Home of Pre-Historic Man.

Silver Lake Corr. Burns News.]

I will say something about the unknown, at least so far as giving exact data: It's a well known fact that eastern Oregon as a rule is covered with a floor of hard pan ranging from 10 inches to 2 feet below the surface and this hard pan is from 10 to 14 inches thick. I have discovered on the lake beach that we have, that the water has in the last three years washed 100 feet from the bank or surface which composed the hard pan. I find under this hard pan positive evidence of pre-historic man, which settles the fact in my mind that man existed before the last great ice period, that he was here and perhaps witnessed the retreat of the glaciers. I will make a more thorough examination and perhaps may have something to say on the great ice movement and the drift period. GEO. C. DUNCAN.

JOAQUIN MILLER'S FANTASY.

After Death His Body to be Burnt on a Funeral Pyre of His Own Designing.

Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras has perfected all arrangements for his own funeral, and the incineration of his mortal remains when his death comes.

If his wishes are carried out his body will burned upon a funeral pyre of his own building. On the top of an eminence back of Fruitvale, a suburb of Oakland, California, the quaint man of letters has built his bier. It is a solid mass of masonry covering a space of 10x10 feet and standing 8 feet high. It is composed of 620 granite bowlders set in cement.

The queer structure is approached by three immense steps laid across the entire west frontage, and of sufficient height to permit bearers to place a body on the top of the heap. The upper surface is hollowed out to the depth of two feet in the shape of a coffin. This space will be filled with wood and the body of the poet will be placed on top of it. The structure has been built so that a good draft will fan the flames when the torch is applied and assure the cremation of the body. The ashes of the poet will mingle with the ashes of the faggots to be scattered to the 32 points of the compass by the winds that play about the "The Heights." This is the end the poet of the Sierras has designed for himself.

One Minute Cough Cure surprises people by its quick cures and children may take it in large quantities without the least danger. It has won for itself the best reputation of any preparation used today for colds, croup, tickling in the throat or obstinate coughs. T. K. Bolton and Telephone Drug Store

HERBACEOUS PHOTOGRAPHY.

The Juices of Certain Fruits Can Be Made to Take the Place of Nitrate of Silver.

H. N. Toply, of the department of the interior in Ottawa, who discovered recently a method of developing negatives without the use of a dark room, has discovered that the printing of photographs is not dependent on nitrate of silver. Heretofore the nitrate has had to be used in all prints, but Mr. Toply says that the juices of certain fruits are equally as good, if not better than the nitrate for photographic printing purposes. By means of this discovery a photograph can be printed upon anything—wood, pulp, and paper—which can absorb these juices. The juice is not used just as it comes from the fruit, but it is subjected to a process which Mr. Toply, of course, desires to keep to himself at present. He has been engaged in the development of the process for five years, says the New York Sun.

His attention was first directed to the possibility of "herbaceous photography," as he calls it, by the withering of the white pine, which becomes a very dark gray under sunlight. A piece of planed pine was placed under the negative and exposed to sunlight without treatment, and a permanent print on wood was obtained. Mr. Toply followed up this discovery by a series of experiments with the juices of fruits, which he found would not only turn dark gray, but would become jet black in sunlight. The process is so simple that were it brought into general use the price of photographs would be reduced to a minimum.

Be not deceived! A cough, hoarseness or croup are not to be trifled with. A dose in time of Shiloh's Cure will save you much trouble. Sold by T. K. Bolton.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Pendleton East Oregonian, Dem.]

The Portland Telegram announces that Mr. Corbett is the logical candidate for the United States senate in 1091; that he is the "grand old man of Oregon," and that he must be made the colleague of Mr. Simon when the legislature meets in January of 1901. It is a shame to hold the bauble any longer before the eyes of the "grand old man of Oregon." He has already given up enough, and to make him disgorge any more of his thousands would be adding to shame the element of disrespect to old age. Mr. Corbett has done very nicely, from a republican standpoint. He has furnished plenty of "sound money" to save Oregon from disgrace. Now, to plan to hold him up for any more would constitute an imposition on a fine old gentleman and a liberal party funds contributer. For the sake of common decency, don't do it. Mr. Corbett has done his share. Search around for some other credulous old gentleman, imbue him with the idea that his country needs him, get hold of his bank book and make him sign blank checks, hire a young Portland business man to travel over the state and fix the legislature for someone else with the new victim's money, go to Salem and beat the credulous old victim, and then elect someone else, but don't work old Mr. Corbett for any more money. Respect for old age demands this concession to Mr. Corbett, and in the moment of victory over an old gentleman who paid your bills and made you great, have sufficient of magnanimity to spare him further being the laughing stock of a whole state.

Coquille Bulletin.]

The delinquent tax list of Josephine county appears in the last issue of the Grants Pass Observer. It covers about 125 inches of regular newspaper space. Strange, citizens in all parts regard the payment of taxes as merely an act of charity, when in fact their settlement works more for good government, and this doubly to their benefit, than the clearing away of any other debt known.

Portland Welcome.]

Instead of being paid for their anarchy, the men who held up the last legislature ought to have been severely punished for the violation of their sacred oaths of office. But "a fellow-feeling makes us wonderous kind," and so these political rescals are paid for revolutionary asinity.

Coquille Bulletin.]

It will probably never be known whether the legislature or Joseph Simon administered the fatal solar plexus blow to old man Corbett's senatorial aspirations.

YORK'S ∴ PRACTICAL ∴ SCHOOL
Normal Academy
AND Business Institute,
Stockton, Cal.

This School is the result of a successful experience in all the grades of the public schools for a term of thirty years. It was not instituted as a mint in which to amass a fortune. I don't want a thousand pupils, with a regiment of teachers.

I don't teach two hundred branches. I don't advertise on barns and fences. My school is a plain, practical, common sense school. I teach all English branches from the bottom up, thoroughly and well, with daily reviews, until perfection is secured. My pupils for certificates for the Civil Service, for West Point, for the Normal Academy never fail; and my bookkeepers never have to hunt a job.
