A Republican Election. The general elections proved a republican landslide, giving them a majority of 99 in congress. The senate will stand 40 democrats, 41 republicans and 6 populists. Such states as Iowa, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, have turned up phenomenal old time republican majorities, while doubtful states have gone republican.

Among prominent democrats defeated are Wilson, West Virginia; Enloe, Tennessee; Springer, Illinois; Tom Johnson, New York state with 150 republican, though Hill had his ticket. Tammany was snored under in New York City, the opposition candidate for mayor receiving 52,000 plurality.

In California the republicans will probably carry the election, with a ticket with the exception of governor and one supreme judge. Bull and Teagle. Congressman Martine is the only democratic congressman elected. The republicans will have 10 majority on joint ballot in legislature. Relative vote on governor was for an anti 71,848; and Webster, (Pop) 33,098. Suro, popular for mayor of San Francisco, received 15,000 plurality. Jackson county elected all republican county ticket except treasurer, Robt. DeWitt defeating F. E. Wadsworth.

The populists swept Shasta and Tehama counties.

The republicans have knocked out the populists in Kansas and Colorado, and the populists elect the governor in Nebraska. In Minnesota the populists gave the republicans a close race. The populist vote generally has increased in two years, though they did not carry as many offices. Tillman pulled South Carolina through which secured the election of his son to the Washington, Idaho and Montana have gone republican, but Nevada is carried by the Silver party, who re-lects Jones senator.
