One of Neptune's Tricks

N. D. Trumbull, of Elk River, Minn., is visiting his son Charles, who lives across the river. Mr. Trumbull came in by way of Drain and on the beach ride between Gardiner and Coos Bay he had his initiation into the mysteries of the ocean surf. Getting cold in the stage, he got out to walk awhile and naturally laid his course on the hard wet sand. Happening to relax his vigilance just as a big roller came in, he suddenly found himself in water nearly up to his waist and did some lively scrambling for dry land. It was a new experience and worth the money.

Circuit Court

The grand jury adjourned last Wednesday afternoon to meet again yesterday morning. No indictments were made public. J. E. Stevens, the Plat B cigar maker, was released after the investigation of two charges of lewd co-habitation. Paul Kruger, charged with furnishing liquor to a minor was released, as was also Henry Miller, who had been arrested on suspicion of complicity in the Myrtle Point bank robbery.

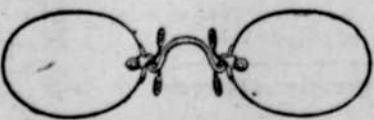

On Saturday the grand jury returned an indictment against Frank Vaughn, charging him with the theft of a team of horses belonging to the Lib Hayes estate. An indictment was also found against Hillis Short, of Tenmile, for shooting ducks from a gasoline launch. The gambling case against Tamp Osborne, ex-ballplayer, was continued.

The case against W. J. Leaton, former recorder of Eastside, for the robbery of the safe of that municipality is on today. The case is being prosecuted by County Attorney Liljeqvist and the defense conducted by R. O. Graves.

In 1898 Nichols, a veteran of the Civil War, returned his pension checks with the statement that he "did not need the money." About a year later financial reverses and illness overtook him
