FOUR-FOLD HIGHWAY SYSTEM

For National, State, County and Township Roads

The following is sent out by the National Highways Association, of Washington, D. C., which is working for the adoption of a system of national highways to be constructed by the general government:

All attempts to develop roads by first building local roads have failed. Not until trunk lines were built was there any material advance in road building. These trunk lines brought about the desire for and building of the local feeder lines. Otherwise there was no desire or reason for the existence of such local feeders. Branch road lines were built after the trunk lines were established—otherwise they could not have existed. It must be the same with the roads.

While discrimination between districts is neither wise nor fair, nevertheless if any should be favored by road building it is our farming and rural districts. They need roads more than urban centers; and, what is more, they need help to build them. They cannot themselves furnish the needed funds. How can they be given the rural roads they must have? How can this be done most quickly and cheaply? National Highways advocates claim that the rural districts will get their needed roads, from railroads and market towns to farms, more easily, quickly, and cheaply by building of National Highways than by any "Federal Aid" plan, where the money is bound to go into politics and not into roads. National Highways advocates claim this because—

NATIONAL HIGHWAYS. Such a system of National Highways will likewise be the heavy traffic, main trunk lines within the several states. This will relieve the states of their construction and maintenance.

STATE HIGHWAYS. Thus relieved, the states can do without increase of present appropriations, build more miles than now of other or secondary State Highways, thereby reaching more remote words, the farmer will thus get what he needs and what he wants. He can not get this by any form of "Federal Aid." If he permits himself to be deceived by will find his money going into politics, "graft," and "corruption," and he will continue to wait in the "mud" for roads so vital to his well-being!

Second National Corn Show at St. Paul, Minn.

One of the most important agricultural events for the Northwest for 1916 will be the Second Annual "First National" Corn Show, which will be held in St. Paul, Minnesota, December 11-16, inclusive. Contests will be open to every farmer and farmer's son in the Northwest.

Territory Included. The Corn Show territory will remain the same as last year, and includes the following states, divided into districts as shown: Minnesota, six districts; Northwestern Wisconsin, two districts; North Dakota, six; South Dakota, six; Montana, six; Washington, three; Idaho, three; Oregon, two. One hundred and thirty-six Silver and "Golden Bronze" loving cups will be awarded as prizes. Competition will be divided into a men's and boys' class, and is confined to districts only, there being no competition between states or between districts.

The geographical divisions for the two districts in Oregon are as follows: District No. 1—Counties of Hood River, Wasco, Sherman, Gilliam, Morrow, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Baker, Grant, Wheeler, Crook, Malheur, Harney, Lake, Klamath, and Jefferson. District No. 2—Counties of Clatsop, Columbia, Tillamook, Washington, Multnomah, Clackamas, Yamhill, Polk, Marion, Lincoln, Benton, Linn, Douglas, Coos, Curry, Josephine, Jackson and Lane.

Prizes Valued at $5,000. Four prizes will be awarded in each district of each state, a first and second prize for boys and a first and second for men, trophies for the latter to be of like design and equal in value to those awarded the adult exhibitors. Each exhibit must consist of ten or more acres, but not less than one

Making an Artesian Well Pump Itself

The field men of the United States Geological Survey, in their investigations of the ground-water resources of the Virginia Coastal Plain, have observed that the flows from many artesian wells in that region are utilized to drive hydraulic rams for the purpose of lifting the water to higher levels. Along the lower courses of the Potomac and Rappahannock and along the shores of the many inlets that run back from Chesapeake Bay above the James there are hundreds of artesian wells that supply a perennial flow of beautifully clear water which is, as a rule, excellently adapted to all domestic uses and is largely utilized by the cannery factories and other industrial establishments that abound in that part of the country. Though the pressure of the water from the wells is ample at the shore level, the head diminishes so quickly with increase in elevation that no flow can be obtained along the higher banks above the shores where the water is most needed. One method of obtaining it at these higher levels is to use the force developed by the artesian flow to operate hydraulic rams, which in turn raise the water to the heights desired along the bluffs above the river and inlets. Thus it may be said that the artesian wells pump themselves.

High School Play and Entertainment

Friday evening May 5 has been selected as the date for the entertainment which the High School students have been working on for several weeks. The High school gives few public programs during the year and every effort is put forth to bring these few up to the highest standard. The first section of the program next Friday evening will consist of a group of declamations including the one by Ada Downs which was given in the county contest "Everyman," a

Neal of the Navy and J. Rufus Wallingford

Neal of the Navy, No. 14, "The Great Goal"—Two parts—Last episode—This installment tells the story of how Hernandez and Inez, having escaped from the cannibal island, reach their goal—Lost Island. They find that a crew of pirates has lived on the island for several years and have worked the rich cinabar mines, waiting for a time when they would be rescued. The battleship with the Illington party on board steams slowly toward Lost Island and on the way down the Brute recovers his senses and proves to be Annette's father. The pirates have amassed a vast amount of quicksilver and this they offer to Hernandez in exchange for Inez. He is about to agree to this when he sights Annette, her party having landed, walking about the island, determines to offer her instead. He captures her and is about to hand her over to the pirate chief, when her appearance causes the rest of the band to mutiny. The Illington party hears the noise of the strife and rushes to the rescue. Illington pursues Hernandez to the edge of a cliff, where the latter plunges over—to his death.

Thus with the greatest enemy removed, the Illingtons and Hardins enjoy the fortune deriving from the mines, and Inez, wishing to make reparation for her part of the conspiracy, enters a convent. This wonderful serial closes with Annette and Neal having come to a perfect understanding as to how they intend to spend the remaining years of their lives.

The New Adventures of J. Rufus Wallingford, (Final Chapter—"Lord Southpaugh")—Eli Spooeger is a devil in his old home town, but when it comes to dealing with the big jovial confidence man from the metropolis, he turns out to be fit for a devil's subject. Spooeger is president of a bank in Oak Centre and he owns several shares of the Bessemer Malleable Iron Foundry. Bessemer unwittingly aids them into circulating a story about a million dollar war order he's going to get from "Lord Southpaugh"—so Wallingford and Daw told him, and so Violet and Fanny made Spooeger believe.

Before the Oak Centre Clarion printed the rumor and even after that, the Wallingford party purchased all the shares about town for less than a hundred. In Spooeger's and Bessemer's presence they set as business rivals and Violet and Fanny form a third party—Secret Service Sabots, as Spooeger later called them. When Wallingford offered Spooeger two hundred for every share that he could get, and when Daw wanted to borrow money from Spooeger on his stock and Wallingford's, Spooeger wouldn't do it, he bought every one at a hundred and fifty. $85,000 was what he was cleaned out of on the famous Bessemer stock.

At their hotel in New York the Warden girls look longingly at a nice little miniature cottage. Wallingford offers to sell it to Violet for one dollar, provided that she take the contents also. Assenting, she takes from the house a clay image of Daw. Surprised and happy, she buries her face in her hands. Then the expressman brought Daw in with a tag around his neck. Violet and Daw we leave in a state of rapture, while Wallingford, the Daw's star boarder, goes forth to sell the bill posting rights to the North Pole.

CHAPLAIN SUES ESSANAY

NEW YORK, April 27.—Charles Chaplin, the millionaire movie actor, has gone to law to protect his highly valuable reputation as a comedian. He has started the first suit ever filed because a picture is not funny enough. Chaplin has brought suit against the Essanay Film Manufacturing Company, his former employers, and the Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay, Inc., for permanent injunction against the distribution of the motion picture known as "Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen." The action is in the Supreme Court of New York. The actor charges that the picture as originally made by him was in two reels of one thousand feet each and that it is being released in four "padded" reels of such quality as to seriously injure his fame. "I did not think the picture was any 'world beater' when I made it in two reels," said Chaplin in a statement given out at the Los Angeles studio, where he is now at work. "But now that it is stretched into four it cannot possibly do justice to me or stand as my product. It is decidedly unfair to me to release the picture in this form, besides it is a violation of the terms of my agreement with Essanay, as has been set up by my lawyers in New York."

Truthful Eulogy

The eulogy given below on the late J. M. Upton, who died at Roseburg, where he had been registrar of the U. S. Land office, and was buried in Marshfield, was written by M. J. Shoemaker, editor of the Roseburg News. Nothing truer or more intimately understanding was ever written of a man who had recently passed away, and as one who had known Mr. Upton in the years when both were young, and had been on terms of warm friendship with him ever since, the editor of the Herald would like to personally thank Mr. Shoemaker for his words.

The passing away of Judge Upton, almost over night, came as a distinct shock to the many friends he had made during his all too brief stay among us here. A man of superior attainments, expanded and broadened by reading and research, his versatile mind delved into the most abstruse subjects, and he was a veritable mine of information on his arts and creeds and dogmas. He was a lover of nature, of its sturdy forests and sloping hills, its spreading fields, and winding streams, and to him, the flowers and buds and ripening grain were emblems of an immortality continuous and unceasing through all the ages of time.

At times a dreamer with his head above the clouds, he viewed the actions of his fellow men from the heights, and passed judgment on their frailties with tender mercy. Hating all forms of hypocrisy and deceit and subterfuge, he was a soul of honor, and regarded truth as the foundation of all morals. A gentleman ever, in all his dealings with the world and man, he leaves behind him a pang of regret in all with whom he came in contact, while to those of us whose privilege it was to be numbered among his intimate friends, the personal loss is keenly felt. This gentleman had such a store of virtues, such a love for humanity and hatred of wrong, that these will cover and hide the frailties from which none of us are immune, and the memory of his kindly deeds will ever remain fresh with those who loved him. Peace to his ashes.

COUNTY ROAD. Thus relieved, the counties can, without increase of present appropriations, build more miles than now of other or secondary county roads, thereby still further reaching out into the more remote farming districts. Such a system of county roads will likewise be the heavy traffic roads within their respective towns. This will relieve the towns of their construction and maintenance.

TOWNSHIP OR TOWN ROADS. And therefore, finally, thus relieved, the townships or towns can, without increase of present appropriations, build more miles than now of their lighter traffic roads and thereby reach those farming districts lying farthest from our market towns and railroads.

By this four-fold system of roads there will be an impetus, as yet unthought of, given to road building throughout the Nation. Authority and responsibility will be logically and economically divided and fixed without conflict arising. Uniformity and efficiency will be established. Standards of construction and maintenance will be raised. The entire Nation will be given "Good Roads Everywhere" by a well-balanced, connected system of National, State, County, and Town Highways reaching out to the most remote parts thereof. They will be built in the shortest possible time and with the utmost economy. The money will get into the roads, where it belongs, and the cost will be equitably distributed upon those communities best able to bear the burden. In other

Judging Exhibits.

A judge of recognized standing will make awards at the show and in so doing will judge exhibits by what he considers to be a recognized standard for any variety of corn raised in that particular district. Average size, productivity, breed type and general appearance will be the governing factors. Exhibits will be returned in every case where contestants request that this be done at the time of making the entry.

Bankers Have Entry Blanks.

"Corn and Cattle Contribute Capital for Bigger Bank Balances" is the slogan that has been adopted by the First National Bank and the Northwestern Trust Company of St. Paul and Bankers of the Northwest, in the promotion of their Corn Shows. Increased interest in corn production means the ultimate raising and maintenance of more livestock and diversification in farming methods, to the financial advantage and prosperity of the entire Northwest.

Pamphlets giving full details regarding the second annual "First National" Corn Show and form of entry blank, may be secured on application from bankers in the corn contest territory.
