PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY

Entered as second class matter May 8, 1905, at the post office at Coquille, Oregon, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

P. C. LEVY, Lessee.

Devoted to the material and social upbuilding of the Coquille Valley particularly and of Coos County generally. Subscription, $1.50 per year in advance.

Phone Main 281.

The people of Coos Bay are doing much whistling to keep their courage up, in the matter of jetty improvement. They now profess to believe that there is a fighting chance to get an appropriation for jetty work at an early date. It is much to be feared that their hopes will not be realized at present, no matter how many delegations they may send to Washington. The "delegation" spent its time at Washington. The delegations always put up a plausible story of the need of an appropriation, and it is hard for congress to distinguish between the worthy and unworthy. In this case, we have, starting us in the face, the engineers' project of a bar dredge not completely tried out, and it is not likely that congress will take up the work of jetty improvement until the government engineers acknowledge that the bar dredge is exactly what the present editor of the Herald has always said it would be—an expensive and distressing and complete failure, a disgrace to the intelligence of the gold-brained engineer who first recommended it and to his successors who have felt bound by that recommendation. No doubt the engineer now in charge of this district and his associates would be glad to see a jetty project substituted for the bar dredge, for no one likes to be identified with a failure, but they are bound by the "spirit of the service" to give a thorough trial to the project adopted by the department, even though they know that it must eventually be abandoned. In the mean time the people of Coos Bay and their organs of publicity are muzzled, for "it will not do to offend the engineers." Encouraging reports were published last fall of the work accomplished by the dredge, and those who knew the truth were induced to keep still by the argument that the project of the engineers must not be criticized, or they would get even by turning a cold shoulder on future projects. The people of the Coquille river are nearly as much concerned in this matter as the people of Coos Bay; for the growth of the Bay communities which will come with the advent of the railroad and the improvement of the harbor means a good market at our doors for all the products of our farms and dairies, as well as a distributing center for the wholesale supplying of our needs. Anything that keeps back the growth of the future city on the Bay is a detriment to the Coquille and the bar dredge may be safely put down in that category.

The welkins rings with the preliminary shrieks and cries of the battle that will open at Salem next week over the speakership of the house of representatives. Ben Selling is the Portland candidate, while Allen Eaton, of Cottage Grove, is trying to rally the country districts behind his candidacy. The Portland contingent naturally deprecate any such "sectional fight," which would bring the representatives of other parts of the state into an organized body to resist the encroachments of the Portland hog. As for the candidates Mr. Selling is undoubtedly an able and efficient man, but his propensities are stand-pat and reactionary, and he is for Portland, first, last and all the time. Of his opponent comparatively little is known here, but on general principles it would be safe for the rest of the state to join in keeping the important and influential office out of the hands of a Portland man. If Portland wants to put an end to reactionism, let her begin at home.

In another column will be found an article sent in by the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, asking information as to any cases of crippled children known to the readers of this paper. The Herald is glad to give publicity to this call, for no more worthy object can engage the attention of the humanitarian. The Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs has been doing much good work and is displaying a great deal of sound practical good sense, as well as a high ideal of civic affairs.

Who Knows a Crippled Child Who Needs Help?

County School Superintendent Baker has received an appeal from the Oregon State Federation of Women's Clubs, asking him to tell their hospital committee about any crippled children in this county who could be aided by a state-wide organization to furnish free medical treatment of the most modern scientific kind in all cases where the family income is not sufficient for expensive consultation with specialists.

The Federation, which includes a hundred women's clubs in all parts of the state, asks anyone who knows of a little victim of an accident, of meningitis, of infantile paralysis, of tuberculosis in the bones or joints, or any other crippling cause, to write the details of the case to Mrs. Millie R. Trout, Secretary Child Welfare Commission, 250 1/2 Third Street, Portland, Oregon.

The club women maintain that these little cripples, besides being the most pitiful cases of helplessness, and besides being entirely without organized assistance in contrast with the great state institutions which care for the deaf, the blind, the feeble-minded and even the delinquent, are also the most curable if treated in time, and the most able when so treated to make good, strong, useful, citizens instead of charges on public charity all their lives.

Woman's Study Club

The Woman's Study Club held a very enjoyable and instructive meeting last Monday afternoon. Three papers were read—"The Home and Social Life of the Aztecs," by Mrs. H. O. Anderson; "The Aztec Cycle and Calendar," by Mrs. H. M. Young; and "The Aztec Hieroglyphic Records," by Mrs. R. S. Knowlton. Each paper was followed by a time of discussion. Papers were assigned for the next meeting, January 11, on the Aztec government, educational system, and military system.

The names of some of the gods of pre-Christian Mexico, and some of their worshippers, continue to call forth facetious remarks from Coquille humorists. One of the latest is that "If Bill Shakespeare were to poke his head inside the door of the City Library while the Study Club is in session and ask 'What's in the name?' he would be likely to receive right promptly the reply, 'Sometimes there are a whole lot of letters.'"

The members have decided that Lew Wallace and Rider Haggard showed wisdom in cutting down some of those names. In the hurried strenuous life of today "Zetzcat," "Huitzil," "Quetzal," and "Ixtil" are much more convenient than "Tezcatlipoca," "Quetzalcoatl," "Huitzilopochtli," "Ixtilcoatl," and "Nwahualcoyotl" and "Nezahualpilli" can spare a few syllables, and still have plenty.

The afternoon closed with the lesson in domestic science, conducted by Mrs. Young. The next lesson in this study will be from "Non-Nitrogenous Foods," on page 23 of the text book to "Fats and Oils," on page 30.

The Picture Show

The Grand has been showing some very good programs in the last week. That of last night was exceptionally good, and tonight will be hard to beat. The last story of "The Man Who Disappeared" will be shown; Also a two-reel Vitograph featuring Maurice Costello and his small daughter Helen, the cleverest and sweetest kid on the screen, she playing the leading and only female part. One of the incomparable George Ade comedies will also be shown.

The Broadway Star Feature, "My Official Wife," is coming, and Mrs. Bledsoe expects it Staurday night. This is one of the Vitograph's great features, played by Harry Morey, Clara Kimball Young, Earle Williams and other of the very top notches, and no one should miss seeing it who appreciates a strong picture.

There has been a mix up in the shipment of the Pauline pictures, and we will see no more of her "perils" until the 14th, when the next episode will be shown, to be followed on the 15th by another.

The Pauline series will be succeeded by another known as the "Blaine" series, by the same company and said to be better than "Pauline."

Druggists Will Dispense With Booze Prescriptions

All the druggists of Coos county except those of Bandon have now come together and signed up on the resolutions passed at the meeting of the Coos County Pharmaceutical Association held in this city on Dec. 9th, and will hereafter dispense no booze, either on a physician's prescription or otherwise. The following druggists have signed this agreement:

Brown Drug Co., Marshfield. Preuss Drug Co., Marshfield. Winkler's Pharmacy, Marshfield. Owl Prescription Pharmacy, Marshfield. The Everitt Pharmacy, North Bend.

Platt's Pharmacy, North Bend. Lockhart - Parsons Drug Co., Marshfield. R. S. Knowlton, Coquille. Fuhrman's Pharmacy, Coquille. Pacific Drug Co., Myrtle Point. Perkins' Pharmacy, Myrtle Point. It is expected that the Bandon druggists will come in latter, but for business reasons they are not ready to join the movement now.

The reasons given by the druggists are, to put them briefly, that alcoholic stimulants are not a necessity in modern materia medica, there being many other drugs that are safer and better which are free from the objectionable properties of intoxicating liquors; that they recognize the harm done by their use; that they do not like to be classed as retail liquor dealers; and that they wish to uphold in the highest degree the dignity of their profession.

It would seem also that when carefully conducted, on strictly legitimate lines, the booze prescription business is not a profitable one for the druggist. C. J. Fuhrman tells the Herald that, on figuring up the booze prescriptions for the past year, he finds that the total receipts were less than $23 while the government license cost $25.

In any case, it seems that after the end of this year, with the laws enforced as they will be by our district attorney and other officers, the only way to acquire a jag will be to follow the suggestion of the Committee of One Hundred, and ship it in from outside of the state.

East Fork Items

On New Year's Eve there was a watch night candy pull at Charles Shepherd's which was attended by the neighbors. His sister Mrs. Hanson, Mr. Hanson and children and Miss Shepherd, of McKinley, were over. Everyone had a good time. The candy hit the right spot and everybody had a sweet tooth whether they had teeth or not. The midnight supper was of the quality that made the guests know that they had started the year right with a good square meal.

A. S. Smith and Fred Baker are members of the trial jury and Hailey Laird of the grand jury.

Mrs. McVey and Miss Nicalia spent a day or two at Coquille holiday week.

The Culbertson children have been under the wether with gripple colds.

Besemer's Ill Luck.

St. Henry Besemer was one of those inventors that ill luck pursued and from whose clutches he finally escaped by indomitable perseverance. In 1833 the British government was losing $500,000 a year by the fraudulent use of embossed deed stamps. Besemer rendered this impossible by the use of perforated dies which dated the stamps. He presented the invention to the government, which forgot its promise of a permanent appointment, but thanked him. His great invention in the manufacture of steel so impressed the ironmakers that they paid him $125,000 for licenses and "wanted their money back." He had forgotten the proportion of fools to wise men. It took him two years to render the process "foolproof," and he pressed his point home by the setting up of his factory in Sheffield.

Turned the Tables.

In his reminiscences Henry Holt tells a story of a Londoner, "Romero" Coates, who thought he was a born actor. Coates paid a large sum to be allowed to play Romeo at Drury Lane, where he appeared bedizened with jewels and was received with vociferous applause by a public who appreciated the joke. Some of the young men who were the favored associates of the prince regent concocted a practical joke at the expense of Coates. They got a sheet of the prince's note paper and sent him an invitation to dine at the pavilion. The prince got wind of the trick, and when Coates was ushered in and the jokers were looking to see his discomfiture he turned the tables on them by receiving his visitor with great politeness and giving him a place of honor.

CURRY COUNTY CULLINGS

(Gold Beach Globe)

Geo. B Miller, our local drayman, boasts of raising the largest White Russian turnip in the county. He harvested one yesterday that weighed twenty-seven pounds. How is that for Gold Beach soil?

After a quietness of about three weeks without an outside paper or package of parcel post, something like twenty-five horse loads of mail arrived at this office in the last two trips of the Agness mail boat.

As this is the time of the year for good resolutions, turning over new leaf's, etc, a bunch of local sports have gone the ordinary way one better by putting up a forfeit of $25.00. It is to be known as the Gold Beach Anti-Tobacco League, and any of its members who use tobacco in any form within a year will forfeit to the others twenty-five dollars.

(From the Port Orford Tribune)

Miss Pearl Axtell, of Coquille City, is enjoying the holidays with relatives and friends in Port Orford and vicinity.

Mrs. Eva Crockett, of Coos county passed down last week on a visit with her mother, Mrs. Thos Smith, at Rogue river.

Several parties from Port Orford and vicinity will be in attendance at the Circuit Court in Coos county next week, as witnesses in the cases against Jessie Quigley and Mr. Young.

M. G. Lutsey, the Sixes River cheesemaker, has rented Mr. Thorhaven's dairy ranch at Floras Creek, including 28 cows, and has taken possession—Mr Thorhaven having moved to Bandon.

The government has let the contract for carrying the mail from West Fork to Agness in Curry county, the price of the contract is $7,448 for a load limit of 600 pounds, and 3 1/2 cents a pound for excess weight.

During the past week the Port Orford Band has been giving free evening entertainments at Leneves Hall, and have certainly surprised the people by the excellence of their music, considering the short period which has elapsed since receiving their instruments.

Several of the Port Orford young men attended the Christmas festivities at Langlois, being attracted thither by the wrestling match boxing contest and grand ball. The wrestling match between Lester White and Percy Zumwalt was won by Zumwalt, in 27 minutes for the first fall and 7 minutes for the second. The boxing contest between Louis Sparling and Bernal Forty, both of Port Orford, was a source of much amusement, and resulted in a victory for Sparling on the sixth round. The ball in the evening was well attended, and was a success in every respect.

Looks Like Carter

The Record reports that M. W. Treadgold, father of G. T. and M. E. Treadgold, of Bandon, passed through Marshfield on his way to Bandon from the Dalles, where he recently sold out a large fruit orchard with the intention of going into the stock business near Bandon. The record says that Mr. Treadgold's resemblance to City Marshal Jack Carter was so strong that he was mistaken at that individual several times during his short stay in the Bay town.

Jim, Run This Editorial Tomorrow

THE law-abiding citizens of this city want the privilege of drinking beer—the drink of True Temperance. They are weary of blind tigers, speak-easies, blind pigs, holes in the wall—the off-springs of prohibition.

Prohibition has driven away the material prosperity of the people. It has cut off from this community the revenue derived from decent beer saloons and has increased temperance. It has largely increased public expense in the vain effort to enforce laws which cannot possibly be enforced. It has added seriously to the burden of taxation. It has depreciated the value of real estate. It has thrown many out of work. It has discouraged investment—capital has learned to shun prohibition localities.

Give the people what they want—the right to drink moderately of beer and practice the teachings of True Temperance.
