Tupper on Three Legs

J. P. Tupper was a Powers visitor last week. He returned Sunday, and came hobbling up from the depot by the aid of a cane. Upon being asked the cause of his lameness he informed us that it was the result of a tumble he took from an unfinished sidewalk at Powers. It was after dark and there were no arc lights to warn him when he reached the end of the walk. The first thing he knew he felt himself falling through space and landed with a thud in the mud below. His left leg and right shoulder suffered severe strain. His clothes were covered with mud and he had to hire a bootblack to clean him up before he would venture home.

Hebrew Check Artist

Rosenburg, "the wandering Jew," who ran a tailor shop on Front street for the past year, a couple of weeks ago cashed a draft on an eastern bank and quietly disappeared. It was soon discovered that the draft was worthless and as $450 in cold cash had been handed out for it, it is needless to say that officers all over the State were at once acquainted with the facts and the Jew's description. Saturday news was received here that the man had been arrested at Crescent City and was being held until an officer would arrive from this place.

Good Roads Movement

Charles Hall, president of the Good Roads Association, was in town today, in consultation with Vice President Morrison regarding the movement to have a bond election called to take place at the time of the primaries, thus involving no extra expense. State Engineer E. S. Cantine also arrived today to make a survey of the Coos county roads, in accordance with the understanding arrived at some time ago with the State Highway Commission, which proposes to give us some help out of the state funds.

Myron Wickham Hurt

Thursday morning Myron Wickham who has been employed on the Cedar Point boom for a number of years, was struck by a large piece of piling which broke loose from a pile while logs were being loaded on the train at the loading house at Cedar Point. He was struck just above the left eye by the timber, which fell several feet before striking him. It inflicted a deep cut about three inches long. He was put on a handcar and rushed to this place. Dr. Low was summoned and dressed the wound. He found the skull to be cracked and in one place to be pressing on the brain.

A special engine was secured and the injured man rushed to the Mercy Hospital at North Bend. The latest reports from that place state that he is improving slightly and that the prospects for his recovery are bright.
