Market Conditions Favorable

Market conditions for hops, wool and wheat continue favorable. The foreign shipment of wool particularly, is heavy, due to the European war, while the hop market is very firm despite the fact that 16 states will vote on prohibition and as a result eastern brewers are holding off buying. Domestic business conditions are slowly adjusting themselves to the recent disturbances due to the war, each week showing a less perceptible decrease in bank clearings, and the general tone of eastern business men seems to be that gradually America will come back to normal conditions, even though the war continues for some time. The greatest difficulty is to supply certain imported goods from Germany, especially dye stuffs.

To Hitch or Not to Hitch

The Sentinel thinks that something ought to be done about providing hitching posts for the farmers' teams. The Sentinel is most mighty right. The farmers have been complaining and acquiring an increasing grudge over the matter for a long time and no one can blame them. The matter has been discussed by the council and nothing has been done. Whether any one can blame the council is another story; but it is certain that the situation reflects credit on neither the council nor the citizens. Coquille depends on the trade of the farmers for its prosperity, yet it provides no place where the farmer can leave his team in safety when he comes here to trade. Coquille merchants expect the farmers of the vicinity to do their trading here, and the name of Sears, Roebuck & Co. is anathema, yet we will bet that if that enterprising outfit had a branch here there would be a hitching rack right by it. Perhaps our merchants think that the setting up of a hitching rack would be too much like received in Port Orford last week from near Portland and will make their home here for the coming year at least. The late Methodist conference stationed Rev. Myers at this place to fill the vacancy caused by Rev. Paul's departure.

During the past few days the shingle mill has been cutting a special order of shingles, with which a new roof will be put on the cold storage plant. This building which now belongs to R. L. MacLeay, was erected by R. D. Hume at a cost of $35,000 for the purpose of developing the deep sea fishing industry at this place. Shortly after the plant was completed Mr. Hume died, and as a consequence it has never been used other than for a storage room.

The Bandon Construction Company who are building Chetco bridge are certainly having troubles of their own. About a month ago a sudden rise in the river carried one of their scows out of the month with a considerable loss. Some two weeks ago they attempted to enter Chetco river with a scow containing 10,000 feet of lumber and 600 or 800 sacks of cement. The scow went ashore and the cement was all lost and but a small portion of the lumber saved.

For the Farmer

A free selling service for seed potatoes and seed corn is being organized for Coos county farmers by J. L. Smith, County Agriculturalist. The aim is to raise the standard of these crops in the county by encouraging more careful grading of the seed and by bringing together farmers who have reputable seed for sale and those who wish to buy. Farmers who have seed to sell will send in to Mr. Smith, at Coquille, the number of bushels for sale, name of the variety, stating whether early or late, grown on upland or bottom land, when planted and when harvested, this information will be placed in suitable form for sending to prospective buyers of seed. Likewise, farmers desiring to buy seed should send in their names, specifying the amount and kind of seed needed. This information will be furnished to buyers and sellers without charge.

Mr. Smith believes it would be to the advantage of sellers to send in a guaranteed sample of three or four potatoes or ears with their information. These samples will be placed on exhibition in the office of the agriculturalist in order that prospective buyers, visiting the office, may get an idea of the quality of the seed each man has for sale. Mr. Smith will not handle money or make agreements for contracting parties; he will simply act as a go-between in bringing buyers and sellers together, thereby aiding in the distribution of good seed throughout the county.

Farmers are urged to send in the information requested as soon as possible so that their names may appear on the lists to be issued. Growers desiring information regarding the selection of seed potatoes and seed corn and a knowledge of the most desirable types may obtain this information by addressing Mr. Smith.

Killed in Logging Camp

Charles Boone, eldest son of T. N. Boone of Fairview, aged 22, was fatally injured last Friday afternoon at the Lawhorn logging camp on Middle creek and died shortly afterward. Our East Fork correspondent gives the following particulars of the accident:

Friday afternoon about four o'clock, Charles Boone, when putting a choker around a log at Lawhorn's camp on Middle creek, was struck by a splinter three inches thick, ten inches wide and six feet long, which fell from the top of a dead snag 15 or 20 feet high standing near. His skull was fractured and he died at 9 o'clock that night. The funeral services were held and the body buried at Summer Sunday.

"advertising," and the majority of them seem to be strictly "ethical" on that standpoint. But the town that does not treat its farmer friends with reasonable courtesy and accommodation can not expect to win their warm regard.

The Irrepressible Boy

It was at the Grand, in Coquille. That remarkably strong and gripping drama "The Forbidden Room," was drawing toward its tragic close. The powerful and realistic acting of Pauline Bush, as the insane woman had cast a spell over the audience. The insane woman had escaped from her room and gone to the house next door. She entered the room in which sat the man who, in their youth, has been the cause of her misery. He covered back in his chair and she came slowly, half crouching, toward him. The interest was tense and every nerve was taut. Then some kid down in front suddenly broke the silence with that sound that children make when they are playing bear, or something frightful—"Grrr-Grrr-Grrr!" Well, it broke the strain all right. It may be added, however, that Miss Bush's power was such that when she came up to the terrified man, a moment later, and threw her arms around his neck, some young woman in the audience screamed aloud.

Back from Bandon

Miss Vivian Haynes and her sister, Miss Winnie, returned Saturday afternoon from Bandon, where Miss Haynes has been playing the violin at the picture houses and also introducing some of the new dances, as well as enjoying the pleasures of the Bandon beach. She expects to return to her home in Eugene when the Elder next goes north, and will then resume her musical studies under her old professor at the Pacific Conservatory of Music. He also writes her that he wants her to act as his assistant instructor of the Conservatory. It is likely that she will be heard at the Scenic before her departure, which will furnish a treat for all who love real music on the violin.

Dollar Buys Mill

At the foreclosure sale of the mill of the Coquille Lumber Co. near town which was held last Saturday, the property was bid in by the Robert Dollar Co., under whose mortgage it was sold, the bid covering the amount of the mortgage and court costs. It has been reported that if the Dollar company became owners of this mill they would operate it, but the present state of the lumber market would seem to discourage such a hope for the present.

A Strong Candidate

E. B. Curtis, of North Bend, was on the River last week in the interest of his candidacy for county commissioner, visiting Bandon and Myrtle Point, well as this city. As he was formerly a resident of Myrtle Point, Mr. Curtis will poll a good vote there, and the fact that he is the only candidate from the Bay side for a place on the county court should be considered by the voters of the valley. With the strong support of his own section he stands an excellent chance of election, and any one who has met him knows that he will make a good commissioner.

Foot Ball Practice

Last Sunday brought forth another strenuous practice for the local foot ball team and Coach Hamilton feels that his efforts are being well rewarded by the degree of perfection which is making itself manifest in these practices both in team work and individual playing. A feature of Sunday's practice was the shifting of men to new positions in order to familiarize them the different places and insure the team against the possibility of having a place left vacant with no one capable of playing the position by a player becoming disabled or otherwise prevented from holding down his regular position. Although the final arrangements are yet to be made it is quite probably that the boys will play at North Bend election day and they are confident of their ability to give the bay town team a good game. They will meet for signal practice on the streets again tonight.

The Piano Contest

Another candidate made a spurt last week in the Drane contest, and it will be seen that Myrtle Newton now leads, besides taking the weekly prize, while the candidate who was away ahead a couple of weeks ago is now in third place. This shows that it won't do to lie down until the contest is finally closed. The candidate who keeps on working all the time is the safest.

At Anderson's, Mrs. Mabel Sampson came back into action and carried off the weekly prize, while assuming the lead. The four leading candidates are now bunched in the forty thousands and a very pretty race is to be seen.

The prize this week is a Tricolour, which is claimed to be a simplification of the percolator and an improvement on that useful utensil. It will furnish a nice reward to the candidate making the best score this week.

There is still a fine field for more than one candidate to make a killing among Herald subscribers, and we are ready to give all assistance possible to any who wish to get out and rustle.
