SYNOPSIS OF MANY EVENTS

THE NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

Condensed for the Quick Assimilation of Busy Men and Women—General Round-Up of a Wide Scope

The Swedish State railroads are all being electrified.

Over two-thirds of the population in Hawaii are Japs, and the proportion is increasing.

Eleven thousand garment workers are on strike at Cincinnati, asking for shorter hours.

The Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has declared against Dr. Friedman's "cure."

The National Zeitung, of Berlin, calls President Wilson "A lecturing Socialist who is convinced that he must reform the world."

Robert J. Collier, of Collier's Weekly, is having an immense hydroplane built, with which he intends to cross the Atlantic.

The Illinois woman's suffrage bill has been signed by the governor, giving the women the right to vote for all statutory offices in the state and also for presidential electors.

The University of Sidney, Australia, announces that the deposits of coal discovered in the Anarctic will perhaps prove to be one of the largest unworked coal fields in the world.

The officials of Santa Clara and San Mateo counties, in California, have shown a glimmer of reason by refusing the contestants in the Panama-Pacific automobile race to speed through those counties.

Queen Mary of England proved her mental caliber by issuing an edict forbidding women to ride astride at the International Horse show, one day last week when she and the king were to be in attendance.

United States District Attorney McNabb, at San Francisco, resigned his office when ordered by Attorney General McReynolds to hold up the prosecution of the cases against the Western Fuel company and those against Diggs and Ceminetti for white slavery. His resignation was accepted, but President Wilson has ordered the prosecution of the cases and selected Matt I. Sullivan as special prosecutor.

Buy Mill Back

C. R. Peck, receiver of the LaFrance property in this section, has sold back to Chas Reichert the mill and timber land which the latter sold to LaFrance, near Bandon.

In addition to the mill and tract of timber, Reichert gave LaFrance an option on an adjoining 120 acres of timber on a stumpage basis. LaFrance to pay $3 per thousand. LaFrance had started his crew cutting on Reichert's tract and had fallen about 500,000 feet of logs when the denouement came. Labor liens amounting to $900 were filed on these logs and in order to get his money back and at the same time save the logs from waste, Mr. Reichert had to buy the mill.

The Ruling Passion

The editor was dying, but when the doctor placed his ear to the patient's heart and muttered sadly: "Poor fellow, circulation almost gone!" He raised himself and gasped: "Tis false! We have the largest circulation in the county." Then he sank back upon his pillow with a triumphant smile upon his features. He was consistent to the end—lying about his subscription.

For killing flies: On a flat saucer mix ninety parts of water to ten parts of formaldehyde and two parts of sugar. Place sponge in middle of solution. This mixture attracts flies, which die almost immediately upon drinking the same. Renew mixture every few days.

DECISION APPLYING TO COOS

Riparian Owners Have Sole Rights on Tide Lands

The Oregon Supreme Court has handed down a decision in the case of Pacific Milling & Elevator Co. vs. the City of Portland which is of special interest on this river, as it confirms the right of riparian owners to the tide lands in front of their property. The City of Portland attempted to build a dock in front of the property of the P. M. & E. Co., on the theory that the water below the ordinary high water mark on the river belonged to the state. An injunction suit resulted, and the state intervened on the theory that these lands belong to the people. The supreme court sustained the decision that the title to the submerged land rests in the upland owners:

"The Act of 1862 grants the right of wharfage across the state's land out to the harbor line fixed by state authority to the riparian owner. This license has never been revoked by the state, but has been reaffirmed by lawmakers and upheld by the courts.

"The Legislature, considering that the lands adjacent to the Willamette, Coquille, Coos and Umpqua Rivers, were subject to erosion and inundation, deemed it wise and just to recognize rights in riparian owners on such streams, and grant and confirm to them all the title of the state to any tide and overflowed lands upon said rivers. This, no doubt, among other reasons, in order that the owners of the land adjacent to such rivers might be encouraged and protected in building structures thereon, and ripraping and conserving the banks of the river for the purpose of saving their lands from loss or destruction. The acts of 1874 and 1876 were valid exercises of the legislative will, and granted and confirmed the title of the state to the tide and overflow land upon said rivers to the upland owners.

"To allow this property to be taken for public use without just compensation would work a great injustice, and do violence to the constitution of the state of Oregon. The restrictions upon the state conveying land subject to the waters of navigable streams should, we think, generally speaking, apply to lands under navigable waters, or below ordinary low water mark, or the bed proper of a river as distinguished from its bank or shore, as in the Chicago waterfront case."

The officials of Santa Clara and San Mateo counties, in California, have shown a glimmer of reason by refusing the contestants in the Panama-Pacific automobile race to speed through those counties.

Queen Mary of England proved her mental caliber by issuing an edict forbidding women to ride astride at the International Horse show, one day last week when she and the king were to be in attendance.

United States District Attorney McNabb, at San Francisco, resigned his office when ordered by Attorney General McReynolds to hold up the prosecution of the cases against the Western Fuel company and those against Diggs and Ceminetti for white slavery. His resignation was accepted, but President Wilson has ordered the prosecution of the cases and selected Matt I. Sullivan as special prosecutor.

Only Elevated Rail Road on the Coast

The only stretch of elevated railroad west of Chicago is being built in California, at the Oakland terminal of the Southern Pacific company. It is to accommodate the numerous suburban electric trains that pass at that point with passengers between the east bay cities and San Francisco.

These changes are made to prevent congestion, for the traffic out of the Oakland terminal is very heavy. Street cars and teams will cross under the overhead tracks in going to and from the Oakland municipal wharves on the western front, steel viaducts having been erected to allow ample clearance over tracks and streets.

Blow Up Sea Lions

State Fish Warden Clanton has declared war on sea lions, and will try blowing them up with bombs along the beach at Tillamook Bay. He says that the lions are a menace to the coast fisheries, as they destroy great numbers of salmon, killing them apparently just for sport. He holds that no greater foe to the salmon can be found than the sea lion.

The plan of warfar is to put powder in glass fruit jars and bury them in the sand along the beach where the lions are accustomed to come out of the water and lie in the sun. The jars will be connected by wires with a battery, and when the animals gather on the spot the powder will be exploded.

RANDOLPH MILL BURNED

Loss of $75,000, Partially Covered by Insurance—Lumber and Cottages Saved—Plant to be Rebuilt

About 1 o'clock last Wednesday morning fire was discovered in the fire-room of the Randolph mill, near Bandon, and the flames spread rapidly until the entire mill and its contents were destroyed. The lumber on the wharf was saved and the residence buildings occupied by the millmen escaped burning but the mill was entirely wiped out.

The loss will reach $75,000 and the insurance carried totalled about $40,000 but this amount covered lumber and wharf not burned so the entire amount carried will not be paid.

Several hundred thousand feet of lumber was piled on the wharf ready for shipment but this was saved through the efforts of the crew of the steamer Grace Dollar which was to take the lumber out and by the tug Kiliyam.

Many people from Bandon hastened to the scene in automobiles and the Life Saving Crew, at the first news of the fire, hurried thither in their power boat and rendered valuable assistance.

The Randolph Mill was built in 1901 by Carmen & Krites and was one of the best producers on the Coquille river, its capacity being 80,000 per day. Sixty men were employed in and about the mill. During the past year many improvements had been made on the mill. The plant had been practically rebuilt. New machinery had been installed and the plant had only recently been put in first class condition and so equipped the output was greatly increased. The steamer Grace Dollar was built especially to run into the Coquille river and carry the output from the Randolph mill.

The loss is a severe blow to the company and the community, but it is understood that the plant will be rebuilt.

NO MORE LIQUOR ON DRY GROUND

Full Text of New and Stringent Law Intended to Stop Shipments into Prohibition Territory

Following is the text of the new law governing the shipment of liquor in dry territory, Chapter 250, Laws of 1913, given in full for the information of our readers:

Section 1. Each package of intoxicating liquor shipped or transported or consigned for shipment into any territory in which the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is prohibited by law, shall contain the name of the consignee, the name of the consignor, the name and address of the person ordering such liquors, the kind and quality of the intoxicating liquors in such package and the place from and to which the liquor is shipped, each and all written or printed in the English language in large letters or type, attached to the package in a conspicuous place or position where it can be easily read.

Section 2. All express companies, railroad companies, transportation companies and common carriers within this State or doing business within this State, are hereby required to keep a separate book in which shall be entered, immediately upon receipt thereof, in territory within which the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is prohibited by the laws of this State, truthful statements of the amount and kind of liquor received, the name of the person to whom the same is shipped, the date when received, the date when delivered, and by whom delivered and to whom delivered, after which record shall be a blank space in which the consignee shall be required to sign his true name before such liquors are delivered to such consignee, which book shall be open to the inspection of any regular or special officer of this State, whether such officer be a State officer, a county officer or municipal officer or a special officer or agent appointed and commissioned by the Governor of this State, at any time during the business hours of said company. Such books shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated and be admissible as evidence in any court of this State having jurisdiction or in any manner empowered with the enforcement of the laws against the sale of intoxicating liquors in this State. Any express company, railway company, transportation company or common carrier or any employee or agent thereof that fails, neglects or refuses to comply with the provisions of this section or who makes or causes to be made false entries in any book shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than four hundred dollars.

Section 3. It shall be the special duty of every sheriff, constable, marshal, policeman, or deputy of such officer within his jurisdiction, or of any special officer or agent appointed by the Governor of this State, to enforce the provisions of this act, to serve any and all writs, and to seize all packages unlawfully shipped, or not properly labelled and take them before some justice of the peace, city recorder or judge of the circuit court of his county and shall procure them to be declared by said court contraband and forfeited to the State of Oregon, and the justice of the peace, city recorder or circuit judge before whom they are brought must order the officer to immediately destroy them, which order the officer must obey and make due return thereof to such magistrate, and the neglect or refusal of any officer to discharge such duties as are imposed upon him by this act shall be deemed guilty of delinquency in office and may be tried and upon conviction thereof may be dismissed from his office in the manner provided by law.

Section 4. The word "person" as used in this act shall be construed to mean any individual, firm, partnership, copartnership, corporation or any combination of individuals by whatever name it may be denominated.

Section 5. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than two hundred dollars nor more than four hundred dollars. Money received from fines and forfeited bonds collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the treasury of the municipal corporation wherein such fine was imposed or bond forfeited, and shall be applied to such funds as the council thereof may direct. When such law is enforced in the courts of the county, the fines and forfeited bonds shall be paid into the county treasury to be applied to such funds as the county court shall direct.

Diamond Gives Himself Up

Ray Diamond, who robbed the bank at Glendale, gave himself up to the sheriff of Curry county on his arrival at Gold Beach last week, and ended the fear of a possible tragedy to be enacted in his capture. He gave up $2610, which he claims was all he got from the bank, though the officers of the bank claimed that he took $3290. He said he was drunk when the robbery was made and as soon as he got sober he decided to give himself up.

K. H. Clark, of this city, has gone with Henry Dufort, of Bandon, on a prospecting trip to Elk river.

TALKING MOTION PICTURES

And Moving Pictures Taken in Natural Colors

The Scientific American gives an account of an exhibition of talking picture and motion pictures in colors, recently given in New York, saying, in part:

The exhibition was opened with chronochrome pictures of flowers in vases on a revolving table, followed by outdoor scenes. The first picture showed the flowers in black and white, but with a remarkable stereoscopic effect, the result of there being three distinct pictures superposed on the screen instead of but one. The second picture showed the same flowers in all their natural beauty, while the views that followed, depicting farm scenes in the south of France and glimpses along the Riviera, were entrancing in their naturalness.

A photo play taken under artificial light was shown, in which the colors of the costumes and decorations were perfectly rendered. The facial expression of the actors was reproduced with a naturalness and softness that was wonderfully lifelike, and there was nothing lacking in detail.

There followed beautiful studies in nature of mounted specimens of butterflies in which the varying sheen on the wings when viewed from different angles was extremely beautiful. Words can hardly express, too, the magnificent nacreous luster on some specimens of sea shells that were shown.

The talking picture exhibition demonstrated the remarkable effectiveness of the electrical synchronism between the picture film and phonograph, the loudness of the sound of which is intensified by means of compressed air on the principle employed in the Parsons auxetophone.

A talking motion picture play of twenty minutes duration was produced by a series of records rapidly changed from one to another, by a special device, until the close of the play. An amusing subject was a rooster standing on a pedestal, flapping its wings and crowing very naturally and vigorously.

Another example was a lion tamer putting his lions through their tricks, which resulted in much naturalistic roaring by several of the beasts.

CURRY COUNTY CULLINGS

(From the Port Orford Tribune)
Geo. D. Wood, the Gold Beach banker, will shortly go to Chetco, where he will open another bank at the town of Brookings.

After the men had given it up, the women took hold of the situation, and the people of Langlois will now celebrate the 4th of July. Woman may not be adapted for war, but evidently she can teach her brother a lesson in patriotism.

Wm Harris, who resides near Myrtle Point, has been spending several days in camp at Port Orford. Mr. Harris was a schoolmate with E. A. Stewart and Walter Sutton in Polk county nearly 60 years ago, and had not met either one of the gentlemen since that time, and they enjoyed renewing old acquaintances and recalling early day incidents.

(Gold Beach Globe)

The Randolph now lies in its cradle at the river's edge ready to be launched as soon as the repairs are made. These don't amount to a great deal in either money or labor.

Wm. Doyle returned a few days ago from a trip as far as Seattle, Wash., where he went for some registered Ayshire cattle. He brought back with him one registered bull and two heifers. The bull he secured in Washington and the heifers in Polk county, Oregon.

Colvin and Walker, who are engaged hunting sea lions on the Rogue river reef, came in Saturday evening with a load of hides. They made a killing of 34 large ones, bringing the hides of a part of them in. They will go out again the first favorable time to finish up the job.

OREGON NEWS

BRIEFLY TOLD

EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK

Transpiring in Oregon Boiled Down to Least Number of Lines and Yet Make the Subject Understood.

Senator Chamberlain denies the report that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Prineville, at the recent school election, voted unanimously against the free text books proposition.

Governor West denies that he has soured on the "honor" system, and says that it has come to stay.

Mayor Harter, of Tillamook, has resigned, following disagreements with other employes of the city government.

One night last week a large bear came up on the porch at Bert Wells' home near Grand Ronde and gave the inmates quite a scare.

Terrebonne is a flourishing new town in Crook county. The name may appropriately apply to all Oregon. It means "good land."

Oregon City will construct an elevator at Seventh street to enable its citizens to mount and descend the high perpendicular bluff which cuts the town in two.

The minimum wage law recently passed in Illinois, which fixes $7.50 a week as the lowest wages for women and girls, is declared to be too low to do any good.

Lebanon now enjoys immunity from the town cow, the council having just passed an ordinance making it worth $10 to $100 to permit stock to run at large.

Lakeview is soon to have a band stand of concrete, semi-octagonal in outline and an amphitheatre in arrangement. The county court made the building appropriation.

Teachers who gathered in Florence recently to take the state examination were compelled to wait several days for the arrival of the questions, which had been misssent.

At Falls City water is sold at 75 cents for domestic use and $2 per year for lawn and garden sprinkling, with no limit to quantity. And the system is paying a net profit.

Roseburg's school board is contemplating the submission to an informal referendum of the question of establishing domestic science and manual training courses in the schools.

Undesirable Citizens Run Out

A party of citizens 200 strong went to the city jail in Marshfield last Wednesday, took out two I. W. W. agitators who had been locked up the night before to make sure of their whereabouts, and shipped them to the sandhills at Jarvis landing, with the admonition to keep right on going and not come back. A few minutes after the boat carrying these men had gone an I. W. W. sympathizer, who was making too much talk about the proceeding, was picked up and sent on another boat to join the others. The first two men were W. J. Edgeworth, local secretary of the I. W. W., who has been doing organization work, and Wesley Everett, who has also been working for the organization. The third man was Fred Roberts, who claimed to be a law-abiding citizen. The men offered no resistance. After being placed on the boat, Edgeworth asked permission to make an address, but on its being granted, only brought out: "If this is what you people wish, then I have nothing to say," which seemed to cover the situation fairly well. There was practically no disturbance over the affair. It had been very well planned, and was kept very quiet until the hour arrived. The leading business and professional men of the town took part in the demonstration.
