Lawyers appreciating accuracy in brief work should have their briefs printed at the Herald office. Prices right. Consult us.

Over sixteen inches of rain fell from September 1, to November 10, nearly double the amount for the same period a year ago.

Married—Chas Gauntlett and Vesta McCulloch, both of North Bend, at the M. E. Church South, November 9, Rev. C. H. Cleaves officiating.

The West Coast Oil company composed of Bandon men are setting up machinery for deep boring on property owned by them near the Coos and Curry line.

The city council held a special meeting Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of paying Longston & Bayliss $1,000 on their city hall contract, and it was so ordered.

The Scenic not only gives a good show but will give away a sick of flour to one of its patrons next Monday evening. Other gifts will be the order for several weeks to come.

W. Frank Pettit, the optician and watchmaker, is now ready for business in the building three doors east of the Herald office. Mr. Pettit is hopeful of receiving a share of the public patronage.

M. Edwards, residing for some time past at Parkersburg, left with his family the first of the week for the State of Washington. He has not at present decided upon the exact location for a permanent residence.

Ernest Perrott returned with his bride last Thursday by steamer Breakwater. He reports a rough sea voyage and he reluctantly furnished food for the fishes without the aid of hands. Mr. Perrott is now at his post of duty with Henry Lorenz.

Dr. Walter Culin performed an autopsy upon the body of Mrs. Mary Cunningham, who died suddenly in this city last week. The physician in charge of the woman's case is exonerated and the evidence does not warrant further investigation.

As a result of the Sunday school contest being held by the M. E. Church South, under the leadership of Mrs. J. S. Lawrence and Geo. T. Moulton, there was an attendance last Sunday, November 10, of one hundred. The contest will continue until Christmas and no doubt the number will have doubled by that time.

Thanksgiving is near at hand and ye editor, although six feet five, is unable to reach the turkey so securely perched on the limb of high prices. Brother Farmer, we would be pleased to accept any kind of a bird almost—except a canary or a crow—on subscription. Bring it along and receive an editor's blessing.

We regret to learn of the determination of Kime & Von Pegert to sell out their business here and remove to Southern California. These gentlemen are doing a lucrative business but ill health in each of their families impels them to sacrifice their business interests with a hope of benefitting their loved ones by the change. They have recently constructed fine houses which are also offered for sale.

Julius Wayland, editor of the Appeal to Reason, the well known socialist newspaper, committed suicide in Girard, Kansas, on Monday last. He left a note saying, "The struggle under the competitive system is not worth while." The loss of his wife, who was killed in an automobile accident about a year ago, is attributed by his friends as the main cause for the deed.

Fatal Accidents

Roscoe Bolsinger, aged about twenty-three years, an employe of the McDonald & Vaughan logging camp on Daniels' creek, died at Mercy hospital, Monday last from injuries received while on a moving logging train. Bolsinger was riding on next to the last car in a train of eight cars. He was seen riding one of the logs when the train was coming down, but was not seen for some time before the train reached the dump. When he was found missing, the trainmen started back and found him sitting in the middle of the track. He is said to have spoken only a few words to the effect that "I am all in boys," Mrs. W. W. Gage, wife of our sheriff, is an aunt of the unfortunate man.

Albert Layton, about thirty-two years of age, was killed by a log rolling over his body while employed at Camp one of the Smith-Powers logging company. Deceased leaves a wife and two children.
