Fruit Market and Prices.

The first early peaches sent to Portland brought $1.75 cents and 60 cents per box. Last week closed with a slumped market and went down low. But the market is improving and this week it is averaging 40 cents per box; the lowest being 30 cents. Some going 55 and 60 cents. This is for Ashland peaches which bring top prices. The express rate to Portland is 11 cents, boxing and packing costs 8 cents. Basing it on 10 per cent commission for sale at 40 cents per box it would make 23 cents per box to clear all costs. This leaves the grower one cent a pound for his fruit. Growers have received something from every shipment made. The Alexander peach looks very beautiful, but is not a good variety, hence the situation is up to expectations and augurs well for the later and better varieties.

The government fruit crop report for June shows a continuation of the poor fruit crop reports for eastern states. The report says: General average condition of peaches 67, as against 67 in June, 1906. In general, the present prospects appear to be poorer than for any year since 1890, excepting only 1894. The outlook is best in Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland and California, in the last named the condition being the highest since 1891.

Spencer K. Sewell, Pacific coast superintendent of the Earl Fruit Co., was in Ashland Monday and Tuesday looking over the situation in the fruit and peaches business. He was on his way to Portland, where J. W. Selover is their northwestern agent, and will be here again.

S. A. Hering of Portland and Robt. Graham of San Francisco, representing the Armour Refrigerator line, were here the first of the week and arranged with W. J. Schmidt, the contractor, for the immediate erection of an ice house near the fruit packing warehouse at the depot. The building will cost about $750 and will be of 150-ton capacity. Truck ice will be used. The Armour line expect to do considerable business out of southern Oregon, and this ice house will give their care prompt relief. Mr. Hering will be here quite often during the season.

The following is the prices paid in the eastern markets for California peaches on July 7th. The variety was Hale's early and the prices range considerably over last year at this time. The boxes contain 20 lbs. of peaches. New York, $1.51 per box; Chicago, $1.37; Boston, $1.33 and $1.63.

James M. Kyle, head of the Oregon Fruit and Produce Co., the retail commission house of Salem, was on Saturday's train returning home from a tour in the California districts brushing up on the latest points in picking, packing and clearing fruit.

Col. C. J. Eddy, of Portland, the clever general agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, was here Friday interviewing the fruit growers. His road is exceptionally well equipped to handle the fruit shipments. There are two fruit auction houses in Chicago and are operated on alternate days. The Milwaukee depot is one and on the alternate day the fruit cars are sent to the Northwestern. This arrangement, in connection with their special Fast Time Schedules Fruit Trains, makes the Milwaukee the best road to ship over, insuring against any loss of time or delays. They take from both St. Paul and Omaha.

Shippers should send to Mr. Eddy for postal cards containing statement of commission, which will cause the car to be looked for and taken care of by telegraphic orders from Portland.

The Golden Standard Mine Bonded. Capt. J. T. C. Nash has bonded the Golden Standard quartz mine owned by the Kuhl's and Judge Watson near Gold Hill. The price is $125,000. Nash went to San Francisco to see Mr. Eddy for postal cards containing statement of commission, which will cause the car to be looked for and taken care of by telegraphic orders from Portland.

Jack Conant, who has made two big mines in northern California, the last one bringing him $150,000, moved to Ashland this week from Astoria county, to remain some time in his study with him. He will give this country another thorough prospecting.

A $3000 pocket was found on Ash creek. Klamath river, by Harry Nichols and his partner.

F. G. McWilliams of Houston, Tex., who has had Garrett & Pennington drive 100 feet of tunnel in the Hockersmith ledge, is here on a business trip to remain some time to investigate the mining business.

Miss Mamie Isaacs of Medford visited Miss Estie Patterson and Ashland friends this week. Her party included Miss Estie Patterson and Ashland friends this week. Her party included Miss Estie Patterson and Ashland friends this week.

The newly organized Ashland lady quartet—Misses Esther and Mary Shady, Marie Koper and Mrs. Carrie Dixon—have appeared before the Chautauqua and were warmly applauded. A new light in the local musical world is being kindled by the piano solo that took the audience the first round. The lady had to respond to an encore. She is a fine player.

TRY WEARIED BRYAN.

Seeinging Pe through Bryan for 1900. The N. Y. Herald Tribune. Made Lane by People West Dull Axes to Grand.

Bryan arrived from California Friday. Assemblyman Shanahan of Santa and W. H. Alford, chairman of the democratic state central committee, accompanied him here. He was greeted by big crowds along the line as well as in Ashland.

M. F. Eggleston, K. K. Kuhl, Chas. Nickell, A. N. Solles, D. H. Miller, T. J. Howell, G. W. Trefren, W. F. Horn, J. W. Hester, J. O. Bood and Wm. Galoway of Oregon City met him at Coe-stin. He was greeted by applause at the depot and bowed and smiled. He was taken to his room at Hotel Oregon. In the evening a reception took place at Hotel Oregon where a couple of thousand people shook hands with him. About 9 o'clock he retired to Robt. Leonard's room at the McCall residence where he slept.

The next day he received many callers at his room, took a ride, lunched, and at 2 o'clock commenced his speech in Chautauqua grove. The audience was about 3500. President Billings introduced him. Rev. G. N. Ames presided during which time Bryan bowed his head and covered his face with his hand. Prof. Hitchcock made some announcements. The Medford lady quartet—Mrs. W. I. Vawter, Miss Grace Foster, Miss Mabel Jones and Miss Adell Pickett—sang an original song prepared by Miss Eiva Galoway. It was well received and the quartet responded to an encore by singing original songs. About 5 o'clock he retired to Robt. Leonard's room at the McCall residence where he slept.

His heart is in the Highlands. He's come to the city. He's with us today. This man from Nebraska Who's still in the fray. He still fights for silver With voice and with pen; His heart's in the good cause— This leader of men.

Farewell to the prairies His heart loves the best, And welcome our mountains, The pride of the west. Farewell to the glaciers And cyclones that blow; He's come to the country Where peach orchards grow. Give cheers to the speaker Whose cause is so grand, Hail him with your heart And your voice and your hand. Farewell to all nations, Let joy reign today, Both now and in future Let Bryan hold sway.

There is a noble man and his name is William Bryan. He's come to our home near the sea. He speaks to the crowds from the depths of his heart. In a cause that will make people free. Then lay down your trouble and your woe, Shoot your arrows from a silver bow. There's now no fear among silverites, For it's gone where the gold-bugs go.

Bryan mounted a table, picked up his chair and sat down. He explained that he was not in his usual good health and asked the audience to indulge him in speaking in a sitting posture. He spoke in a sitting posture and in the end of his speech he spoke in a sitting posture. He spoke in a sitting posture and in the end of his speech he spoke in a sitting posture.

THE SCENE BECAME INTERESTING.

The operations of pigs at a newly filled hog trough. Capt. Eggleston had the upper hand, being chairman of the committee. Chas. Nickell was to the fore most of the time by the force of a superior and most cheerful speech.

So far as Bryan was concerned, he was to be knocked off. Robt. Leonard and Col. Crowell, old political chums, have been friendly over the affair. Leonard's enemies and some false friends tried to down him, but in the end Leonard came out on top. He made the best impression on Bryan and the distinguished statesman accepted the invitation to sleep in Leonard's bed and room. Crowell was spending weeks at arduous duties toward capturing Bryan and if reports are true succeeded in making a more dismal failure than any of the others. His work was broken enough, too, to necessitate Mr. Bryan to sit down on him. Leonard "threw himself in sight" with the general demeanor of a painted harlot.

Bryan was lying on his bed in his room when Leonard, strutting with one people under his vest armpits, pompously said to Bryan: "I want to take a square look at you. I'm a lawyer and when we get a witness on the stand the first thing we do is to ask square at how." Bryan remarked he had been on exhibition quite a bit and allowed Leonard to strut and blow. About the next pass Leonard and his pluggers attempted to start a conversation about how great Leonard's name was. Leonard said it didn't interest Bryan. Crowell handed Bryan a typewritten manuscript at the hotel. What the document contained is not generally known, since Crowell has not been to make it public. Some people think that it was a pedigree and eulogy on Crowell. Bryan didn't read it all. After glancing at the document a moment Bryan threw it back to him.

Sweetness and Light.

Put a pill in the pillory if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physics, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness. The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in ours"—gospel or physio-mow-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. There may be power in a pleasant pill. That is the gospel of
