturb them. If you neglect your pigs they will squeal on you. Stand by the work you have started. The number of contestants may grow smaller, but the value of the prizes will grow greater for those little lambs, goats and pigs to be given for the best vegetables are fattening, those Shetland ponies are getting more glossy, and that thousand dollars in cash is looming up like the mountains of Midas. At least $20,000 in cash and merchandise will be given to the boys and girls of Oregon this year.

Perhaps you would like to hear what the schools in the other counties are doing. You may easily guess this from the fact that there are to be over 85 children's fairs. By counties the number already reported to my office is as follows:

Baker 1, Benton 1, Clackamas 10, Clatsop 1, Columbia 2, Coos and Curry 1, Crook 2, Douglas 6, Gilliam 1, Grant 1, Harney 1, Hood River 1, Jackson 1, Josephine 1, Klamath 1, Lake 1, Lane 7, Lincoln 1, Linn 3, Malheur 1, Marion 2, Morrow 1, Multnomah 2, Polk 1, Sherman 1, Tillamook 2, Umatilla 7, Wallowa 1, Wasco 1, Washington 3, Wheeler 3, Yamhill 1.

We think there will be several others but the first reports show the above as certain. From the middle of August to the middle of October the work of boys and girls will be the center of attraction at these fairs. Isn't this a fine race? Now that you are fairly into the game show your grit and stick to it to the end."

MORE MUSIC MORE MILK

Dreamy Music Hath Charms to Soothe Bussy and an Increased Production of Milk is the Result

Practical dairymen and veterinarians and animal psychologists in the Spokane district and throughout eastern Washington are agreed that the theory advanced by Josiah Grant of Wisconsin, to increase the milk supply by the introduction of dreamy waltz music in the cow stables, is reasonably logical and worthy of serious consideration.

Mrs. Joseph Rundersdorf, acting president of the Spokane Humane Society, is confident the theory is correct, saying: "Music affects and soothes every animal or human being. Loud music would cause an animal to be nervous, while soft music, which would sooth the nerves of the cow, would naturally increase the milk production."

Dr. Otto Minig of the veterinary staff of the state of Washington College, who conducted experiments along similar lines while preparing a work on animal psychology, said the man who ridiculed the Grant idea is merely betraying his ignorance.

"That idea is not to be treated lightly," said Dr. Minig. "Anything that soothes the nerves aids in the milk production. Cows, as other animals, are attracted or repelled by sound. To use cuss words with your cows lessens the milk production. I do not question that soft music would have the desired effect in increasing the supply."

Dr. Walter Baker, also a member of the staff, recalled an experiment where a dog secretes saliva while eating as music is being played, and indorses the plan.

John Munro of the Munro dairies, seemed impressed with the idea, saying:

"If it were not for the appearance of the thing I would be inclined to give it a thorough trial. We have forbidden our employees to make loud noises, run a wheelbarrow through the stables or use rough language, as it seems to reduce the milk supply."

"I have noticed that a woman gets a greater quantity of milk from a cow than does the gentlest kind of a man. I believe this may be due to the fact that practically every woman sings softly as she milks."

While David Brown, manager of the Hazelwood Company, is inclined to be skeptical, having more confidence in ensilage and good alfalfa, he says he does not question that soft music has a soothing influence on cows, which is essential to a prolific milk production. He added:

"I am inclined to think there may be more than a grain of truth in the reasoning, but I would not want Sousa with his brass band to amuse my cows. I believe violin music would get better results. In other words, I would prefer Kubelik to Sousa to entertain our cows at milking time."—The Pacific Homestead.

STUDENTS AWARDED SCHOOL DIPLOMAS

We are indebted to Prof. Bunch, county school superintendent, for the following names of students who were awarded common school diplomas in the eighth grade final examination held in Coquille last week. A greater percentage of those contesting were successful than on former occasions and a larger number of diplomas were also granted at this examination than any prior thereto.

The following are the names and places of residence of the eighty-three successful students:

- DISTRICT NO. 13, NORTH BEND: Marjorie Dungan, Shirley Peterson, Margaret Stainbuck, Mathilda Greves, Jessie A. King, Stanton Stephens, Glenn R. Hart, Herman W. Mende, Ivan J. Pullen, Aena Truman, Mary Lovar, Reginald Nollner.

A HARD PROPOSITION FOR THE EMPLOYER

If the Oregon State Federation of Labor succeeds in passing a bill prepared by the officials of that association, the employer of labor in this state is up against a hard proposition. The bill as proposed is as follows:

Section 1.—No person shall be hired to work for wages under any conditions or terms for lower rates of wages or salary or for longer hours or days of service than is consistent with health and physical well being.

Section 2.—No man more than 20 years of age shall be hired or permitted to work for hire in Oregon on any contract made hereafter, either by piece work or by the hour or day, other term, in any clerical, mechanical, manufacturing, transportation or mercantile labor for a lower rate of labor than $2.50 per day.

Section 3.—No woman, more than 20 years of age, shall be hired or permitted to work for hire in any clerical, mechanical, manufacturing, transportation, mercantile, laundry, hotel or restaurant labor for a lower wage than $1.65 per day.

Section 4.—No person shall work for hire for more than 10 hours in one day or more than six days in any one week, except only in case of emergency, but in such case the wages shall be doubled for all extra time.

Section 5.—No person more than 20 years of age shall be hired or permitted to work for hire on any contract in any other labor or employment for less than $1.65 per day, but in all occupations except those mentioned in the first four sections of this act.

The question is, would this law, if passed, prove a benefit to the employer throughout the state? Would not the passage of this bill have a blighting effect on all kinds of manufacturing? If the state stood alone and did not have to meet, and was not obliged to compete with, outside territory, the situation would be very different. Whether the Federation of Labor is strong enough to carry this bill is a very doubtful question.—West Coast Lumberman, Tacoma.

A New England farmer's wife who had no very romantic ideas about the opposite sex, who, hurrying from churn to sink, from sink to shed, and back to the kitchen stove, was asked if she wanted to vote. "No, I certainly don't! I say if there's one little thing that the men folks can do alone, for goodness sakes let 'em do it!" she replied.

It takes a long time to talk one to death, being slow as well as painful.

ITEMS FROM ALL SOURCES

The government has directed a survey to be made of land belonging to some sixty or seventy settlers between Myrtle Point and Bridge. Plats of the same will be placed on file in the land office at Roseburg.

In the recent primaries the total Republican vote cast for vice presidential preference was 2599. This vote was divided among 146 names, and ranged from 1 vote to 789, which was the number cast for Senator William E. Borah. The total Democratic vote was 1717, which was divided among 50 candidates. Senator George E. Chamberlain received 1482.

In accordance with a custom established three years ago at Oregon Agricultural College, the young women students have elected a staff of editors who will publish the Girls' Edition of the O. A. C. Barometer on May 24. Previous issues of the college paper gotten out by the girls have proved entirely successful from the standpoint of make-up as well as from the business manager's point of view.

Ireland is the greatest poultry-growing country in the world. It is far ahead of France, though we have always accepted the latter as the leading country in this industry. Ireland, with a population of not quite 5,000,000, has 14,000,000 fowls, while France, with a population seven times greater, has only 40,000,000.
