Two of the best dramatic pictures ever seen here were shown at the Scenic within the last few days. The Vitagraph, "Wings of a Moth," with Florence Turner in the principal role was a vivid portrayal of one of the dangers to which girls are exposed in a city. With the suberb acting of Miss Turner and Roger Lytton it was a picture to be remembered and one which every parent should see. "The Maid of Honor," an Elison, was a story of love and renunciation of rare delicacy and truth. With Mabel Trunnelle, one of the most attractive little ladies appearing on the screen in the title role, Marc McDermott and charming Bessie Learn in principal parts, it was a play to touch the heart.
