PATRIOTISM—OUR MOTIVE

Thirty Years Old

With this issue the HERALD will complete its thirtieth year of existence, and the liberal patronage accorded "the old reliable" pioneer journal of Coquille, at this time, evidences the multiplication of its career many times.

The stock and poultry displays were in keeping with the improvements in other departments, as were also the farm machinery exhibits.

Two new features added this year were the children's earth-education exhibits and the eugenic department. These are deserving of encouragement and will doubtless become permanent features of the fair with better provision for handling the exhibits.

The amusement concessions were let to one of the best companies in the business and the attractions were clean and gave genuine enjoyment.

The detail of militiamen that acted as guards was a new departure and gave perfect satisfaction.

In the racing department there was a big improvement in the number and class of racing animals present. The early date made it possible for all the best horses on this circuit to attend the meet.

While the rains kept the track in a bad condition, not a race was cancelled during the week. Notwithstanding the heavy condition of the track, some of the most interesting races were pulled off on Lone Oak track during the week.

The 1912 fair has demonstrated that the present State Board of Agriculture can make a success of the fair in spite of the weather, as the entire week was a continuous battle against the elements. It was the best managed fair ever held, with less complaint from exhibitors and the public. Secretary Meredith is to be congratulated that the balance will be on the right side of the ledger.

HARRY H. HILL, Special Representative.

FAIR EXHIBITS WOULD ADVERTISE COOS COUNTY

The fifty-first annual Oregon State Fair, held at Salem, closed Sept. 7. This year was admitted by all to be the best ever held and, if weather conditions had been anywhere near normal, the attendance also would have been the greatest in the history of the fair.

The exhibits in the pavilion showed up well and the improvement in this department shows that the gain is keeping pace with the growth and development of the state. While Benton county won the blue ribbon on county exhibits, the other counties represented made a better showing than ever before. The county exhibit department is one of the most interesting features. It brings to the attention of the public, in a most convincing manner, the natural resources and possibilities of the counties represented. Coos county, with her many and varied resources, would be able to make an excellent exhibit. Such an exhibit would do more to advertise this county than any other one thing costing the same amount of money. We hope to see Coos represented in the county exhibit department next year.

The Lever Agricultural Extension Bill, providing for federal and state support of a plan to maintain a skilled farm demonstrator in every agricultural county of the nation, passed the House August 23.

Fred Warren, editor of the Appeal to Reason, is scheduled to speak at Roseburg October 27. Local socialists will endeavor to have the noted expounder of socialistic doctrines visit Coos county and vociferate vernacularly and without vituperation the variable vocations he has espoused. May Brother Warren vindicate the virtues of his views.

Chickens Gold Mine

About three weeks ago Mrs. E. E. Dyer of Daniels Creek, dressed a chicken in the gizzard of which was found a small gold nugget. Since then the gizzards of several other chickens have been carefully examined and Sunday another nugget was found in one. This goes to prove that there is certainly a vein of gold on "Dreamland" Cove, Mrs. Dyer's home.—Coos Bay Times.

Leave your call with Big Ben, he'll call you on the dot at any time you say.

And if you roll over and try "just-one-more-nap," he'll repeat his call 30 seconds later and keep on calling until you're wide awake.

Big Ben stands 7 inches tall—He's heavy, massive, handsome. He's got a great, big dial you can easily read in the dim morning light, a sunny deep toned voice you'll hear distinctly on your sleepiest mornings.

I've placed him in the window. Look at him whenever you go by.
