More Boat Wars

"Now, gentlemen, I do not call this wholly an accident, but pure cussedness on the part of Allan Panter, master of the steamer Telegraph," wrote Captain Thomms D. White, of the steamer Dispatch, in an official report to United States Steamboat Inspectors Edwards and Wynn, relative to a collision between the vessels at 3:40 o'clock Monday at Prosper, on the south bank of the Coquille river. The inspectors will hold an investigation at Bandon February 9.

Captain Panter also filed a report, and both agree that the steamers were at Prosper; that the Telegraph was backing from the wharf and, when the Dispatch left her berth, both came together, the Dispatch suffering loss of 20 feet of her house on the after port quarter, wherein is located her engine-room.—Times.

East Fork Items

(Herald's Special C. C. News Service)
Tom Kreuzon was in Coquille Thursday buying dishes, rocking chairs, bureau, bed, table and other things. Am not sure what it all means, unless it is that he is thinking of having his pancakes cooked over a stove instead of a campfire. Fred Baker took him in and helped put him wise to things. They also went to Myrtle Point.

Quite a large delegation from Brewster valley attended the party Saturday night at Mrs. Wilcox's on Middle creek.

A big petition went in to the county roadmaster, asking for Fred Baker's reappointment as road foreman.
