SYNOPSIS OF MANY EVENTS

THE NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

Condensed for the Quick Assimilation of Busy Men and Women—General Round-Up of a Wide Scope

Senator Poindexter has held up the nomination of Edgar Battle as postmaster of Seattle.

Henry M. Flagler, the Standard Oil magnate, is dead, leaving an estate estimated at over $100,000,000.

Dr. P. J. Timmins, an ardent home ruler and a follower of Henry George, died in South Boston, Mass., May 4.

The violence faction of the British suffragists have increased and geographically extended their activities since the adverse vote in the Commons.

Although Job Harriman, the Socialist leader at Los Angeles, was defeated by 784 votes for a place on the primary election ballot on the 6th, fifteen other Socialists qualified. June 3 is the date of the city election.

Mayor Baker, of Cleveland, threatens public ownership of the traction of the city if the Cleveland Railway does not concede the people's right to control the company's expenditures for maintenance and operation.

Joseph Fels, Harry de Pass, and A. W. Metcalfe, of Belfast, will represent the United British and Irish Land Values Taxation movement at the Spanish Land Values Conference to be held May 26 to 28 at Ronda, Spain.

A great public open-air amphitheater for free plays and pageants, to be erected in Garfield Park, Chicago, is under consideration. Plans as drawn call for a seating capacity of 9,000 at a cost of approximately $35,000.

Mayor Semour and the city commissioners of Seattle have decided to build a city street car line extending from the heart of the city to the manufacturing district, presaging ultimate ownership of all the traction lines in the city.

General Israel Montes was elected President of the Republic of Bolivia on the 8th, in succession to Dr. Elcodora Villazon, who had been President since 1909. Dr. Montes has already served one term as President, his period of office expiring in 1908.

The British cruiser Aeolus sailed from Jamaica for Honduras on the 12th. Guatemalans have recently appealed to the United States on the ground that the British government had warned Guatemala to pay its debts to British subjects, or it would take measures to enforce the claims.

Great Britain's formal recognition of the Huerta government in Mexico, is said to have been brought about by Lord Cowdray, head of the "Pierson interests," which own the Tehuantepec National Railroad, which road the Huerta government has promised to buy for $7,000,000 gold.

In Des Moines, Iowa, where the Somers System of land valuation is employed, the total tax levy this year will be reduced from 89 to 80 mills without any sacrifice of revenue and notwithstanding an increase of 18 mills in the levy for state purposes. Its successful record in Des Moines is being used in advocating the Somers System in Dubuque.

The Ohio legislature has adjourned after passing, among others, the following progressive measures: Mothers' pensions; reorganization of the public service commission; censorship for moving picture films; ratification of popular election of United States senators; reorganization of the State's tax system; home rule for cities, with choice of method of government; recodification of the State road laws and the survey of the State school system; nomination and election of all public officers by primary.

First Base Ball Schedule Which Will be Revised

Following is the schedule arranged for the season's league games. A cursory examination will show which side of the divide it was arranged on. While games will be played in each of the Valley towns six times during the season, each of the Bay towns will be visited eleven times, twenty-two games on the Bay (counting double-headers as one), and eighteen on the River. There is a feeling over on this side of the divide that this schedule ought to be revised, and it may be done later.

Ventriloquist Plays Huge Practical Joke

A painter employed by the Oregon Electric railway at Tigard, Or., caused great excitement recently about the depot, first by projecting his voice so the source seemed within the safe. He was soon discovered, however, to be a ventriloquist. An hour later Mr. Thompson, a rancher, came to the depot to haul some freight, stored in the ware-

War Scenes In Mexico City; Sharpshooters and the Slain

Photos copyright by American Press Association.

WHEN the dogs of war barked through the streets of Mexico City in the recent uprising against the Madero government terror was spread on all sides. Such scenes as depicted in the upper picture here, when dead littered the highways, turned the foreign residents sick with terror. Many of the killed were federalists, who were picked off by the Diaz sharpshooters from the top of the arsenal and from behind granite block barricades in the streets. How these sharpshooters spit forth their slow but deadly fire is shown in the lower picture.

house, and the agent took the opportunity to have some fun by telling Mr. Thompson that a maniac had climbed the ladder into the attic and that attempts to rout him had proved disastrous.

Mr. Thompson started at once to climb the ladder and shout at the supposed maniac, and a hot argument was carried on between Mr. Thompson and the ventriloquist for at least ten minutes. Mr. Thompson then proceeded up the street to get aid, with the result that within a half hour not less than 50 citizens were gathered in and around the depot, armed with rocks and long gas pipes, prepared to poke or stone the maniac out of his place of concealment.

H. B. Tigard, very dignified merchant of Tigard, climbed to the top of a rick of wood, stored inside the warehouse, and declared he saw the intruder and that he recognized him as a man that had worked around Tigard the past winter, describing him.

The joke was continued for fully three hours, women dropping their work to run over to the depot for a glimpse at the crazy man. The news spread through country, and people stopped farm work to come into town to take a hand in the capture.

As soon as the joke was discovered the ventriloquist left on the first train, feeling rather nervous until well out of town. The agent was in danger of being hanged Monday.

Wilson's Way Puzzles Old Line Politicians

The country has not yet learned to say "That's just like Wilson," as it used to say "That's just like Roosevelt," or "That's just like Taft," says the Chicago Record-Herald. Neither was Washington. Woodrow Wilson's way is not yet generally understood.

One of the most simple analyses of the way in which the president works is contributed by Charles Willis Thompson to the New York Times. Mr. Thompson believes that Mr. Wilson's method is this:

"First to leave his mind entirely open and to get all the information and all the opinions he can from everybody, from the cabinet member to the man in the street, but to give no opinion himself and to form none until he has got every scrap of information obtainable.

"Second, having made up his mind, to stick to what he has re-

Another New Law

A lot of persons in the state who are conducting a business under a company name, not incorporated, or under some assumed name, are going to have to go on record as to the nature of their business and their business associates when a new law passed by the last legislature goes into effect June 3.

This law provides that persons conducting a business under an assumed name, or when the names of all of these interested in the business do not appear in the business designation, must file a certificate with the county clerk giving the style and name under which the business is being conducted and the names and addresses of all persons interested in the business. This applies to those now engaged in business, and those to come hereafter. Those now engaged in business must file their certificate within 30 days after the law goes into effect.

The State Board of Education has transmitted to President Wilson the signatures of 60,000 school children, asking that the battleship Oregon be designated as the ship to lead the water pageant at the opening of the Panama Canal.
