For the past two or three months W. S. Uren has been working on a machine intended to be used in shearing sheep, and has at last succeeded in making one that stands the test of practical operation and removes the wool from the sheep as well as an experienced shearer will by hand. Mr. I ren recently had one of his machines grade in Portland, and last Sunday made a practical test of it which was quite satisfactory. Hand power was applied and the sheep was shorn in 3 minutes quite as well as could have been done by hand. The machine is a simple pair of shears, attached to a gearing, the power carried from the driver to the shears through a flexible coil similar to that attached to a deutist's engine. It is

Politely and pleasantly, in the first place. He comes to you on a necessary and constitutional errand, and he is, in a humble way, a representative of the glorious government we all love and uphold.

Don't attempt to rebuke him or argue with him. He is simply carrying out his instructions, which are definite and mandatory, as far as he is concerned. He has no power to change the schedule of questions committed to him by his superintendent.

Remember that it is not the enumer ator's fault that Robert P. Porter and Dr. Wright entertain ideas in which you cannot coincide concerning the value to statistical science of your intimate secrets of health and pocketbook. They are monstrously mistaken, and you are right in the location of the constitutional limit of federal inquisition; but the enumerator has had no voice in the matter. He is not to blame. Probably he would rather COME AND SEE be excused than not from pressing your wife with questions as to her physical condition, or from asking you whether the house you live in is mortgaged.
