COQUILLE MERCHANTS REPORT GOOD TRADE

The Herald man questioned some of the representative business men of Coquille today relative to the fall and Christmas trade and received answers that were assurances of superb financial conditions in our community. Their answers follow:
HENRY LORENZ—Excels any trade of former years. Wearers of good clothes are an index to good times, and I have sold great quantities of high class goods to old and new customers.
LYONS & JONES—Business better than ever in all lines. Our groceries tickle the palate of the prosperous and the shoes we sell fit the feet of the well-to-do. Everyone has money and using it to good advantage.

C. J. FUHRMAN—Business twice as good as former years and cash paid in all cases—no credit asked. Prosperity and square dealing have joined hands.

W. C. LAIRD—Business increasing. People can afford good furniture and know where to get it. Many pianos sold which is another evidence that Coquille people are prosperous.

H. O. ANDERSON—Graphones that I carry could not state in clearer and better tones than my voice the large increase in trade I have enjoyed.

J. A. LAMB—Made more authentic sales of automobiles this season than ever before. Business best ever.

J. A. MORRISON—Laundry business increasing. Families are realizing we can do washing not only cheaper but better than they.

W. H. SCHROEDER—Trade excellent and by far better than ever. Sold more diamonds and other valuable articles than former years.

FRED SLAGLE—Too busy to say more than I am busy. Have orders for several automobiles and this is a good indication that money is free.

M. H. HERSEY—Did a better business than ever before.
GEO. ROBINSON—Satisfied with his trade.

PAUL STEPHAN—Works eighteen hours a day to supply the people with wholesome bread.

JOHN LENEVE—Have not been in business but a short time but if it continues to hum much longer will be in Morgan's financial class.

NOSLER & NORTON—Business has been swift with us on hams and other commodities we handle have moved wonderfully.

P. E. DRANE—Trade increasing.
O. WILSON—Nearly sold out.
THE HERALD—Busy on all kinds of printing.

We were unable to see several business men but the sentiment, expressed by those interviewed is sufficient to demonstrate that Coquille is enjoying prosperity in no small degree.

Married—Perry L. Randles and Edith M. McCue, both of Bandon, by Justice J. J. Stanley at his rooms in the Richmond-Barker building, Monday forenoon, December 20. Both the contracting parties are Oregonians, the groom being a product of Jackson county and Coos county being the birthplace of the bride. They will reside at Bandon.

Married—John Neilson and Martha Blundell, both of Bandon, by Justice Stanley at his office in Coquille, December 24, 1912. Mr. Neilson is a Coos county boy, a bookkeeper of Bandon and a very estimable young gentleman. Miss Blundell is a teacher in the Bandon public schools and a young lady whose hand any swain might be proud to win. Immediately after the ceremony they started for Marshfield from that place taking steamer to the city for a short stay.

The home of C. I. Kime was the scene of a quiet but impressive wedding ceremony last Tuesday, when William M. Bell, son of John W. Bell of Norway, and Lucina C. Robison, daughter of our worthy citizen Price Robison, were united by J. J. Stanley, justice of the peace. Mrs. C. E. Schroeder, a sister of the bride, her brother, Roy Robison, the family of Mr. Kime and the officiating magistrate, were the only persons present, and the event was a surprise to all except the immediate relatives. After the ceremony all partook of a sumptuous dinner, the guests of Mrs. Kime. The groom is a prosperous young dairyman of the Norway community and has chosen a most companionable and worthy helpmate. The many friends of this happy couple join the Herald in wishing them a most prosperous and happy voyage upon which they have just launched their barque.

All churches were well attended and appropriate sermons and music enjoyed.

Sunday school scholars gave entertainments on evenings prior to Christmas and little tots of tender years acquitted themselves creditably. Santa Claus was present to gladden the hearts of the urchins with presents from his hand and joyousness reigned within the walls of Coquille's churches that will be productive of moral benefit to our community.

Placed Under Bonds

C. M. Maupin was arraigned before Justice Stanley today on complaint of P. M. Hall-Lewis accusing the defendant with threatening bodily harm upon the person of our worthy townsman. Maupin met Mr. Hall-Lewis on Saturday last and threatened to beat and "swat" him. This not being in accord with manliness and dignity Justice Stanley was appealed to and he placed Maupin under $200 bonds to keep the peace. Maupin is a workman on the city hall where the difficulty occurred while Mr. Hall-Lewis was discharging his duties in the capacity of architect and superintendent of construction upon the building. Builders should dwell together in unity.

A Narrow Escape

C. H. Flitcroft, who arrived at Bandon Friday reported an unusual accident on the steamer Coquille. A little girl fell overboard from the steamer Coquille, near the Lyons & Johnson mill, and she was not missed for fifteen minutes. She was discovered by the engineer of the mill who heard her cries underneath the wharf. When he reached her, she was floating on her back in the deep water, not making a move, except crying loudly. Apparently her cries were not from fright but for the loss of a little red wagon that went to the bottom when she fell overboard. She was none the worse for her experience. No information was ascertained regarding the child's name, but the name of an aunt with her was Mrs. Miller.—Coos Bay Times.
