Kubli's Rich Mine.

Jacksonville Or., Oct. 27.—A much richer prospect has been developed this week in the quartz ledge owned by Watson, Kubli & Knight, on Galls creek, 13 miles north of Jacksonville. The tunnel is now run in 110 feet, and is 145 feet below the surface of the mountain. The quartz taken this week from that depth, it is roughly estimated, will reach $2000 to the ton. Judging from the crude method of mortar prospect, this is, unquestionably, the richest strike ever made in the county. Hundreds of men are prospecting in this county, and fine prospects are being reported from all directions. A number of reputed capitalists are now in Jacksonville looking for investments in mining properties, and some sales have been made this week, but are not yet on record. The early rain promises a prosperous mining and farming season that indicates continued prosperity for this favored section.

Eklund-Abbott.

Gust Ekland, of the railroad forces at Dunsmuir, was married Sunday at noon at the home of the bride, the residence of John W. Abbott, on Wagner creek, to Miss Emma Abbott, a sweet and amiable young lady, Rev. E. E. Thompson tying the nuptial knot. After the wedding dinner the bridal party came to Ashland and on Monday left for their new home in Dunsmuir, with the best wishes of many friends.

The S. P. Wants a Coal Mine.

Mr. Reynolds, an expert sent out to find a coal mine for the S. P. R. R. Co., visited Douglas county and thorougly examined the country along the coast range. In French Settlement, on J. M. Wright's place, he found a fine quality of coal which he seems to think is worth looking after as he has bonded the place for a period of two months, during which time the property will be thoroughly prospected. They will bring up a boring machine and sink a shaft to ascertain the extent of the vein. The price Mr. Wright is to receive, if everything is satisfactory, is $10,000. It may mean a branch railroad and lot of work and business for this county.—[Roseburg Review.

Friday George, ex-superintendent of the Mt. Shasta division, but of late conducting a saw-mill east of Mott, in Squaw valley, left his mill recently, owing his hands hundreds of dollars and their families in almost destitute circumstances. It was believed he had left the country but after going to San Francisco and collecting up all the money he could get, he made an assignment, liabilities $51,000; assets $6000. The mill and lands belong to his father-in-law.

Fort Klamath Allotted.

Jesse Kirk, the Indian preacher, is one of the luckiest Indians on the reservation in the selection of his lands by allotment. He secured the site of old Fort Klamath, one of the most picturesque spots in Oregon, and under more favorable conditions it might become one of the most famous summer resorts on the coast. Within an hour's drive of his domain can be found the finest fishing on this slope, deer hunting and wild fowl shooting. Fort Klamath is a sportsman's paradise. The buildings, including the hospital, officers' quarters and barracks are not included in his allotment, as they have already been given to the tribe, and the lumber is being gradually carted away for the improvement of their ranches. The Secretary's order, allowing the allotment of the Fort Klamath site to the Indians, is a sore disappointment to the National Gnard officers of the state, who wanted it set aside for annual encampment grounds

Winnifred Lillian, the 4-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walter, died last Thursday at Portland and was buried in the Ashland cemetery Sunday afternoon, the funeral taking place from the residence of the grand parents, the J. H. Russell home, Rev. F. G. Strange conducting the religious services.

Ed. E. Keeley, editor of the Dramatic Star, of Seattle and manager of the Star theartre circuit on the sound, was stopping at Hotel Oregon several days last week, accompanied by his wife and little girl, Edna Keeley, who gave a matinee to a large audience in the opera house Saturday afternoon. She is a very clever dancer, a sweet little girl and the best child actress on the stage.

The famous comedian Ezra Kendall, comes to the opera house next Friday night and will present his laughing comedy, "A Pair of Kids." Mr. Kendall has a company of twelve first-class actors and actresses, and his play is acknowledged to be one of the funniest ever seen. He has played it for ten years in the East and is now making his first Western trip and is en route to California.

Oscar Loftus and wife came in from Ashland Sunday. Mrs. Loftus is considerably improved in health. They will return to Ashland in a week or so, and may return to Lake for the winter. Dr. E. Von Hasbecker came over from Ashland with Oscar Loftus. He is in poor health and thought a trip to Lake county would prove beneficial. He will probably be here several weeks.—[Lakeview Examiner.

Major D. G. Waldron, who brought out the famous Alleghanian Vocalists and Swiss Bell Ringers, and was their manager for sixteen years, presented the Swedish Ladies' Quartette at the opera house Saturday evening. They gave a very pleasant entertainment, being fine singers. Major Waldron is a very successful manager and any attraction that he presents for public favor, can be invariably relied on. It is reported that he has secured the bells of the old Swiss Bell Ringer troupe and will organize a company that leaves San Francisco this season.

County Sunday School Convention.

Medford, Or., 26—The Jackson county Sunday School convention has been in session in this city for the past two days, and has been largely attended, every Sunday school in the county being represented. The sessions yesterday and today were well attended and much interest was manifested in the work. At today's meeting, several papers were read, among them being "Our Relation to the State and Nation," by by the Rev. W. B. Moore, of Jacksonville, and "Next Sunday's Lesson," by J. R. Erford, of Medford. "Normal Work," was the subject presented by Mr. G. F. Billings, of Ashland, and was illustrated in a very clear manner. Among the prominent visitors were the Rev. S. S. Caldwell, Presbyterian Sunday school missonary, and F. T. Downing, of the American School Union, who spoke highly of the interest shown by the people of Jackson county in this work. The new officers elected are: President, Rev. F. G. Strange, of Ashland; vice president, Mrs. E. P. Childs, Mrs. A. A. Kellogg and Mrs. Chas. Foster; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Plymale; treasurer, Mrs. G. H. Haskins. Next meeting place, Central Point, Oct. 1 and 2, 1895. A vote of thanks was extended the citizens of Medford. The report of the secretary for the past year showed a total of 33 Sunday schools, with a membership of 2200 in Jackson county.

From Eagle Point to Lakeview,

Thinking some of our kind friends would like to know about our trip, I thought your valuable paper a good medium of distribution, I therefore send you the following:

On Monday, Oct. 7th, about 10:45 a. m., we climed into our hack and bid good-bye to the friends gathered at our gate and drove away. We took dinner with Brother L. E. Land, whose wife had prepared exceedingly fine, repast to which we did justice. After about 2 p. m. we proceeded on our journey bringing up at Rev. Ira Wakefield's a little after 5 p. m. who told us to alight, unhitch and unharness our mules and be entertained for the night. Tuesday morning at 8:05 we were again seated and holding the strings of our mules facing toward Ashland, where we attended to some business and pushed on to Mr. Homes, where we were nicely entertained and given some fine apples which quenched our thirst many times while on the road in the dust, and few of which we have left. A little after 2 p. m. we started after buying a bushel of oats of Mr. Foster passing Mr. Shepherd's, with whom we had an acquaintance and after a few minutes chat we jogged on to Mr. Tylers, at the foot of the mountain, where they were butchering, not a chicken but a beef, leaving somewhat weary we proceeded to ask permition to camp for the night, and being answered in the affirmative we alit and got supper and went to bed. Morning bright and clear, we started our climb, getting dinner at Naylor's we brought up at Parkers for the night, at which place we fared very nicely. Cold and frost, this a. m. we continued our journey, taking dinner at Spencer Creek. Plodding along we reached almost Klamath Falls stopping with Mrs. Lewis over night and in the morning one of the forgetable things met us—our bill. But we had the lucre and shelled out and proceeded to town, when, in the good hands of Mr. Fountain, we found our old, respected friend Prof. Parrot, who is an artist and spoke words of encouragement and cheered us on our way. We had scarcely got out of town when we looked ahead and saw a team headed toward us. Of course no one we knew. A girl in black hat, clothes and wore glasses; a young man in the seat with her, Hush! See if they know us. How are you, Gladius, and Charley? When the spry old lady in behind jumped out, grasping our hands warmly proved to be Mrs. Thomas. A kind word and we pass on to Baxter Grigsby's where we partook of an elegant dinner and had one of those indomitable fellows, an insurance agent, in the person of Mr. Presler to liven us up and help plough some of the dust out of our throats. Pressing on we came to Dairy where we met Mr. Donnell, whose magpie laughed and talked for us. Night finds us at Mrs. Nye Drews. All is bustle and stir, school exhibition. Oh! and we are introduced to Miss Waters and Mr. Breese. Going to the place of exhibit we were tucked in behind, and lo! the violin in a blanket to keep it warm is placed in our hands for safe keeping and after the exhibition is over, we find we have actually carried the violin for a dance. Poor dog Tray. The morning finds us away for Bly and first we meet about 500 beef cattle for Gazelle, and then came three little "injuns" arriving at "Dick Brown's" (Indian) for dinner and at night fetched up at Mr. Wells', where we were royally entertained. A slight innovation occurred here. Mr. Wells thought we had better put our hack in yard by it self, as his Jack mules had an aversion to preachers' things and he, Mr. W., did not care to replace them for fun. Sunday morning we start for our last drive passing through the "Devils Garden," a fitting place to pass on Sunday. We broke a buggy spring there, but reached our destination in safety taking lunch at Mr. Howard's. RICHARD FYSH.
Lakeview, Ore

It appears that the ousting of Mrs. County Superintendent May, in Tillamook county, was accomplished by an action in the state circuit court, which eventuated in a decision that she could not hold the office under the constitutional provision that officials must be electors. Since that the county court declared the office vacant, and has appointed Lester Smith to the vacancy. The decision is said to have been rendered by Judge Burnett. There seems to be no disposition to contest the matter farther. The Union county case, however, Contestant Carter informs the Joseph Aurora, will be carried up to the supreme court.

Taubeneck's Expectations.

Chairman Taubeneck, of the Populist Congressional Campaign Committee, expects the populists to cut a great figure in the approaching elections. He said to a newspaper correspondent recently that they have 300 candidates for Congress in the field, which, he said, was a greater number than either of the old parties had yet nominated. They have state tickets in every State where State elections are to be held, except in Rhode Island and South Carolina, the Tillman movement in the democratic party in the latter State making the nomination of a populist ticket there unnecessary.

SHE PUZZLES THE DOCTORS.

A Remarkable Series of Transitions of Conditions In a Missouri Girl.

A strange case that is attracting the attention of and puzzling the local doctors of Kansas City is that of Lillian Miller, a girl of 11 years, who has undergone a most remarkable change within the past year. About a year ago Lillian was a slight girl, of extreme nervous disposition. She had a fainting fit at that time which the attending physician attributed to nervousness. From that time on the fainting spells grew frequent until finally they took the form of convulsions, and with this change came one that was wonderful to a degree.

The child, when out of the convulsions, complained of much pain and acted as a child of her age would naturally. During the convulsions and immediately after she appeared to become another person. She took on the appearance of a very old woman in speech and manner. She would converse as an old woman and give advice to those around her. She claimed to be 99 years old and did not know those of the family who were with her. This peculiar condition lasts for an hour or so, and then she returns to her normal condition. These changes have become frequent until now she about equally divides her time between the two conditions.

Another strange feature of the case is the fact that while she is in her normal condition she eats very little and apparently has no appetite. When she takes on the secondary condition, she eats heartily, and during the last three months has grown to the stature and development of a woman. While she is in the condition of an old woman she says she is without pain and is perfectly well. She says she knows of no one who is named Lillian Miller, but insists that she is very old. She uses language and recites poetry far beyond the ability of a little girl.

Drs. C. D. and Park McDonald, her attending physicians, are well known, and they have had in consultation with them Dr. J. Brummel Jones, who makes a study of nervous and mental diseases. The parents are anxious that the scientific world may investigate the case.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The American Beauty owes her prestige more to a clear complexion than to any other attribute. A cup of Parks' Tea will enable anyone to possess this. It clears the skin and removes pimples and that sallow, muddy look. Parks' Tea is used by thousands of ladies for the complexion. Without being a cathartic it cures constipation. Sold by E. A. Sherwin.

Don Dickinson's Exclusive Privilege.

About the only man who goes on the floor of the house who has no right there is Don Dickinson. The man from Michigan has never been in congress and has no right to mingle with members on the floor during the session. But the doorkeepers pay no attention when he walks in, and it may be that they regard him as a personal representative of Mr. Cleveland. No one on the floor makes a formal objection to his presence, so he stays. If any congressman should object, the doorkeepers would have to do their duty and refuse him admittance.—Boston Advertiser.

Iron In Pharmacy.

The pharmacopoeia has long recommended iron wire as material for iron preparations. Musical wire, being steel, and therefore pure, is also often applied and yields sufficiently pure preparations. More lately there have been recommended for the purpose soft steel drillings (as being cheaper, purer and not so difficult to dissolve as wire), which, by the various processes of forging, hammering, rolling and final drawing, become denser and harder.

The more impure an iron the quicker it will dissolve, but the same piece of iron or steel will more rapidly dissolve the less it has undergone the mechanical treatments in question. Thus, if the immense amount of mechanical labor be considered to which an iron or steel bar is subjected in reducing its diameter to that wire, it is argued that soft steel drillings, shavings and turnings deserve preference. In a word, the turnings and drillings of axles and steel boiler plate, which can be obtained at any steel works or machine shop, are ranked among the purest brands of iron, in the chemical sense of the word.

According to experts, it may be considered a practical rule that any brand of steel capable of making good axle or boiler plate will also yield pure preparations on dissolving.—Medical Journal.

Specimen Cases.
S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his Stomach was disordered, his Liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.
Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg; doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by Ashland Drug Co.

When a man wants to sell a piece of property to the government, it is worth $100,000. But when the government wants to sell it back to him again it is not worth more than $30,000.

One sad effect of the war in the east would be that for a long time we could not get any more Japanese bamboo furniture or China silks.

Mr. Moore, the postmaster at Bradshaw, Va., after reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, concluded to try a bottle of it. He says: "I used it in two cases of colic and three for diarrhoea with perfect satisfaction. I have handled and used a great deal of patent medicine but never tried any that gave as good results as this." For sale by Ashland Drug Company.

In ancient rolled books the title was written in red on a piece of vellum and pasted on the outside of the volume.

The process of bookmaking has from time immemorial been so cheap in China that a book of 25 or 30 pages is rarely sold for more than a cent.

Several books of the second and third centuries have leaden leaves. One such, in the British museum, has six leaden leaves, with hinges and a clasp.

Many early books had no title pages, but in the center of the first page appeared a short paragraph setting forth the character and contents of the work.
