To Sensor Public Speaking

Speaking on the streets of North Bend by members of the I. W. W. or others cannot take place unless the city officials know about it before hand. This is the result of an ordinance passed by the city council which is similar to the plan adopted in some other cities. The ordinance provides that anyone desiring to make a public speech on the streets must first receive a written permit from the mayor of the city and the applicant must specify exactly the hour and place of his intended speech, and must also state the text of the address he intends to give. It is stated this measure was passed by the city to guard against I. W. W. troubles should speakers of that order go there from other places.

Petitions for Single Tax

Securing from the Supreme Court a mandate directing Secretary of State Olcott to file the petitions asking for the initiation of a single tax measure for Clackamas county, W. S. U'Ren had the Secretary of State, in the presence of the Governor, go through the formalities of having them filed. The Secretary of State declined to file the petition and mandamus proceedings to compel him to do so were instituted in the Supreme Court and recently decided in favor of the single tax advocates. Mr. U'Ren declared that in addition to Clackamas two other counties, Multnomah and Coos, would file petitions with the Secretary of State asking for the initiation of a single tax law, and declares that the prospects look bright for their passage.

A most magnificent booklet from the press of Abbott & Duniway Company, Portland, issued by the Oregon Agricultural College is upon our table. It is "dedicated to the work of dignifying and elevating the industries, of uniting learning and labor." The printers certainly did their part in dignifying the "art preservative" and the words chosen in portraying the varied subjects show scholarly attainments. The work consists of 64 pages, printed upon calendered paper, with beautiful half tones on every page illustrating the grounds and work of the students in various capacities. It reflects credit not only upon the institution but the state of Oregon as well.

The Gold Beach Globe says Samuel Van Pelt in doing missionary work for the cause of socialism found "fifty-seven varieties" in that section and is having trouble in getting them to harmonize.

A BOOST FOR COOS COUNTY

CORRECTS UNTRUE REPORTS

A Coquille Resident of But a Year Truthfully States Conditions Existing Here—Rich Farming Section

The following letter appeared in the Cashmere Valley Record, published in Washington, where the writer formerly lived. Coming, as it does, from a source where mercenary motives do not play a part, but desiring to give friends the true status of our favored section, we are pleased to give it space in our columns. The letter follows:

Coquille, Ore., May 23, 1912.
 Editor Record:

In order to correct an erroneous impression being circulated by some irresponsible parties in regard to this part of Oregon, I am taking this opportunity for the benefit of our Cashmere friends through the columns of the Record (which is a welcome visitor every week) to inform them of the true conditions in Coos county.

We are like Captain Burbank: we believe in boosting for our new home, which we all like, but can still boost for beautiful Cashmere, too. After living here nearly a year, we find all conditions, especially the climate and rainy season, a very pleasant surprise to us. From what we had been told we did not expect to see the sun until spring but we had more sunshine than cloudy days. We have had rain, but not disagreeable. We have been taking notes of other sections that have the same rainy seasons and find that Coos county is ahead of other sections and not so wet. Have less wind in the Coquille valley than any place we ever lived. At Bandon and Marshfield there is more wind as they get it direct from the ocean, but Coquille and valley are inland just enough to escape the direct winds, but yet get the benefit of the sea breeze, which makes the summers delightful. We were surprised to see how quickly the mud dries in the spring.

Mr. Johnson says this country for general farming, especially dairying for which it is ideal, is far ahead of other sections where we have been as Cashmere is in raising apples. With the assurance of railroads now people are coming into the country, but we cannot expect to judge the country and see the many undeveloped opportunities by just a hurried trip through it, for there is Ban lon by the sea, a live seaport town with a beautiful beach, the making of a fine summer resort; Marshfield, a lively city on Coos Bay with a great future especially for one of the best harbors on the Pacific coast; Coquille the county seat of Coos county, situated on the Coquille river is in the center of a rich farming section and the making of a beautiful city. The Coquille valley is forty miles long and the soil cannot be excelled anywhere.

Myrtle Point, at the head of navigation on the Coquille river, is a live town. The Coquille river has tide water to Myrtle Point, and notwithstanding the erroneous reports that have come to us in regard to our place I wish to say they are untrue; we are well pleased and we are not afraid to have any of our Cashmere friends come and see it. It will bear inspection.

People are now busy with strawberry picking. The Warrens are all pleased and doing well here, also W. B. Phelps who says he has found just the place he likes. We would be pleased at any time to have our Cashmere friends visit us and enjoy the many pleasures we have here. We have good fishing at our boat landing, besides there is a fish boat comes from Bandon every week selling sea fish, clams and oysters.

The winter was like spring and with the green grass we cannot realize we have had any winter, and wish also to say we have good markets right here for everything we have to sell. MRS. H. L. JOHNSON

Surveyors at Work

A party of railroad surveyors, about twenty in number passed through Raeburg quite recently for points south of that city where they are surveying. Inasmuch as the surveyors demanded certain tools stored in North Roseburg several months ago, it is believed they are in the employ of the Coos Bay Boise & Eastern Railroad, which project was in course of promotion at the time of the death of Francis J. Clarke.

Several of the surveyors appear conversant with the lay of the land in this locality, indicating that they are in possession of profiles and other documents compiled by their predecessors.—Roseburg News.

High Class Vaudeville

Amateur night at the Scenic Monday evening last was well patronized and everybody was highly pleased with the superb moving pictures and the music by the Scenic orchestra. The one-act play entitled "Sisters Act" by two young ladies of our city was admirably well executed and elicited a prolonged encore. Beginning Monday, June 17, Walters & McKenzie's Merry Makers will render comedy and dramatic plays, clean, moral and refined vaudeville, two performances each evening during the entire week. These actors need no introduction having been here on former occasions, and doubtless they will be greeted nightly by a throng of theatre goers.

Mrs. M. A. McLaughlin, 512 Jay St., LaCrosse, Wis., writes that she suffered all kinds of pains in her back and hips on account of kidney trouble and rheumatism. "I got some of Foley Kidney Pills and after taking them for a few days there was a wonderful change in my case, for the pain entirely left my back and hips and I am thankful there is such a medicine as Foley Kidney Pills." Sold by Fuhrman Pharmacy.
