

"I'll Bet You a Year's Salary"

KITTY GRAY, an American newspaper reporter, finds and purchases half an old coin that she discovered in the window of an old curiosity shop. She is so impressed by the inscription which promises romance and adventure that she gives up her position on the newspaper in order to devote herself to solving the mystery. The derision of her editor moves her to bet him a year's salary that she can do it. She starts for the strange country and throughout the story she is shadowed by those who strive to thwart her at every turn.

How she triumphs over the most astounding obstacles, her hair-breadth escapes and thrilling adventures are told in the Universal's new magnificent picture serial, THE BROKEN COIN, founded on the story by Emerson Hough, the famous author who wrote such masterpieces of fiction as "The Mississippi Bubble," "40 or Fight," and scores of other huge successes. He has outdone his previous efforts in this wonderful story of THE BROKEN COIN, which is played by the strongest and most brilliant combination of moving picture stars ever brought together.

See Grace Cunard and Francis Ford in this triumph of realism and sensation. Follow Kitty Gray through her devious and adventurous quest, in the finest picture serial ever shown on the screen.

REWARDED FOR HER KINDNESS

Entertainment of Aged Man Results in Her Getting $15,000.

Columbus, Mo.—Miss Gretchen Detchemendy, twenty, of Carthage, Mo., has sold for $15,000 a one-fourth interest in a zinc mine which she received from J. A. Langston, seventy-five, a wealthy resident of Springfield, Mo., because she was kind to him and entertained him while at a summer resort last year in Colorado.

Miss Detchemendy and Langston became fast friends during their stay in Colorado, and when she returned home he sent her a deed for the interest in the mine near Commerce, Okla.

She began receiving dividends on her interest in the mine last March and was getting $100 a week when she sold because "you never can tell," she says, "when the price of zinc is going down or the ore deposit is going to go 'blind.'"

CELL KEY DID THE TRICK.

Escaping Prisoner Thought It Was a Gun and Raised His Hands.

St. Louis, Mo.—Using a tin spoon and a shoestring to open the door of his cell in police headquarters, J. J. Hartwell, bandit suspect wanted in Butte, Mont., was subdued by a guard using a brass key as a pistol and put back into his cell.

Hartwell had picked the jail lock and opened the door and was about to make for a rear window when he was captured by Parker Thompson.

As Hartwell left the cell Thompson pounced upon him, pointing his big brass key at the prisoner and ordering him to hold up his hands. The prisoner thought he was "covered" with a revolver and raised his arms.

CORNSTALKS STOP PHONE.

Interfere With Service in Kansas, Causing Short Circuit.

Leavenworth, Kan.—The cornstalks are so tall in some parts of Leavenworth county that they are interfering with the telephone service.

South of Lansing, at Dan Monroe's place, stalks pressed against the telephone wire and caused a short circuit. The linemen had considerable trouble in discovering what was wrong.

The wires were on low poles. Two rows of corn had to be cut on each side to keep the wires clear of short circuiting at Mr. Monroe's place.

BIG BENEFIGENCE IS PLANNED BY GAMBLER

Nicholas de Szemere, Hungarian, Proposing Aid to Soldiers.

Vienna.—Out of the ruck and roar and miseries of war varied suggestions have come, many of them bearing on the best way to deal with the soldiers at the front who may come back alert and whole or be permanently disabled.

It has remained for a Hungarian noble to help in solving the problem. He is a man who a few years since started Austro-Hungary by winning more than $800,000 in a single session in the Vienna Jockey club from Count Joseph Potocki. It took only four plays at baccarat in the fashionable gambling resort of this city to transfer this immense sum from the young count to the pockets of the sportsman and gambler for high stakes, Nicholas de Szemere. For Herr de Szemere owns one of the most famous stables in the dual empire and has won many of the classic races with his horses. Now, for the time being at least, he has chosen to forget the fascination of the race track and to dedicate some of his enormous winnings on the turf and at the gaming tables to caring for some of the soldiers when they return from the war. Incidentally, it may be stated that Herr de Szemere is well known in fashionable circles in New York city, where he visited a dozen years ago.

Herr de Szemere proposes to present Hungarian, German, Austrian and Turkish soldiers of his own selection with shares in a property consisting of thousands of acres of land which he will donate to the men lucky enough to be chosen by him to live and work upon it. He hopes by the inspiration of his gift to induce other large landowners of Hungary and Austria to follow his example. His letter announcing his intention has stirred the people.

Herr de Szemere's proposal can in a measure be better understood in America by identifying it with the "back to the land" movement in the United States.

FORTUNE FOR MAIL CARRIER.

Changes Living Cost Problem to How to Spend Income.

Kenosha, Wis.—Raymond Morehouse, a mail carrier here, has joined the "silk stocking" class.

The other night he went to bed wondering how to meet the high cost of living. The next morning he received a letter announcing he was heir to $120,000 from the estate of his uncle, Louis Morehouse, at San Leandro, who left here more than fifty years ago to seek his fortune in California.

A Hundred Rattles on String.

Tucumcari, N. M.—One hundred rattlesnakes is the record of C. T. Taylor of Gesbia, who claims to be the champion snake killer of eastern New Mexico. He now has 100 rattlers on a long string which he calls his "derby's rosary."

Sad Fate.

By author of "Style."

In our town there is a fellow, He is neither white nor yellow But not altogether green. This man is sly and bad, This man a Cadillac had He made a lovely scene.

He whispered in each ladies' ear Come ride with me my dear, Oh! come and ride with me; Robes of gold I give to thee, Girdle of pearl and love for life If thou wilt be my little wife.

And then a lovely one Climbed into the Cadillac just for fun They went on low they went on high Over the grade they went to die. Let all who hear their sad fate Take warning before it is too late; Others to their doom may fly, Lets hope for something better Just you and I.

And now I'll bid you all adieu If you want any more get something new.

FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

And the handmaiden of the school in the betterment of the Indian, has been the strict enforcement of temperance among the tribes, under Indian Commissioner Sells. Besides the Indian schools many of the youngsters attend the regular public schools, and in the opinion of Captain O'Neil they are becoming better citizens every generation; though he admitted, in answer to a direct question that but few of them work in the woods in cutting timber, and they are still far from the class that make for industrial achievement. Uncle Sam, with the help of a few faithful servants like Captain O'Neil, are faithful guardians of the Indian purse, and they do all of his logging at four per cent of the revenue it brings. Every safeguard is thrown about these wards of the government, and in a way they are rich. There is no need for particular exertion on their part, and they are happy because like their forefathers, they may still roam the fields and follow the streams in quest of game and fish. After all it may be a more useful and elevating existence than that of lolling and dolling, drinking and dancing, after the fashion of the most "highly civilized whites," who with poor Lo, constitute the idle rich of the nation.

"PREPAREDNESS"

There is a suspicion that "preparedness" has an angle, or possibly several of them, since the issue has gotten to such a point that anyone who has convictions favoring a moderate policy, is apt to be pointed out as an undesirable citizen of some kind or another. When Mr. Kitchen came from the White House a few days ago and announced that he remained unconvinced regarding a big army and navy, the markets dropped off several points, and the next morning the standpat organs attempted to start a movement to prevent Kitchen from becoming the Democratic leader of the House to succeed Mr. Underwood. There is an accumulation of evidence tending to indicate that Mr. Bryan is "getting in his work," and he may be able to make all sorts of trouble. The old time Bryan followers know that he is being misrepresented in the metropolitan press. These have grown into the habit of reading the Commoner and talking to the Nebraskan in an old fashioned easy manner and in consequence, there is a good deal of resentment among them, and they may decide to help him punish his enemies in the "same old way" that has become somewhat of a habit in recent years. Bryan and Roosevelt are as far apart as the poles, but around Washington they have plenty of defenders; and in the case of the Nebraskan, the "preparedness" exploiters for-revenue-only are bound to find that they have injured the cause of national defence by assailing their opponents as for "peace at any price." Even Bryan is for increased armament, but he and those who think with him, take the view that all that is needed is to make reasonable additions to the national police force, without attempting to get into a class with bleeding Europe.

The storm which reached its climax Thanksgiving Day was severe and costly. Most of our long distance service was more or less interrupted. That was "service first" as usual.
