The Coquille Herald

PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY

Entered as second class matter May 8, 1905, at the post office at Coquille, Oregon, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

P. C. LEVAR, Lessee.

Devoted to the material and social upbuilding of the Coquille Valley particularly and of Coos County generally. Subscription, $1.50 per year in advance.

Phone Main 354.

HOW WAS IT?

In telling of an accident which befell Tom Neil of Langlois, while working with a V road scraper, the Curry County Leader says:

Tom, in some manner, lost his balance and fell off the V and before he could recover himself to stop the horses, his foot was caught underneath the same, which, when extracted, was thought to be a broken ankle.

We wish the Leader would be a little more explicit. How was Tom's foot caught—under the V or under the horses? And was it the V which when "extracted" was thought to be a broken ankle—or was it the horses? Or was it his balance under which his foot was caught, and which was afterward thought to be a broken ankle? We're all mixed up.

POOR MARSHFIELD

Last week the Herald remarked: Just wait and see the Southern Pacific get its work in on Marshfield. The Coos county metropolis seems to be sloughing off its nerve in great gobs, and it will soon be groveling at the feet of the S. P., if it keeps on.

It seems that we won't have long to wait. Since Marshfield voted overwhelmingly in favor of the sale of the Terminal Company's franchise to the Southern Pacific, a little bird has been around whispering that the S. P. wants a whole lot more than that, before it will build into Marshfield. It wants exactly the same sort of franchise it holds in North Bend—that is, exclusive and irrevocable.

Having secured the Terminal franchise, so that it will be out of the way, the S. P. will stand pat, and Marshfield can either give the S. P. an exclusive franchise or stay off the map.

The S. P. needn't worry. The bluff will work, all right. Marshfield will come to the S. P. on its hands and knees, bearing an exclusive franchise on a silver platter ere many moons have waxed and waned.

Then, some day, the present metropolis will wake up to find itself a way station on the road from Myrtle Point to North Bend. Just pass this in your hat: If the S. P. bridges the bay, as it seems to intend, the main line is no more likely to go through Marshfield than through Coquille. From the bridge it will bear off southeast and on down the coast and never come within a mile of the Marshfield city limits—perhaps not within two miles. All Marshfield will get for its jellyfishness will be a chance to hold the sack while North Bend goes after the snipe.

MAJOR KINNEY'S SUGGESTION

Major L. D. Kinney who is in Portland has written the Marshfield Record suggesting and advising the commercial organizations of all Coos County joining and maintaining a committee in Portland to interest new people in this county.

He says that a suitable room for displaying our resources and maintaining headquarters can be had in the Multnomah hotel and on the ground floor for about $100 per month. In addition to this a booster or official County representative could be hired at about the same price.

If Coos county wants new people there is no other possible way in which an equal amount of money would bring so great results as the method suggested by Major Kinney. Extremely few of the people who come to the coast seeking a location, or viewing the land with the idea of future immigration, ever heard of Coos Bay. A still smaller number have heard of the Coquille river.

And they won't hear of them in Portland. It is to Portland's interest to steer these people into some part of the state that is wholly tributary to Portland. She will never willingly send them where trade is divided with San Francisco. That is not the way Portland is built.

If we want these immigrants and excursionist to hear of Coos County and its resources and advantages, we must have a representative there to meet them and tell them these things, answer their questions and overcome their prejudices against a section that can not be reached by rail.

An "exhibit," so far as it goes, is all right, but without some one on the spot to explain and give particulars and answer questions it can make little impression. Few people will take such an expensive and disagreeable journey so far off the lines of travel merely because they see some nice looking coal, wood and other staple products purporting to have come from here.

A man of pleasant address, thorough information about the country, a convincing line of talk and a manner that beget confidence could turn scores of people this way where one comes now.

Myrtle Point Pointers

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Broadbent departed on the Elizabeth Saturday for San Francisco. From there Mr. Broadbent will return home while his wife and daughter, Helen, will go to Los Angeles for a stay of two or three months.

St. Patrick's Day was observed here—a dance in the evening.

Jack Abbott, who is at the hospital here recovering from an operation performed a week ago, is doing well.

Ed Lewellen is quite sick with inflammatory rheumatism.

Al Baker has been having a serious attack of mumps for the past ten days.

L. Rackliff has rented a ranch at Norway and is now living there.

Mrs. Will Slingsby of Katchin Creek, spent most of the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Davenport, of Coquille. Mrs. Davenport's health is very poor at present.

OBSERVER.

CURRY COUNTY CULLINGS

(From the Port Orford Tribune) Grass is growing nicely, and dairymen report feed unusually good for so early in the season.

Fred Dismore and wife, of Humboldt county, California, arrived at Port Orford Friday on a visit to this place and Coos county.

J. W. Lutsey is to meet a man from Coos county in a wrestling match at Langlois in the near future. The Coos county man is said to be a trained athlete and an interesting match is expected.

As a sign of approaching summer the turkey bizzard has again put in his appearance. A good omen that there is still some life left in Curry, else the bird would not continue to soar over us.

Geo. Johnson, of Portland, was in Port Orford Sunday on his way to Wedderburn to take charge of the Wedderburn Trading company's fishing interests both at Rogue river and at this place. Mr. Johnson fished several years on the Coquille river and is said to be an expert at the business.

Obituary

MAMIE HAWKINS
Thursday afternoon, March 13, 1913, there was borne to the people of Coquille the sad intelligence that little Mamie Hawkins had passed away at the Mercy Hospital at North Bend at 5:30 o'clock. While not entirely unexpected, yet the news came as a great shock to her many friends.

Mamie, the oldest daughter of Marvin O. Hawkins, and his wife, Zettie Hawkins, was born at Coquille, Oregon, January 13, 1902, and lived till the above mentioned date, being at the time of her death 11 years and 2 months old. Practically the whole of her life has been spent in Coquille, just a short time did she live elsewhere, but this was always "home." She was christened by the Rev. Fitch at her home May 18, 1902. May 7, 1911, she united with the M. E. Church South of Coquille, and was always a faithful little member. She loved her church and always took a great interest in it. She was active in the Sunday School and the Junior League. She was a good, sweet, innocent, Christian girl.

She numbered her friends as legion. People of all ages loved her, and her disposition was such as to make and retain friends. Not only the family, but also the church and the community, sustains a loss in the death of this precious girl.

For sometime recently it was evident that her health was failing. Three weeks before her death she was taken to the hospital. All that loving hands and kind ministrations and the best of medical science could do were done for her. But her work was finished and this world could not retain her because God had need of her in the Lund beyond the Skies.

She was so patient through her sickness and suffering, and never complained, but manifested the sweetness of her character. She has gone from us, and her place can never be filled, but in the Great Eternity of God we shall, if we be faithful, see her again and never be separated from her. "He is faithful that hath promised." This brief sketch is lovingly contributed by one who knew her for more than
