PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY
Entered as second class matter May 8, 1905, at the post office at Coquille, Oregon, under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

P. C. LEVAR, Lessee.

Devoted to the material and social upbuilding of the Coquille Valley particularly and of Coos County generally. Subscription, $1.50 per year in advance.

Phone Main 381.

Tom Hall has presented the Marshfield public library with a copy of the first number of the Daily Coast Mail, which was issued on Jan. 1, 1902, and was the first regular daily paper ever issued in Coos County. The Coos Bay Times, which is the degenerate successor of the Coast Mail, makes mention of the circumstance, and it is amusing to note the care with which Mike refrains from mentioning the names of the parties who issued the first daily. The present editor of the Herald was one of them, and he sank four and one-half years of time in the development of the field. If he had ten per cent of the good money that has been sunk in the same field since then he would get out of the newspaper business and start a bank or a picture show.

MORE PUBLICITY WANTED

The following from the Industrial News Bureau of the Pacific Coast Manufacturer should receive hearty support:

"The usual candidate for an economy reputation bobs up at this time of the year to ask the repeal of the law for publishing delinquent tax lists. The fact is there should be more, not less, publicity in tax lists and the system should be extended to secure publication of assessment rolls.

"For instance, at present the tax lists of all delinquents appear in one or two papers published at the county seat, and are all massed together. The delinquent list should be required by law to be made up alphabetically by precincts, and then published by precincts in the nearest papers.

"As a result delinquent taxpayers would get their notice of delinquency in their local paper if they did not happen to live at the county seat. The county seat papers would still publish the bulk of the delinquent list, but it would be brought home to every part of the county equally.

"Publication of the assessment rolls before equalization in the same manner has resulted in the digging up of enormous amounts of property. This is the law of a number of states, and the names are published alphabetically by precincts, one column giving personal property and the other realty. Thus two persons having the same amount of land in a neighborhood get to see each other's assessment, and they also see who is omitted from the roll. This law has abolished unjust valuations and has placed millions of hitherto unassessed property on the tax rolls—both personal and real. It is not less publicity that is required but more, and less commissions and boards and taxing bodies is what the newspapers are fighting for."

Horticulturist Visits Coos

County Agriculturist Smith is pleased with the meetings held over the county last week, when Professors Brown, Horticulturist of the Extension Department of O. A. C. was here to meet the fruit raisers and give them the benefit of expert instruction and advice in their line. The meetings were held in orchards, where Professor Brown could give practical illustrations in connection with his remarks, making these gatherings of the highest possible value to those who attended.

The smallest meeting was held on Coos river, where only ten turned out; but this was partly due to the "lay of the land" in the Bay section of the county, which makes it impossible to find an easy meeting point where there are fruit trees with which to give actual illustration of the points of the professor's instruction.

At Coquille 25 were present; at Myrtle Point, 35; and at Bridge 45 people were in attendance. Mr. Smith is enthusiastic about the live and progressive spirit shown by the people of Bridge, and they are certainly entitled to the highest credit for their spirit of intelligent enterprise.

Mr. Smith is busy in preparation of the exhibit which will be made at Corvallis next week during "Farmers' Week." Coos county will have a booth for the exhibition of what she is doing in the line of dairy products, and our county agriculturist is working to make the best showing possible from his district. The reports of the Coos county cow testing associations will be shown, and in this department it is likely that Coos will make some of the larger counties open their eyes. Mr. Smith expects to start Friday for Corvallis.

Revival Meetings

Rev. W. H. Sellick, of Portland, arrived yesterday morning and preached to a good congregation at the M. E. church last night. The meetings held in the church during the past week have prepared the way for the revival, and it is hoped that great good will result from the effort being put forth. The ministers and people of the other denominations are attending and aiding in the meetings with the utmost good fellowship. Services will be held each evening of this and next week, two services being held on Sunday, as usual. Cottage prayer meetings are being held at homes in the different sections of the city at 10 a. m., except at Sunnyside, where the people find it more convenient to meet at 2:30 p. m.

Sportsmen Call to Arms

There is a strong movement by members of the present legislature to abolish the Game Protection Fund by taking the license money paid in by hunters and anglers and put it into the General Fund; also of doing away with the present commission form of administration and throw the whole matter into politics by having the governor appoint the fish and game wardens.

Both of these measures were radically opposed by the combined sportsmen's organizations all over the state at the annual convention held last December.

If you want more birds in the field and more fish in the streams, we ask you to write a personal letter to protest immediately to your representatives and senators in the legislature asking that they vote against these proposed changes. Do it now.

Fishing and hunting in this state are attracting people from every part of the country. Maine values her fish and game resources at $20,000,000 a year, California at $10,000,000 a year. Neither of these states has a better opportunity than Oregon to become a sportsmen's paradise. The Deschutes, the Rogue, the McKenzie and other streams are known throughout the United States from the anglers' standpoint. Hunting in eastern and southern Oregon is also renowned. The outside sportsmen are people who have money to spend and money to invest. They buy equipment and stores; they spend money at hotels and for transportation and they constitute the state's most profitable class of tourist travel. And for our own people, there is no better form of recreation, physically, mentally and morally.

H. B. VAN DUZER,
Pres. Oreg. Sportsmen's League.

Have You Land to Rent?

Portland, Ore., Jan. 26, 1915. (Special.)—The farm land bureau of the Oregon State Immigration Commission is receiving a good many inquiries in regard to the possibility of renting good farm land, and nearly all these inquiries come from practical, experienced farmers who are not at this time financially able to purchase land. The Bureau is now planning to add this rental feature to its other work and would like, as soon as possible, to make up a generous list of such offerings. No fees or commissions of any kind will be charged, and in all cases the reliability and fitness of the applicant will be carefully investigated.

Farmers and land owners throughout the state who have land for which they have no present use, and who would like to derive an income from such acreage, are invited to write to J. W. Brewer, manager of the farm land bureau at Portland, for blanks on which to list such holdings.

"Along the Water Front"

That blue haze which hung over the water front for quite a while last Saturday has been explained. It seems that the opposition boats Charm and Dora came into collision off the city dock and the language emitted by the respective skippers of the two boats lent a cerulean hue to the circumambient atmosphere. Nor was the naval battle confined to the exchange of language alone. Bolts, nuts, oil, pike-poles and whatever other species of throwable property was on deck was also utilized. No fatalities are reported, but it is said that the steamboat inspectors are expected here shortly to make an investigation.

The Price of Admission

The management of the high school debate which takes place at the Scenic Friday evening has given careful consideration to the question of the price of admission. The admission charge has heretofore always been 25 cents, as it is in other places. The receipts have never been enough to cover expenses, and it has been necessary to raise money in other ways to make up the deficit. The question was whether a lower price would attract an attendance sufficiently large to cover the actual cost. It was concluded that Coquille people were able and willing to pay the same price as those of other towns. This seems to the Herald to be the correct view. The patrons of the Coquille schools should take interest enough in the work of the pupils to turn out and hear these debates and they should be willing to pay the usual price. It is to be hoped that this view will be borne out by the attendance at the debate on Friday evening.

At the Show

At the Grand last night was shown one of the old Biographs of four or five years ago, in which Mary Pickford appears. Little Mary was then about sixteen years old, and this was her first engagement in motion pictures. Since she has attained fame and has become what the is well called, "The Sweetheart of America," there has been a demand for the re-issue of these old pictures, and the Biograph company has put out 21 of them. It is to be hoped that they will all be shown here, for they are fully equal to the work of today, and all old fans will be very glad to see them. In the one shown last night appeared other favorites, including Mack Sennet who is now quite prominent in the independent camp.

The "Beloved Adventurer" series, featuring Arthur Johnson, which appears every Monday evening at the Grand is growing in popularity, and Johnson's portrayal of the character of the eccentric Englishman is being recognized as a fine piece of work.

The Grand announces vaudeville for tonight and tomorrow night, local talent holding the boards this evening.

Pauline is expected on her regular night, Thursday.

Contract Let Tomorrow

The bids for the construction of the new Catholic church will be closed at noon tomorrow and the contract let. Work will commence immediately, and it is expected that the building will be completed in a short time. The contract will be let for the work alone, the material being furnished, and all that must be brought from the outside will be ordered through our local dealers.

Can't Drink a Bit.
When Young America sends a joke even the Humane society is not immune. A few days ago a boy rushed into a police station and demanded to see a Humane officer. He excitedly reported gross cruelty on the part of a driver. When he got his breath he explained that the man was watering his horse without removing the bit. "And why should he do that?" asked the officer. "Why," said Young America, "the horse can't drink a bit."—Indianapolis News.

Dollar Company Gets Seely Anderson Plant

The Robert Dollar company, of San Francisco, has acquired the Seely-Anderson Logging company property on the Coquille river, including logging camps, the railroad up bear creek and the utilities connected with the business. The outfit has been idle since last summer and was shut down by the mortgagees. In December the property was sold to J. E. Wheeler, owner of the Portland Telegram and a lumberman who had a mortgage on the property. On December 18th, the Robert Dollar company satisfied the claims of Mr. Wheeler and took the outfit over. Whether the camps will be started again is not known, but it is thought that the Dollar company, which has two mills and other logging interests on the Coquille, will soon have their whole line of industries in that section employed. The Dollar company's steamer Grace Dollar has before been engaged in transporting the lumber from the Company's Coquille river mills to San Francisco and the vessel was built for that trade.—The Record.

Carnegie Library Opened

A formal opening of Marshfield's new $12,000 Carnegie library and the turning over of that institution to the city, took place on the evening of the 11th. A tax of five-eighths of a mill has been levied for its support, which will put approximately $150 per month into the library treasury. The presentation address was made by Mrs. Henry Sengstacken, chairman of the library board, to which Mayor F. E. Allen and ex-Mayor Dr. E. E. Straw replied.—Coos Bay News.

CURRY COUNTY COLLINGS

(From the Port Orford Tribune)
Miss Ena McKenzie, matron of the Emergency hospital at Bandon, arrived home Monday to be at the bedside of her father during his illness.

Harry Pearce returned one day last week to his parents' home on Middle Elk from having spent several months at Trinidad, California. Like the others who leave and return to this favored spot, he was glad to get back to Curry again.

F. Bostwick, the Floras creek homesteader whom we mentioned in our last issue as being arrested for violating the game law, was tried and convicted before Justice Cox at Langlois last week. He was fined $150, and then on account of his family he was given a pointed lecture by the Justice and his fine remitted.

M. D. Sherrard and wife of Bandon, are visiting at the T. L. Carey home at Wedderburn. Mrs. Sherrard being a sister of Mr. Carey's.

(From the Gold Beach Globe)
Word reached here yesterday morning by phone that two prisoners had escaped from the Del Norte County jail.

Gamblers, racehorse men, poker players and all ordinary sports will have to take off their hats to Moss Averill when it comes to making a bet against what a poker player would call a four ace play. He has made a bet that he would be married, and stay in Gold Beach, or Wedderburn every night for two weeks before his friends could find and shivaree him.

We admire the boy's sporting blood, but seriously question his ability to win.

The long looked-for Roamer with Captain Peder Olsen in charge came in Sunday morning, bringing a full load of general merchandise for this place and Wedderburn. Gold Beach was out of sugar, coal oil, and many other lines of staples were running low. The bar was very smooth when the boat started in, but several large seas kicked up before it got inside of the river; but Capt. Olsen's expert seamanship brought it safely in without shipping even one sea.

One evening last week as Mr. Wilcox (a gentleman who is wintering here, with a view of locating) was returning from the postoffice with his mail, and as the night was very dark, he ran into a wire fence near his house, a barbs from which strook him in one eye, inflicting a serious wound, which Dr. Dunlap fears will cause the loss of the eye. Unfortunately Mr. Wilcox had only one good eye and of course it was that one to get hurt, which, if it should prove fatal, will leave Mr. Wilcox almost stone blind.
