Hogwallow News

DUNK BOTTS, Regular Correspondent (George Bingham) All Rights Reserved

Dock Hocks, during his leisure moments yesterday was wondering what Daniel Boone did for chewing tobacco.

Bat Smith, congenial and accommodating proprietor of the Moonshine still on Musket Ridge, has announced to his many customers and friends that hereafter he will keep the front door of his place locked on Sunday, to comply with the request of the Deputy Constable. For the convenience of his patrons, however, he will turn the rear end of the building around facing the front on Sunday.

The spring term of school at the Wild Onion school house will begin within a short time, or just as soon as the winter term can be completed. The pupils are all learning so fast that many of them have had to quit for awhile.

The Mail Carrier has a full developed case of smallpox, and upon his arrival in Hogwallow yesterday a good sized crowd gathered at the postoffice to extend him their sympathy. Aside from that of the Wild Onion school teacher, this is the first case of this disease seen around here and the Mail Carrier is rapidly springing into prominence.

Slim Pickens has entered society and since doing so has put insect powder on his mule and greases his buggy with vaseline.

Things are expected to get active around here as soon as the snakes and fleas begin to arrive again.

A rabbit was treed under the postoffice Tuesday morning and a good portion of the stock and fixtures had to be removed before the building could be raised high enough for Dock Hocks to crawl under.

The Hog Ford church has a new member in the person of Pit Smith. Another seat will not be added, however, until it is seen that he is going to stick.

Prof. Sap Spradlen will deliver an address on the South Pole at the Wild Onion school house next Saturday night. He will give a full description of it, using the blackboard to illustrate just how tall it is and how it looks.

When spring gets under full headway and Poke Eazley can move his chair out on the front porch at the postoffice the postmaster announces that he will have much more room inside.

Raz Barlow thinks that our Deputy Constable should wear his star on the back of his coat, as most of the meanness is done behind his back.

The Old Miser on Musket Ridge stuck his head out of the house for a few minutes yesterday, but slammed the door when he saw Ellick Hellwanger coming.

The Mail Carrier was several hours late yesterday in arriving, he having stopped along the way many times to discuss the almost impassable condition of the roads.

With politics unsettled as they now stand, the Hogwallow Postmaster has not yet decided what course to pursue to get a reappointment, except to treat the public as nice as possible during the crisis. However, he will stick to President Wilson if he sees there is any hope for him since he is married.

The Calf Ribs Widow says having Sunday night company is one of the greatest pleasures that befall the fair sex, but that the right men are so curious a girl can never tell what time they will gradually get to going with some other girl.

Saturday morning the Old Miser gave the Blind Man a hickory nut with a worm hole in it.

Fit Smith who almost quit going to the Dog Hill church because the minister slighted him by never asking him to do anything at a meeting, was present Sunday and was allowed to take up collection and put some wood in the stove.

Isaac Hellwanger's house on Musket Ridge caught fire one night this week and was burned almost to the ground. In the excitement Isaac's whiskers caught on fire but they were saved from destruction by his accidentally stepping into a cistern.

The Excelsior Fiddling Band started out on a musical expedition Tuesday night, but strayed off after a possum on Gimlet creek.

The Hog Ford preacher borrowed Sid Hocks' mule one day this week and drove to Bounding Billows. It is a hard job to drive him fast on account of the average slow rate of speed he makes, and before the preacher got home both he and the buggy had broken down.

A man was in our midst this week for a few hours, headed west. He was well dressed, and he also carried a suit case. Dock Hocks thinks he must be rich.

Slim Pickens has gone over to Bounding Billows to ride in with the Mail Carrier, who has a large lot of mail and whose buggy is rather weak.

Raz Barlow was in Tickville this week and reports that he tipped his hat to a girl. He says it is not near as big a job as a person would imagine, though it makes you feel awkward the first few times you try it in public.

The Hogwallow Improvement Association announces, after a business meeting Tuesday night, that it is very well pleased with the new hat worn by Miss Cordelia Hellwanger.

Miss Gondola Henstep was compelled with little resistance to sing a song at the Dog Hill church Sunday night. The audience as well as the stovepipe stood the ordeal well.

The Excelsior Fiddling Band played "Aell Amongst the Yearlings" at a sociable on Gander creek Saturday night.

Since there is an old tradition in some parts of the country that all jaybirds go to Hades on Friday of each week, Sile Kidew will turn his pet jaybird loose next Friday and follow him, at least part of the way.

FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Events of Interest Reported For The Herald.

(By J. E. Jones.)

APATHETIC WASHINGTON
There have been big things doing in Washington, but the city has not been very vitally concerned. The candidates of the two principal parties for the Presidency, living within a half a dozen blocks from one another, have been sought out by newspaper people and a few politicians, but the residents of the Capital have gone calmly about their business, leaving President Wilson and Mr. Hughes quite undisturbed. Then there has been the so-called "preparedness parade," in which big and little men have marched in order to give visible approval to the "recently discovered" Americanism. The importance of the parade rested principally upon the fact that it was spectacular. However, the new political situation draws clearly defined lines between the Republican and the Democratic parties. Since the election of 1912 the Republicans have been like a ship without a rudder. There is not a noticeable difference in their demeanor and attitude toward life since they have discovered a living political Moses, who will at least try to lead them out of the bulrushes. On the other hand the Democrats, who had become somewhat apathetic in the last year or two, have very visibly "spunked up" and they are again preparing to fight in the same old way that gave them victory four years ago. Washington is so thoroughly non-partisan that it may be said to have fewer prejudices than any other city. This is perhaps due to the fact that the great, and those suspected to be great, including the President, former Presidents and candidates for the Presidency, look pretty much like other human beings in the eyes of the discerning Washingtonians. However, the Capital recognizes that the national political contest is again on, and its political warriors are being mustered to go forth to fight the battle for the chieftains.

How She Felt.
"You are surely afraid of ghosts?"
"Well, no, not afraid. I just don't like their appearance."—Exchange.

Not Lasting.
"What an impression the amateur actress made on the hero when she laid her golden head upon his shoulder, with her face hidden in his embrace?"
"Yes, but it's the kind of powder which will easily brush off."—Baltimore American.

"My husband is such a blockhead!"
"How now?"
"Couldn't locate a lady I wanted to find, although I told him plainly that her gown had sleeves of almon and velvet revers."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Suits Some; Death to Others. "Iron may be good for the blood of some," remarked the worm as the angler threaded the hook through him gently, "but I fear it will be the death of me."
And yet the fish that swallowed the iron a little later was quite carried away with it.

Some Do It For Nothing. "What did you say your business was?"
"I am a critic."
"You criticize people?"
"You might say so, yes."
"And do you mean to tell me you get paid for that?" — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Unanimous. Cricket—How is your new book? Author—Why, I think it is punk, but my publisher thinks it is better than my last one. Cricket—Cheer up; maybe you are both right.—Judge.

Do not talk about disgrace from a thing being known when the disgrace is that the thing should exist.—Falconer.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Coos County

Agne W. Johnson, Plaintiff, vs. Alverda Johnson, Defendant.

Suit in equity for a divorce.

To Alverda Johnson, the above named defendant:

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You are hereby notified that you are required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit, within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, to-wit: on or before the 18th day of July 1916, the last day of the publication of this summons, and if you fail to appear and answer on or before said date, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint, a succinct statement of which is as follows, to-wit: for a decree of the court dissolving the marriage contract existing between the plaintiff and the defendant.

Service of this summons is made by publication in pursuance of an order by the Hon. James Watson, Judge of the county court of the state of Oregon, made the 22nd day of May 1916, directing the publication thereof in the Coquille Herald, for a period of six weeks, consecutively.

Commencing on the 23rd day of May 1916, and the last, publication on the 18th day of July 1916.

Use YOUR Phone

When we place the word "your" in big capital letters it is for emphasis. It means not to borrow your neighbor's telephone.

When you use another's telephone, you must not think that you are not causing inconvenience merely because the subscriber says he does not care.

While you hold the wire, there may be several calls for the line and "busy" reports have to be made.

With good telephone service available for everyone at low rates, there is no excuse for anybody to habitually borrow a telephone.
