Whole Family Comes

A Portland "special to the Herald" says: The population of Coos County is likely to make a rapid growth within the next few days. On her last outbound trip the steamer Breakwater carried a family consisting of father, mother, six boys and seven girls. They took with them the usual assortment of household goods, two cows, one horse, a lot of chickens, two cats in crates, they started with three dogs but one of the latter became homesick and jumped overboard before they were out of sight of land. Immigration into Coos county is very heavy and the steamer has, on several recent trips, been offered more household goods than she could carry.

Lost a Peavie

Manager McKenna is mourning the loss of a $3.00 peavie belonging to the Oregon Power Co., which lies at the bottom of the river. In trying to save the peavie he inadvertently saved the life of Frank Hoffman, who had taken a header into the river accompanied by said peavie. On Thursday last Hoffman was standing on the floating dock helping get out some poles belonging to the power company, when he made a miscue and immediately thereafter made a large hole in the water. The current was running swiftly and he was about to be carried under the wharf, which would have resulted seriously for him. But McKenna was standing within reach, and supposing of course that Hoffman was hanging onto the peavie, seized him and pulled him out; but all he brought with him besides his clothes and personal belongings was about a dollar's worth of water.

City Ticket.

The caucus held Thursday night at the city hall for the nomination of candidates for the coming city election brought out 110 voters, including a goodly number of the fair sex.

Mayor Morrison and Recorder Lawrence were renominated with enthusiasm and acclamation.

Five names were placed before the meeting for the three places to be filled on the council: W. H. Lyons, C. I. Kime, George O. Leach, M. O. Hawkins and W. C. Laird. The balloting resulted in the choice of the three first named.

N. Lorenz, P. E. Drane and E. E. Johnson were appointed a committee with power to fill any vacancies that might occur in the ticket as named.

Good Roads Day

Good Roads Day saw many of Coquille's prominent citizens and business men out with their old clothes on doing hard labor for the betterment of the highways. Many of the stores were closed throughout the most of the day, and it was proved that Coquille people are in earnest in their desire for good roads. Reports from Marshfield, the metropolis of the county, state that four men turned out there. North Bend went to it with a will, and Mayor Simpson estimates that $1000 worth of work was done on the new boulevard leading to Empire.

Progress of "War"

April 22

Three thousand marines land at Vera Cruz and take possession of the custom house. After the landing there is fighting with scattered Mexicans who shoot from the rooftops. The lighter guns of the fleet bombard the city. Four marines killed and 20 wounded. Many Mexicans killed. General Maas, commanding the Mexican forces, skips out.

Japan announces its neutrality.

Congress passes the resolution empowering the president to proceed against Huerta.

April 23

Vera Cruz in complete possession of the Americans.

President Wilson asks for $500,000 to bring Americans out of Mexico.

The Mexican charge d'affaires at Washington is given his passports. Carranza makes a formal request that the American forces be withdrawn from Vera Cruz, which Wilson refuses. Carranza announces that all Americans in the rebel zone will be protected until they can be escorted to the border.

April 24

Rioting in the city of Mexico is encouraged by Huerta and members of his government. Representatives of the American government are forbidden to send out messages. Secretary O'Shaughnessy leaves the city.

The total American dead is given as 18 at Vera Cruz. Mexican sharpshooters still at work. The torpedo boat flotilla leaves San Diego for Mazatlan. Bluejackets ashore at Santa Cruz number 5550. German and British warships in the harbor shelter refugees, now numbering 1200. Admiral Fletcher reports conditions in the city nearly normal.

People along the border fear Mexican raids and ask for protection.

April 25

Argentine, Chile and Brazil make an offer of mediation, which is rejected by the government with a statement that no mediation from any source will be accepted.

An airship at Vera Cruz ascends and gets the location of General Maas' forces and returns to the fleet. Four Americans reported killed in the City of Mexico and many outrages. Huerta takes away 200 rifles and two machine guns which Americans had stored at the embassy. Americans forbidden to enter or leave the city.

Villa gives out an interview to the United Press siding with the United States against Huerta.

April 27

Conditions better in Mexico City. Admiral Fletcher hoists the American flag over his headquarters in Vera Cruz. Opposition to Huerta showing itself.

The French, German and British ministers urge Huerta to accede to the demands of the United States. Wilson and Bryan hope for an early settling of the affair. Villa gives his opinion that the war crisis is past.

Fined Ten.

After being given a free ride in a coal wagon from underneath the laundry to the city hall, Ed Quinn spent the night in the city lodging house and was fined ten dollars this morning for being drunk. Quinn furnishes frequent amusement to the Marshfield police magistrate, who seems to feel an unaccountable satisfaction in adding to the score of unpaid fines against Mr. Quinn.

Another Hole.

Another hole was being dug through the pavement this morning at the corner of Hall and First, where the water has busted loose somewhere underneath and has been coming up through the sidewalk. The consensus of opinion among the 97 by-standers was that something was wrong with the hydrant connection, and some even remembered that the contractor was told when he was putting the hydrant in that he wasn't doing it right.

Coquille Wins the Cup

At the Coos County contest in Oratory and Declamation held at Bandon last Friday evening, Earl Leslie of the local high school carried off the honors in oratory and brought home the silver loving cup put up by Dr. J. T. McCormac two years ago. This cup has been one year in the possession of North Bend and spent the past year in the Bandon high school. For the coming year it will occupy a conspicuous place in the assembly room of the Coquille high school. Some of the students are already planning to try out for oratory next year and assist in retaining the cup as a permanent possession of the school.

In the declamatory contest held at the same time as that in oratory, Doris Peoples represented Coquille and took second place, Miss Eva Hanson of Marshfield winning by only one point. Miss Peoples recited exceedingly well and it was plain to everyone in the audience that it was a close race between her and the Marshfield representative.

Among the Coquille people who attended the contest were Mrs. Peoples, Mrs. Knowlton, Misses Guinn and Hanson, Janie Lowe, Mrs. Leslie, Ray Miller, Clay Knowlton, Clifford Kern, Perry Lawrence, C. A. Howard and Reuben Mart.

Circuit Court.

The Circuit Court met yesterday for the regular April term, and the case of the state against Harry Morgan and H. Joseph Krug, from Bandon, charged with robbery, was put on. L. A. Liljeqvist conducted the prosecution and Thos. F. Haggerty was appointed by the court for the defence. The case went to the jury late in the afternoon.

The following cases were on the docket: Ozella Franklin, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, made a plea of not guilty. This is the colored woman from Marshfield who tried to do up her husband R. O. Graves was appointed to defend her, and the case was set for this morning.

Gus Johnson, receiving and attempting to conceal stolen property, plea of not guilty. John C. Kendall appointed for the defense and case set for this morning.

James Osburn, obtaining money and property by false pretences, plea of guilty and judgment deferred. This is the case recently mentioned by the Herald, in which the defendant, a boy of 18, raised a $3 check to $30, to the sorrow of a local merchant.

Clarence H. McLaughlin, charged with falling to support his wife, Geo. Watkins is his attorney.

James Ferrari made a plea of not guilty to the charge of murder, in connection with the Henryville killing, and R. O. Graves was appointed to defend him.

Hillis Short, charged with shooting ducks from a motor boat. This is a test case and involves the constitutionality of the law, as well as the status of the Tamm lake as private grounds.

Ben Gatt, Jr., of Gravel Ford, denied the violation of the local option law and is out on bonds.

Clay Roberts entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of showing obscene pictures.
