The census gives Siskiyou county 12,146, Del Norte 5,209 and Modoc 4,919.

It appears that a Southern boycotter is without honor, particularly in his own country.

Mayor E. B. Pond was nominated by the California democrats on 4th ballot for governor.

Some of the old settlers are predicting another hard winter on account of the bountiful yield of acorns, hazelnuts etc. —[Lafeyette Leader.

The population of the United States has been computed at 64,000,000 in round numbers, an increase of about 30 per cent during the last decade.

Iowa has lost over 200,000 population the last ten years. Mr. J. D. Fountain's theory of Oregon's 7000 republican majority is verified by the census.

The Oregon editors had a royal good time at their Portland meeting, and will meet at Astoria next year. L. Samuel has been elected President and E. C. Pentland re-elected secretary.

Roger Q. Mills, in a speech at Maryville, Missouri, the other day, called attention to the fact that the grain crop of 1889 sold for $100,000,000 less than the grain crop of 1859.

Blaine is evidently the largest man in his party yet—or can be if he takes a notion. Beside this big toad McKinley, Reed, and even Harrison himself, present the appearance of tadpoles.

The New York Times complains that there is a great deal of paper among California peaches. It says that each peach is wrapped in paper and so stowed that less than two-thirds of a peck fills the box.

The Grants Pass News, after a brief, brilliant career, has gone hence. It was bright and newsy and edited by newspaper men, advertising solicitors, real estate dealers, doctors, horse-men, lawyers and poets.

Other states as well as Oregon are disappointed at the results of the census. The two Dakotas will have only a little over 500,000, and Montana only 128,000, instead of at least 175,000 as was evpected. Colorado will show about 400,000, and Washington nearly 350,000. Illinois will take Ohio's third place among the states in population.

Profs. J. S. Diller and J. Stanley Brown, connected with the U. S. geological survey are making a thorough investigation in Lassen and adjoining counties and report having observed in the vicinity of Cinder Cone, evidences of volcanic action more recent than in any other portion of the United States. Their report, when made, will be of great interest.

The population claims made by the advocates of Idaho and Wyoming, when they were candidates for admission into the Union, scarcely hold out with the census figures. Superintendent Porter says the rough count in Idaho gives that state 80,000 people and Wyoming 60,000. Had these figures been known during the debate on the admission of these states some votes might have been withheld from them by Eastern republicans. It was claimed by them that they had a population of 125,000 each. It is more than likely that in such mountainous countries many people have not been counted.

The young German who has gone to Berlin to be tried for saying: "I cough at the emperor," has the sympathy of all lovers of freedom and their earnest wishes for a safe deliverance. The punishment, if he is found guilty, is said to be six months' imprisonment. One trembles to think what the punishment would be if some one should actually cough at the emperor instead of merely saying so. Nothing short of boiling oil or melting lead would seem to be quite adequate to the emergency. Such things tend to raise a doubt in the human mind as to the soundness of the old adage that "a cat may look at a king."

There is a big laugh going up at the expense of the 600 delegates to the California republican state convention, who very gravely and deliberately nominated two congressmen at large, selecting the chairman of their convention, Campbell, and the defeated candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, Congressman Morrow. Morrow is in Washington, where he is "bored" considerably by Speaker Reed and all the statesmen, who are laughing at him for running for an office which does not and cannot exist. Morrow has telegraphed home asking these grave dunces what they meant, and thinks it a personal affront and insult by conspiring enemies. The delegates are hiding in the woods until the excitement blows over.

The Siskiyou county democrats have made the following nominations: Superior judge, Edwin Shearer, Yreka; county clerk, J. M. Hicks, Scott Bar; sheriff, N. C. Maben, Yreka; district attorney, Jas. F. Lodge, Sisson; assessor, P. H. Luttrell, Fort Jones; treasurer, B. F. Smith, Yreka; supt. of schools John Kennedy, Edgewood; county surveyor, Harvey Sarter, Little Shasta; coroner, George Fried, Yreka. Supervisors, 3d dist, Louis Nehrbass, Yreka; 5th, J. McBride, Etna.

Delegates to the state convention are H. B. Gillis, G. W. Cooper and Dr. D. Ream, Yreka; J. A. Fairchilds, Lake; Jno. Daggett, Black Bear; H. S. Mathews, Fort Jones and F. M. Warmcastle, Squaw valley. Among the county committeemen selected are David Horn, Hornbrook and John A. Fairchild, Butte creek. The democrats have over 100 majority on a square presentation of political issues and their ticket has the best prospects of being successful.

Settle Up

All those having unsettled accounts with the undersigned, will please call immediately and settle the same, either by cash or note.

Personal Mention.

Geo. W. Kearns is up from Wolf creek today

Mr and Mrs N A Jacobs are in the city to-day

Mort Abbey returned to Yaquina Bay last evening.

Miss Genevieve Moore is the guest of Mrs. G. F. McConnell.

J. P. Ewling, the plasterer, is down from Portland visiting his family.

Miss Helen Strang returned to Medford yesterday from her Walla Walla trip.

Mrs. W. C. Crawford returned to Klamath county today from her visit to Portland.

Henry L. Willey a San Jose merchant was in Ashland several days last week with his wife, visiting friends.

Miss Lena Kearney daughter of the popular S. P. passenger conductor and Miss K. Clark of Glendale were in the city yesterday.

Ex-county treasurer Horace Farwell of Linn county, a brother of Mrs. H. Farlow, is visiting Ashland and with E M Miller and H. Farlow went over to Colestein today.

Mr. Davis and wife (daughter of Col. Scoble) who have been visiting here, left yesterday for Paris by the Canadian Pacific route Mr. Scoble and wife go with them as far as Victoria.

Bishop John P. Newman was on last evening's train with his wife for Grants Pass, having just returned from Japan. He presides at the M. E. conference for Oregon which convenes there to-day.

Corlies Merritt arrived yesterday from Portland on a visit to his old time friends in this city. Corlies has been engaged editing a Portland paper of extensively large circulation throughout the interior—the Portland Newspaper Union.

Prof. H. C. Faber has received word that he has been elected principal of the Tulare, Cal., high school at a salary of $150 per month, and left to-day to take charge. Prof. Faber is thoroughly competent and will give splendid satisfaction.

Prof. G. M. Miller, twice a prohibition candidate for congress and an indefatigueable worker for that cause in Oregon, was on Saturday's train for Stanislaus county, Cal., with his family, where he will accept a position as principal of a college.

Alfred Dalton, editor of the Benicia New Era, called on the RECORD Friday, in company with the former publisher, E. A. McDonell. Mr. Dalton made an ascent of Mt Shasta last week, and speaks highly of the scenic beauty of this country.

H. S. Lyman, secretary of the Oregon Pioneer Association, was in Ashland Friday and Saturday gathering reminiscences and data concerning the early history and settlement of this section, to be placed in the archives of the association for future reference. One of the principal parties he came to interview was Capt. Thos. Smith, who laid and started the first settlement up the valley from Ashland.

C. H. Humphrey of Klamath county, father of Mrs. Ernest Carter of Ashland, was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital at Portland Saturday. Mr. H. is paralyzed to such an extent that he can neither move about or talk, and it is feared will not live much longer. He returned to Ashland Tuesday, the hospital people refusing to admit him, claiming it a hopeless case.

Mrs. W. S. Chapman, Mrs. J. R. Grant, and two children—Nelly Grant and Chapman Grant—and a servant, Miss Mattie S. Beckwith registered at the Depot Hotel Monday, being on a trip towards Portland. Considerable curiosity was aroused as to whether this was the wife and mother-in-law of Jesse Grant, son of his father, or whether it was the spouse of the Grant of the firm of Murphy, Grant & Co.

H. B., E. V. and F. H. Carter, G. B. Landers, with their wives and children, Mrs. G. R. Mathews and son, G. W. Stoops, wife and daughter Miss Jessie, of Phoenix, Miss Hattie Schumacher and Gus Landers returned Saturday from the coast at Crescent City. It was too cold for surf bathing or anything else, the residents claiming that August is always the most disagreeable month and that September is the warmest and pleasantest. E V Carter and wife and Fred Carter continued their trip to Crater lake.

Klamath County Items.

The "south road" was opened in 1846 by the real pathfinders.

W. W. Smith is said to be at Fort Blakely, in Washington, and preparing to start for Chili.

Judge Smith threshed 900 bushels off 30 acres this week. He has 9000 more bushels to thresh. Fleur already on the market at $2.50.

The Shooks are taking in their grain harvest. Tony Castel is still there and A. C. Frick, who has been in town a few days, has returned to the Shook domain.

John Mullen's left hand was broken by the kick of a horse Tuesday. Mullen, who has just returned from Webfoot, says Klamath knocks the persimmons for crops this year.

Alex Steele, with his 850 acres of land, eight or nine miles of ditch and 1500 fine English poplars springing up in front of his residence is destined to be one of the great agricultural men of Oregon.

Somebody should be hired to hit the sidewalk nails right on the head a few times. These heads are up too high when they catch ladies' skirts in their teeth and tear them. Drive down those nails and then lift your hats to the ladies and oh, how much more pleasing will be the politeness! The dear ones will say of you: "His is the courtesy that hits the nail on the head. It is the truly considerate courtesy, and no house should be without it."—[Linkville Star.

Lake County Items.

J. F. Clarkson is reported quite sick at his ranch.

Surprise valley apples are selling at Lakeview for 2½ cents.

J. Q. Willets will soon organize a singing class at Ft. Bidwell.

Alva Bonebrake left for his home in Coos county this morning.

Judge Wilshire started to Burns Monday and will be gone until about the 28th.

Jim Blain sold his two-year-old colt, "Geo. P. Lovegrove," to Jim Ross, for $500.

Wm Carll's livery stable building will be the tallest building in town, barring church steeples.

W. J. Cleland, superintendent of the water works, now holds the position of town marshal besides.

The Lakeview water company has connected the flume from the mountains with the water pipes so that the water comes direct from mountain springs without standing in the pond at the dam.

The assessor's returns from Warner valley present startling figures concerning the loss of stock. In some cases the loss is as high as 90 per cent, while in no case does it fall below 50 in that valley. No other portion of the county has lost so heavily.

Thos. Turner, father of Geo. C. Turner of this county, was in town this week. He is an Englishman by birth, and took a leading part with Cobden, Bright and others in the corn laws agitation in 1842, which led to the commercial freedom of England under Robert Peel.—[Lakeview Examiner.

Cultivation of the Affections.

It is a common remark in extenuation of the inconvenience of not having very much money that people of ordinary fortune can eat as much as millionaires; and if we find that we can love as easily and as extensively on small incomes as on greater ones, we may safely consider that we have the better of the rich again. Perhaps we can; wealth offers so many diversions that sometimes the pleasure there is in loving is overlooked.

The impression certainly exists that great riches have a tendency to clog the affections; and great inequalities of fortune are a barrier between man and man, not insurmountable but appreciable. Love is personal, and very great possessions almost inevitably throw personal qualities into shadow. We love men for what they are, not what they represent.

We cultivate the muscles because it is fun to use them, and because it brings us the happiness that comes of health. For like reasons we make a business of the cultivation of our minds. How simple it is of us to neglect to the extent that most of us do the systematic cultivation of our hearts.—Scribner's.

Reckless Cycling.

There have been quite a number of serious accidents—some attended by fatal consequences—through people being ridden over by cyclists. In all of these cases the evidence goes to indicate excessive speed as the prime cause. There is a pace, especially when going down hill, which practically deprives the rider of all control over his machine. He can guide it, but that is all. As for pulling up quickly, as well might the engine driver of an express train attempt to do so. Nor even in the matter of guiding has the cyclist a free hand. Any large deviation from the straight line of his course would, if he were pelting along at the rate of eighteen or twenty miles an hour, inevitably cause an upset. He has nothing for it, therefore, but to trust to luck and the chapter of accidents, which he does with a sang froid that would be truly admirable were it not so largely tinctured with recklessness.

When he mounts to the brow of a steep hill and looks down at the decline stretching out before him he knows perfectly well that if he once allows his steel steed to "take charge" there can be no attempt to pull up until the bottom is reached. Equally aware is he that by timely application of the brake and by "back pedaling" the machine can be kept at a moderate pace, admitting of guidance and of stopping. But because it is a pleasant rush down hill at the speed of a racer without any exertion he takes his feet off the pedals, sets his teeth tight and, to use his own expression, "lets her slide." The result is that if any pedestrian chances to block his way—being perhaps too deaf to hear the warning bell—a fearful collision takes place, and one or the other is killed. Cyclists have yet to learn, apparently, that the responsibility of keeping clear of people on foot rests on the drivers of vehicles.—London Graphic.

In Sleep.

An old resident in Vermont tells the following story, belonging to his past experience as a country postmaster:

It happened one spring when the mud was almost up to the horses' knees that we had no mail for three days. The consequence was that the three days' batch, consisting of nine bags, came in late one night as I was about going to bed. I determined to delay distribution until morning, and fell asleep rather harassed at the thought of so large a task.

Next day I rose early and went into the office to open my mail bags. They were gone! The corner where I always left them was quite empty, and my heart began to beat loud and fast. The mail had been delivered to me, I was responsible for it, and it was not to be found.

Presently, as I stared about, the big drops of sweat gathering on my forehead, I noticed small packages of letters lying in the places where I was accustomed to leave them before sending them out into the several districts by the farmers who came to town. I looked further; the mail was all distributed. Then I turned to the spot where I always threw the empty bags after finishing my work. There they lay, collapsed and empty.

Now you know exactly as much about this story as I know myself. It seems very evident to me that I rose in my sleep, impressed by the unusual task before me, and finished it mechanically. I had never been a sleep walker before and I never did such a thing again.—Youth's Companion.
